CHINESE WILL REJECT RUSSIA'S ULTIMATUM; APPEAL TO U. S. HINTED

Nationalists' Government Probably Will Make Counter-Proposal.

BOTH NATIONS WANT TO AVERT CONFLICT

LEAGUE PLANNING BELATED GESTURE

China Claims That Soviet Has Broken Faith on Propaganda.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Nationalist China will reject Soviet Russia's ultimatum, according to the most reliable information obtainable here. The terms of the ultimatum make acceptance unthinkable to the Chinese.

But the Chinese government probably will make a counter-proposal to Russia, couched in conciliatory terms and designed to pave the way for Sino-Russian negotiations over the Chinese-Eastern Railway controversy. If the Russian threats are for the purpose of initiating negotiations on even terms and if Russia is willing to abandon her demands respecting release of Russian citizens and modify the tone and purport of her ultimatum there may still be a chance to avert the serious crisis which has loomed in the Far East.

Though the time of the ultimatum expires tonight, officials here are hopeful for an amicable adjustment of the controversy. The new Chinese government is known to be anxious to avert war and to be willing to discuss methods of peaceful settlement. The Soviet government is anxious—perhaps overanxious—to avert war at almost any price, and under these circumstances officials anticipate a genuine effort toward preservation of peace unless the situation is complicated by unlooked-for factors.

Best Chance for Peace.

The best chance for peace, it is believed, lies in permitting the Chinese and the Russians to work out a solution without the endangering influences of peace pacts or activities by the League of Nations. Reports of mobilization of troops and intimations that both Russia and China are ready to go to war if necessary are having a salutory effect on the situation because neither nation wants to engage in hostilities. On the other hand, reports that both nations have signed the Kellogg peace pact and that one or the other would refrain from war even under provocation are apparently adding to the danger of an open conflict.

If Nationalist China becomes convinced that Russia will refrain from war in deference to any peace pact, the Chinese will press their anti-Soviet campaign to such a point that hope of really preserving peace will be practically gone. On the other hand, it is admitted that if the Russians believe that China will place the issue of peace above the critical issues now raised by the controversy, the Soviet campaign of insisting upon aggressive tactics may precipitate a conflagration within the next few days.

Reports from London state that the League of Nations is at last beginning to realize that its inactivity in the crisis is arousing widespread comment. Accordingly, the league is now considering some gesture which will show that it still exists as a paper agency for maintaining the peace of the world. The suggestions include communications to both Russia and China although Russia is not a member of the league. The covenant makes disputes between all nations, whether members of the league or not, matters of concern to the league.

Too Late For Benefit.

According to diplomats here, it is far too late for the League of Nations to be of any benefit to the nations in controversy even if such benefit might have been possible by earlier action. A communication from the league might now make matters more dangerous because neither Russia nor China would take such a communication seriously and either nation might use attempted league interference as a means of stirring up popular indignation against the other.

The Chinese government has not taken the Russian ultimatum very seriously, according to diplomatic advices. The fear which the Chinese once had of Russia has disappeared entirely since the Soviet government initiated the police of using peace and communist propaganda as weapons of defense. Having raided the Soviet government's embassy, killed the Soviet consul and established a long line of precedents in dealing harshly with Soviet interests and Soviet officials, the Chinese realize that all such acts may be performed with impunity and apparently there is no reason for the Chinese to expect anything but complacent resignation on the part of the Soviet government.

From the Chinese standpoint, the Russians have been retaliating with

REPORT ON ANDERSON CASE GIVEN CARAWAY

Convicted Policeman Asserted That He Was "Framed," Senator Reveals.

PROMISE OF HELP DENIED

Returning to Washington yesterday, Senator Caraway (Democrat), of Arkansas, revealed that before he left here Policeman Joseph W. Anderson complained to him that he had been "framed" because he had accused other officers of accepting graft.

Caraway asked Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, for a full statement of the facts in Anderson's case, and this has been sent to him. At a late hour yesterday, however, Caraway had not read the statement.

The prospect is that when the Arkansas senator does read it he will decide not to help Anderson. It is known that he was not greatly impressed with the latter's story.

Since Anderson saw Caraway, he has been found guilty of two charges by the Police Trial Board and has been recommended for dismissal from the force. He has noted an appeal, but the Commissioners have not yet acted on it.

The trial board found Anderson guilty of conduct prejudicial to the good order and discipline of the force and of insubordination. The first charge was placed against him after he had failed to produce satisfactory evidence to back up his graft accusations.

Senator Caraway, who was largely responsible for bringing former Capt. Guy E. Burlingame to trial, denied yesterday that he had promised to help Anderson. All he did, he said, was to promise to look into the facts in the case.

"There never was a police force of several hundred men in which there were not irregularities," Caraway said. "But I think the Washington force is, on the whole, good."

In the report which he sent to Senator Caraway, Maj. Pratt gave the entire history of the case, beginning with Anderson's appearance before the Trial Board, June 6, on a charge of failing to pay a just debt. At that time, Pratt said, Anderson made the following statement:

"Inspector, I can not pay $1,500 in a month. I am not taking graft like

Kellogg Pact Held to Tie Hands of Moscow in Dispute.

KARAKHAN OPPOSES AID FROM AMERICA

Pronouncement by China Expected Within Few Days.

EXTENSION OF LIMIT On REPLY IS LIKELY

Normal Service Maintained on Railway Which Is Cause of Row.

London, (Tuesday) July 16 (A.P.).—The Mail today prints a dispatch from Riga, Latvia, citing local Soviet officials to the effect that the Russian foreign office is discussing a proposal by Maxim Litvinoff, commissar of foreign affairs, who now is on leave, that the United States be asked to help settle the railway dispute with China because the Kellogg pact ties the hands of Russia.

It was stated that M. Karakhan, the assistant commissar, who has been handling the matter, opposes the proposal of Litvinoff.

The dispatch says military authorities scout the possibility of war and declare that the general food shortage in Russia would make it impossible to feed a Soviet army in the Far East.

Armored Trains on Patrol.

Shanghai, July 15 (A.P.).—Dispatches from Nanking tonight to the Kuomin, an official news agency, stated that Kuomintang leaders, in discussing the crisis with Soviet Russia over the Chinese Eastern Railway in Manchuria, asserted that a pronouncement of the Chinese government's policy was expected "within a few days."

The ministry of railways, the dispatches added, had reports from Harbin, Manchuria, that normal passenger and freight service was being maintained on the Chinese Eastern Railway, despite "wholesale changes in railway personnel."

Additional troops, it was stated, were garrisoning various important points along the railway, and six armored trains were patrolling the entire line between Harbin and Manchuli—from central Manchuria to the border of Manchuria and Siberia.

Extension on Reply Seen.

Moscow, U. S. S. R., July 15 (A.P.).—A delay in transmission of the Soviet note to China on the Chinese Eastern Railway question in Manchuria seemed likely tonight to lead to an extension of the three-day limit for a reply.

The foreign office today published a statement from the Chinese representative here notifying them that the note was translated into Chinese on Saturday night and filed by telegraph to Nanking with a request to relay it to provincial officials at Mukden, since there was no direct communication. More than 24 hours were thus lost in transmission.

M. Serebriakov, a member of the railroad commissariat, has applied to the Chinese Legation here for a visa, but this was said to be withheld under instructions from Nanking. He desired to go to Manchuria to open negotiations on the question.

There was much excitment in Moscow throughout the day, many workers paraded in the streets with red banners and bands blaring revolutionary airs. They carried huge streamers with slogans demanding a determined stand

A. A. A. Loses First Skirmish In Potomac Traffic Fight

Legal Battle Is Aimed to Prevent Mayor From Serving as Magistrate and to Stop Arrests Outside of Limits of Town.

A legal battle aimed to prevent the mayor of Potomac, Va., from serving as magistrate in trials of traffic law violations and also to prohibit Potomac policemen from making traffic arrests outside the town limits was instituted last night by the American Automobile Association.

The first skirmish was fought in the tiny courtroom of the town, located in the rear of the Potomac fire engine house, and resulted in defeat of the association.

While driving along the Washington-Alexandria pike on Sunday night, Joseph C. Manian, of 621 Nineteenth street northwest, was placed under arrest by Policemen W. B. Wright and G. W. Embrey, of Potomac. Manian was caught financially embarrassed and was forced to leave a watch and chain, which he valued at $75, in lieu of $16 collateral, to secure his release. Upon his return to the city, he immediately returned to Potomac and substituted the $16 for his watch and chain.

Manian reported his case to the association. Charles C. Collins and Albert E. Brault, members of the association counsel, invaded the tiny courtroom last night to defend Manian on a reckless driving charge.

Both Wright and Embrey testified that they arrested Manian for driving at a speed above 40 miles an hour. They both admitted that the alleged traffic offense and the arrest occurred outside of the town limits.

On the strength of the policemen's admissions, Collins sought two directed verdicts of acquittal, one on the ground that the policemen exceeded their authority in making the arrest outside of the Potomac jurisdiction and the other on the ground that Virginia law, in fixing the salary of the mayor, prohibited him from presiding in traffic cases.

Walter V. Varney, the town prosecuting attorney, answered that the policemen were justified in their action be-

HOOVER PLACES FARM QUESTION BEFORE BOARD

FACT DETERMINATION IS CALLED CHIEF AIM

Adjustment of Production as Aid to Marketing Will Be Sought.

HIGHER WHEAT PRICE CAUSE OF OPTIMISM

Commodity to Receive Initial Attention of Body Is Speculative as Yet.

(By Associated Press.)

The Federal Farm Board, created by Congress after years of dispute, assembled yesterday and was charged by President Hoover with responsibility for a solution of America's long standing and vexatious agricultural problem.

At the end of the first day's conferences, begun at a meeting with Mr. Hoover in the cabinet room of the White House, the chairman of the board, Alexander H. Legge—a Chicago business man—announced that "we are going to work long and hard." Saying there were no promises, he expressed hope that the board could organize agriculture to permit application of its work to this year's crops.

Most of the day was occupied with routine business. Chris L. Christensen, chief of the cooperative marketing division of the Department of Agriculture, was selected as secretary to the board.

The program of "long and hard" work mentioned by Legge was initiated by employment of office personnel. The chairman said the board would meet tomorrow and indicated night sessions were in order. Little hope for important news announcement was held out, however. The board members were invited to dinner last night at the White House.

Purpose of Board Defined.

In his prepared statement to the board, the President defined its fundamental purpose as "to determine the facts and to find solution to a multitude of agricultural problems."

He cited these problems: "To more nearly adjust production to create permanent business institutions for marketing which, owned and controlled by the farmers, shall be so wisely devised and soundly founded and well managed that they, by effecting economies and giving such stability, will grow in strength over the years to come."

"Through these efforts," Hoover added, "we may establish to the farmer an equal opportunity in our economic system with other industry."

The President said the board members represented the expressed choices of the many farmers' cooperative organizations. He invested tehm "with responsibility, authority and resources such as have never before been conferred by our Government in assistance to any industry."

The seven board members and Secretary Hyde of the Department of Agriculture, also a member, assembled early at the White House. An eighth man is to be selected, one to represent the vast wheat industry, but lack of unanimity among the wheat growers and other factors are delaying a selection.

Optimistic Over Wheat.

Mr. Legge said no assumptions were in order as to which commodity would receive first attention of the board. Both he and Secretary Hyde expressed optimism over the wheat market price increase today. They attributed this to the "psychological effect" of the farm board's establishment. Mr. Legge adedd that "we have a lucky break at the start, anyway."

The chairman intimated that the representatives of several other commodities besides wheat were placing early claims for a share of the $500,000,000 loan fund at the board's disposal.

Congress already has made $150,000,000 of this fund available, but Mr. Legge said its disposition awaited consideration.

The next few days, he declared, would be spent in organization work and in going over the volume of material submitted to the board. Asked if the board had received some voluntary "cures for the farmer," Mr. Legg replied "Many."

"And when you run out I have a few bales on hand," added Secretary Hyde.

Must Study Act.

The chairman hinted the board was going to have to do some studying to determine the full extent of its authority under the act recently passed by Congress giving it administrative charge of a Federal marketing system.

Before an organization is set up, advisory councils are to be chosen for each commodity. These councils will preside over stabilization corporations which are to be formed by the producers through their cooperative marketing organizations.

Other members of the board are: James C. Stone, Lexington, Ky., vice chairman, representing tobacco; Carl Williams, Oklahoma City, Okla., cotton; C. B. Denman, Farmington, Mo., live stock; Charles C. Teague, Los Angeles, fruit farming; William F. Schilling, Northfield, Minn., dairying, and Charles S. Wilson, Hall, N. Y., miscellaneous northeastern agriculture.

Farm Board Members Leave Wives at Home

(Associated Press.)

Hastening to Washington to tackle the agricultural problem, members of the farm board have left their wives behind them.

This developed yesterday when President Hoover, after meeting with the newly-organized board, invited the members to have dinner with himself and Mrs. Hoover at the White House last night. He added that if the members had their wives here they should bring them to the dinner.

There was a moment of silence. The members looked questioningly at each other around the Cabinet table, and then announced unanimously that they were not accompanied by their wives.

HIGHT HEADS GROUP THAT BUYS WILLARD

IMPROVEMENTS PLANNED

Negotiations for the transfer of the Willard Hotel in this city from the Boomer-du Pont Properties Corporation to Frank S. Hight and a group of associates, as announced exclusively in The Washington Post on June 19, were consummated yesterday.

The change of ownership was made public by Mr. Hight in his position as president of the new company, which will be known as "The Willard, Inc.," following his service as manager of the present hotel since its erection in 1901.

The amount involved in the transaction was not revealed, nor were the names of the associates. The formal typewritten statement of Mr. Hight, however, declared that the Willard will be conducted as an independent hotel, following its ownership and operation for the last eight years by the Boomer-du Pont interests, parent company of the Capitol Hotel Co., under whose name the Washington property has been listed.

"A plan for material improvement of the hotel is being worked out and will be put into effect in the near future," Mr. Hight stated.

The deal automatically severs the Willard from its affiliation as a member of a well-known chain of hostelries which included the Waldorf-Astoria, in New York City; the Du Pont Hotel, in Wilmington, Del., and the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, in Philadelphia.

Announcement that the negotiations were in progress was made to The Post last month by L. M. Boomer, as head of the Boomer-du Pont Properties Corporation. He tentatively scheduled the deal to be completed this month, but declined to make public other details or to name the individuals seeking the property. In a long distance conversation with The Post last night from his home in New York Mr. Boomer professed no knowledge of the names of persons in the sale other than Mr. Hight, who could not be reached in his absence from the city.

"I can not make public the consideration, but I can say that the Boomer-du Pont interests are not seeking any other hotel in Washington, at least not at this time," Mr. Boomer announced.

For several weeks prior to Mr. Boomer's first announcement that negotiations for the sale of the Willard were under way, rumors had been current here that a group of prominent Washington men were bidding for the hotel, but Mr. Boomer would not discuss the verity of the reports.

The Willard, occupying a valuable site at the northwest corner of Pennsylvania avenue and Fourteenth street northwest, is one of the most celebrated hotels in the world by virtue of the unique history of its own structure and that of its predecessors dating back to Joshua Tennison's Hotel, built in 1818. In turn came John Strother's Mansion House, which in 1824 was taken over by Basil Williamson. Azariah Fuller in 1833 changed its name to the American House, in 1836 it was the site of the Postoffice Department for several years, and in 1843 it became known as the City Hotel. In 1847 the original Willard's was reared to begin its more than half-century existence which continued until 1901, when the first section of the present edifice was built.

Many celebrated national and international figures sojourned at the hotels on its site through the years and its scroll of guests reads almost like a historic "Who's Who." Among the foremost of the list were Presidents Taylor, Fillmore, Pierce, Buchanan, Lincoln, Grant, Harding and Coolidge; and Vice Presidents Hendricks, Marshall and Dawes, among others.

Pennsylvania Passenger Train Crashes Freight

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 15 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgher, eastbound Pennsylvania Railroad passenger train, crashed into a derailed freight train at Hillside, near Derry, Westmoreland County, late tonight, according to a report to the local offices of the company. The offices said it was unknown whether anyone was injured.

Mayflower Stricken From Navy Register

The U. S. S. Mayflower, the yacht formerly used by the Presidents of the United States on their pleasure cruises down the Potomac, was stricken yesterday from the Navy Register.

The yacht is tied up at the Philadelphia Navy Yard, where it was taken some months ago for decommissioning. After being dismantled the ship will be sold.

LOBBY SWARMS INFEST CAPITOL, CARAWAY SAYS

Senator Plans to Demand Investigation Into Their Activity.

CHARGES THEY GRAFT UPON THEIR BACKERS

Congress Members Daily 'Sold Behind Backs,' Arkansan Avers.

MANY TARIFF GROUPS NOW HARD AT WORK

Crusader Describes Methods by Which Lobbyist Employers Are Hoodwinked.

Declaring that the "corridors of the Capitol are swarming with tariff lobbyists" and that hundreds of other representatives of various groups are "grafting upon their supporters" and "selling senators behind their backs," Senator Caraway (Democrat), Arkansas, yesterday announced that he will demand a general investigation of lobbying in Washington as soon as the Senate convenes on August 19.

The investigation he proposes is one which, if made, will involve an inquiry into such organizations as the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, the Antisaloon League, the American Federation of Labor, the National Association of Manufacturers, and a score of others, although, Senator Caraway said, his proposal is not aimed primarily at such gruops.

The senator has a resolution upon which he will demand action as soon as possible, he said, which would authorize the appointment of a special senatorial investigating committee. This committee would be instructed and empowered to investigate:

Scope of Proposed Inquiry.

"The activities of these lobbying associations and lobbyists.

"To ascertain of what their activities consist, how much and from what source they obtain their revenues.

"How much of these moneys they expend and for what purpose and in what manner.

"What effort they put forth to affect legislation."

It is known that several other senators, including Walsh (Democrat), Massachusetts; Norris (Republican), Nebraska, and La Follette (Republican), Wisconsin, are interested in having a thorough inquiry into the lobbying activities in Washington. Some of them, during the last few months have been engaged in a systematic collection and compilation of information regarding the activities of the lobbying groups.

Lobbyist Method Explained.

Senator Caraway does not, as some other senators do, regard the tariff lobby as the most objectionable of its class, even though its representatives are now "swarming" about the Capitol. Persons who come to Washington from various States frankly representing certain interests are not so objectionable, he said, as are the horde of legislative agents of all kinds of associations who are resident in Washington the year around and who make their living by convincing members of their organizations that they can influence legislation.

"They are selling senators and representatives behind their backs a dozen times a year," he said.

"When a certain bill is coming up," he declared, "I could sit down and predict how 90 per cent of the members of the Senate are going to vote and

Bystander Is Wounded When Hollywood Theater Bandits and Bank Messenger Exchange Bullets; Companions of Man Seized Escape With Money.

Hollywood, Calif., July 15 (A.P.).—After he was held up by three men on Hollywood boulevard today and robbed of $15,000, U. A. Crowley, bank messenger disregarded a command to surrender and put up a fight which resulted in his capturing one of the robbers. The man captured gave the name of Lawrence McMullen, 27.

In an exchange of shots between the messenger and the holdup men, James Thorpe, 23-yeaf-old Mormon missionary, who was standing near the scene of the robbery, was slightly wounded.

A few minutes after Crowley had left the Chinese theater, one of the largest motion picture houses in the film colony, the men approached him with drawn revolvers. He had collected Sunday receipts from several theaters. Disregarding a command to surrender, Crowley threw the bag in a nearby automobile and attempted to draw his own gun.

The holdup men fired at Crowley, but missed. One of the men then leaped into the car and took the bag of money and ran. Crowley pursued and captured McMullen and turned him over to the police. A search for the other two men and the money began at once.

Thorpe was taken to a hospital, where it was said his wound was minor. He was standing in the center lobby of the theater when hit.

A few minutes after the robbery a party of Ohio tourists telephoned police that two men resembling those who robbed Crowley dashed out of an alley near the Chinese theater, fired two shots at their car and after forcing the tourists out, the robbers fled in it.

McMullen was booked by police on a charge of suspicion of robbery while a search got under way for the other two men.

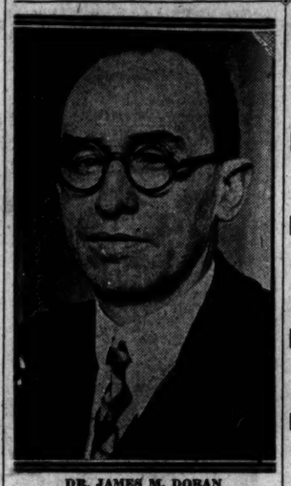
6 DISTILLERIES TO MAKE RUM BY U. S. ORDER



DR. JAMES M. DORAN

Nation's Supply of Liquor Is Falling Short of Medical Needs.

DORAN MAKES SURVEY OF STOCK ON HAND

Permits Will Be Issued Soon After Inventory Is Completed.

PERMANENT OPERATION OF PLANTS IS ASSURED

Maximum of Two Million Gallons Expected as Yearly Output.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The legal manufacture of liquor in this country, for the first time since prohibition, will be started in the next few months, it was made known at the Treasury yesterday. The Treasury has come to the definite conclusion that despite the dry hullabaloo bound to be raised with the announcement of the policy, distilleries must be reopened to replenish the Nation's failing medicinal supply.

Formal announcement of the definite policy and the reasons for it probably will be made in the next two weeks.

Dr. James M. Doran, commissioner of prohibition, is having a survey made of the liquor stock on hand. At the conclusion of this survey permits will be issued to about six distilleries to resume the manufacture of bourbon and rye. When these distilleries are reopened they will operate permanently, all of them to manufacture some 1,500,000 or 2,000,000 gallons of liquor a year.

Allocations of the amount each distillery may manufacture is to be determined. They will be made when the survey of stock on hand is completed.

Andrews View Discarded.

The Treasury has definitely turned thumbs down on the proposal of Lincoln C. Andrews, advanced when he was prohibition generallissimo, that the Government manufacture the necessary liquor. This proposal raised such a hue and cry that it was promptly put away in the files and it in fact delayed the start of the Nation's medicinal stocks.

The Volstead act virtually makes it incumbent upon the Treasury to arrange for the manufacture of liquor in sufficient quantities to insure an adequate medicinal supply. It expressly prohibits importations for this purpose, or for any other purpose.

It is estimated that there are approximately 8,000,000 gallons on hand now, sufficient, according to the Treasury, for a five years' supply. It is estimated that the medicinal requirements are approximately 1,500,000 gallons a year.

There is considerable question, however, about the 8,000,000 gallons on hand or the five years' medicinal supply. This estimate is based on reports that there were 10,000,000 gallons on hand June 30, 1928. Recently there have been some startling disclosures of unexplained leakages and evaporations. In fact, in the Chicago area, considerable quantity of the stock was found to have been watered. Reports expected in the next two weeks, however, will give the exact amount on hand.

Must Be Four Years Old.

The accepted medical authority and the practice in the trade has been that liquor to be of medicinal value must be aged 4 years. Some medical authorities insist it should be aged longer, but with the accepted four-year period it is easily seen that manufacture of additional stocks mus the begun this year if the country is not to run out of its medicinal supply.

The Treasury's plan is to select about six of the best known distillers, those in whom it has absolute confidence, and turn the business over to them, under regulation of course.

KING RALLIES AFTER ABSCESS OPERATION

DOCTORS' TILT REPORTED

London, July 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—King George V underwent an operation this morning at Buckingham Palace, as planned, and tonight, after the Prince of Wales, the Duke of York, the Duke of Connaught and the doctors had visited the monarch his condition was pronounced semiofficially as entirely satisfactory.

The bulletin describing the operation, signed by five doctors, stated: "Portions of two ribs were removed in order that the circumscribed abscess, one and one-half inches across, should be directly treated and drained."

Tonight it was learned from good sources that one of the ribs which was cut at the first operation last winter was diseased and that this disease had spread to the end of another rib not touched in the first operation, and a piece of bone had to be taken out of both ribs.

The king came out of the anesthetic more rapidly than usual, which suggests that he wasn't given as much as is customary in such cases, and was very talkative after the operation.

There seems to have been a dispute last week among the king's doctors as to the operation. Several of the doctors wanted to operate last Monday immediately after the thanksgiving service in Westminster Abbey, but others, headed by Lord Dawson of Penn, insisted upon the king being allowed a week in which to recover from the nervous exhaustion incident to that service and his previous semistate procession through London, which, it is said, all the doctors disapproved at the time, but which the king insisted upon.

It is also believed in palace circles that the doctors regret the optimistic note in today's bulletin and in Saturday night's announcement of the operation, issued officially, and that the reason for the extremely reassuring messages is that the king insists that the people should not again be alarmed about him.

Two surgeons, Sir Hugh Rigby and Wilfred Trotter, dressed the king's wound tonight and he is resting comfortably, but it is too soon to state that the situation is entirely satisfactory and there is some concern in informed circles as to his condition.

NEWS of SUBURBAN Washington and the Surrounding States

Appears on Pages 4, 5 and 18 Today.

There are plants available that can be put in condition for $50,000 or $60,000, and recent conferences have assured Treasury officials that the distillers will not mind making the expenditure in the knowledge that their business of supplying the Nation's medicinal supply is to be permanent. To meet the medicinal requirements, it is pointed out, there must be a continuous manufacture once the distilleries are opened, because the pre-Volstead stocks will have been exhausted by the time the first new output is ready, and this output is to be held to the annual medical requirements.

Recent conferences on the subject have included one with R. E. Wathen, of Louisville, formerly head of one of its largest breweries. He is now president of the American Medicinal Spirits Co.

The Volstead act places the burden on the Commissioner of Prohibition, Dr. Doran, of determining when the manufacture of new liquor must begin and the quantities in which it is to be manufactured. Dr. Doran must also say what percentage will be rye and what percentage will be bourbon. It is believed the new stock will be about three-fourths bourbon and one-fourth rye.

Catholic Societies' Convention Opened

National Bodies Choose Baltimore as Next Meeting Place.

Salem, Oreg., July 15 (A.P.).—The business sessions of the seventy-third national convention of the Catholic Central Society of America, and the thirteenth annual convention of the National Catholic Women's Union opened here today with more than 10,000 delegates attending.

The business meeting opened this morning when the new presidents, Willibald Eibner, New Ulm, Minn., of Central Society, and Mrs. Sophia Waverling, Quincy, Ills., of the Women's Union, made committee appointments and announcements.

An address on the "significance of the settlement of the Roman question" by the Rev. Aloysius J. Muench, of St. Francis, Wis., was heard by the conventions this afternoon.

Baltimore was selected unanimously as the 1930 convention city by delegates of both Catholic groups.

The diamond jubilee of the Central Society, which had Baltimore as its birth place, will be celebrated next year. Letters from the Mayor of Baltimore, William F. Broening, and from Archbishop Michael J. Curley, of Baltimore, were read to the delegates.

Air Officer Fined $3,400 on 2 Counts

Pleads Guilty to Absence Without Leave and Drinking Too Much.

Baltimore, Md., July 15 (A.P.).—Lieut. Col. Harry Graham, air officer in command of all the forces under jurisdiction of the Third Corps Area, has been fined $3,400 for absenting himself from his post without leave and drinking to such an extent as to unfit himself for duty, it was said today in a communication reaching the area headquarters here from the War Department.

Col. Graham pleaded guilty to charges that he "did leave Baltimore, Md., without proper leave, absent himself from his command, from April 12 until April 15, * * * and did wrongfully drink intoxicating liquor to such an extent as to render himself unfit for the performance of duty from about April 12 to about April 18, 1929," at a court-martial hearing May 21 here.

The fine will be assessed at once, Baltimore, Md., July 15 (A.P.).—Lieut. dent Hoover having approved.

Col. Graham is a native of Ohio.

500 Flood Victims In Black Sea Area

Thirty Villages Destroyed as Inhabitants Seek Safety in Hills.

Constantinople, July 15 (A.P.).—Five hundred persons were estimated today to have perished in floods in the vicinity of the Black Sea, complicated by landslides due to heavy rainfall.

Thirty villages have been destroyed. At Rizeh, where the damage was very heavy, it was reported today still to be raining, panic-stricken inhabitants were taking refuge from floods and landslides in nearby mountains. The red crescent authorities at Constantinople have organized relief for the stricken areas.

Famed Austrian Poet Dies After Son's Suicide

Vienna, July 15 (A.P.).—Hugo Von Hofmann Stahl, celebrated poet and dramatist, died suddenly at Rodaun, near here, this afternoon after the funeral of his son, Franz, who had committed suicide by shooting.

The son had recently traveled in the United States, and a brother, Raimund, is now in Hollywood, Calif. His suicide became known only today. The father was born in 1874 and his works include Rodauner Nachtrage, Buch der Freunde and Der Turm.

U. S. Minister to Liberia Is Dead After Illness

Chicago, July 15 (A.P.).—W. T. Francis, United States minister to Liberia, died today at Monrovia, Liberia, according to a cablegram received by Dr. L. T. Williams, president of the National Baptist convention.

The minister, according to the message from Mrs. Francis, had been ill about three weeks. He was formerly a St. Paul attorney and was manager of the negro department of Republican headquarters here four years ago for President Coolidge.

Rome Demands Frankness Over Strained Situation. Paris Seems Reticent.

BALKAN POLICY AT ISSUE

Rome, July 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Franco-Italian relations have apparently reached another crisis. Except for a press is silent regarding the situation few opposition journals, the French and the Quai d'Orsay evidently wishes the impression to prevail that its relations with Italy are good. The refusal of Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, to accede to the request of De Beaumarchais, French Ambassador at Rome, for permission to resign from his difficult post here is part of a general tendency to pretend that all is well between the two countries. But that is a diplomatic fiction.

The Italian press and government seem more anxious for a frank avowal of the situation. Both have been stressing differences with France during recent months.

Premier Benito Mussolini said to a distinguished French publicist a few weeks ago, "You ought to say outright that things are not going smoothly, that on this side of the Alps people are not satisfied."

Anti-French Feeling Increases.

It is obvious that anti-French feeling is increasing in Italy. The French seem to nurse the false idea that partial agreements regarding Balkan policy or Italy's demands for ratification of her Libyan colony, which touches France's African empire, and also on the vexed question as to whether Italians in Tunis should retain their nationality, will soothe friction and better Italian feeling. But this is a mistaken idea.

Italy wants entire frankness and a thorough overhauling of all questions now outstanding between the two countries at an early date. The French ambassador here, in his official speech on July 14, France's national holiday, was silent about Franco-Italian relations. Not within memory has the French ambassador failed to say something courteous about this country's relations with his own on such occasions.

Fascists Demand Frankness.

The Fascist government is showing a similar desire for outspoken language on questions connected with the new relationship between Italy and the Vatican State. The head of the government never appears displeased when newspapers here reiterate that friction between the two states does exist.

Journals likely to be read and quoted abroad insist especially on this fact. French Vatican diplomacy, on the other hand, appears to cling to the old policy of pretending that perfect agreement exists when such is far from being the case.

On the whole, the situation promises interesting developments.

Whalen Decrees Drastic Shake-Up

New York Police Set Agog as 33 Subalterns Are Transferred.

New York, July 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The most drastic and extensive stirring up in the police department since he was placed at its head was announced today by Commissioner Whalen. Thirty-three of his higher subalterns were ordered transferred, effective tomorrow at 8 a. m.

The command was ordered with such suddenness that the whole department was agog at the action. All eighteen inspectors were shifted as well as five deputy inspectors and ten captains commanding precincts.

In explaining his sweeping shake-up, Mr. Whalen carefully explained that it had nothing whatever to do with the Marlow murder case.

"The transfer has been ordered," Commissioner Whalen said, "because there has been a distinct indication that the higher officers have been falling into routine. They are showing evidence of slowing up. The direct reason for the change is so that every inspector may be on his toes and clean up his district."

99 Americans Start Russian Inspection Tour

Berlin, July 15 (A.P.).—Ninety-nine American business men, lawyers, engineers and newspaper editors, some with their wives and families, left tonight for a 30-day trip of inspection to Russia. Traveling by special train under joint management of the American-Russian Chamber of Commerce and the American Express Co., they will visit all of the more important industrial centers of European Russia.

The Russian promoters of the tour are hopeful that it may prove the precursor of a new and bigger era of business between the United States and Soviet Russia. The women of the party were instructed to leave behind their silks and satins, evening gowns and other finery, which have no place in the proletarian republic, while the men were requested not to introduce such bourgeois accoutrements as top hats, canes and evening dress.

Man Kills Wife, Self As Children Look On

Fayette, Ala., July 15 (A.P.).—The children of Louis G. Nichols, 50-year-old farmer, residing near here, saw him cut their mother's throat and then take his own life at their residence today. Mrs. Nichols died instantly, the jugular vein being severed. Nichols fired a shotgun charge into his breast, walked to the back porch and fell over dead.

The children, three of whom are married, said Nichols and his wife continued a domestic quarrel begun yesterday when the family assembled for breakfast. The meal completed, they charged, the father and husband attacked Mrs. Nichols with a pocket knife and then ran to the back yard where he killed himself. Officers declared the case one of murder and suicide.

Halting Car on Suspicion Of Rum Called Outrage

Buffalo, N. Y., July 15 (A.P.).—Halting a man on the highway by State troopers on suspicion that he was violating the Volstead act, just because his face was of rosy hue, was branded today by Federal Judge John R. Hazel as "a shocking outrage."

Two troopers from Batavia barracks testified they stopped Walter Trazak, of Lime Lake, because his countenance was "real red and flushed." They said they found alcohol and beer in his car. Trazak was indicted by the grand jury. Judge Hazel dismissed the indictment and vacated the evidence.

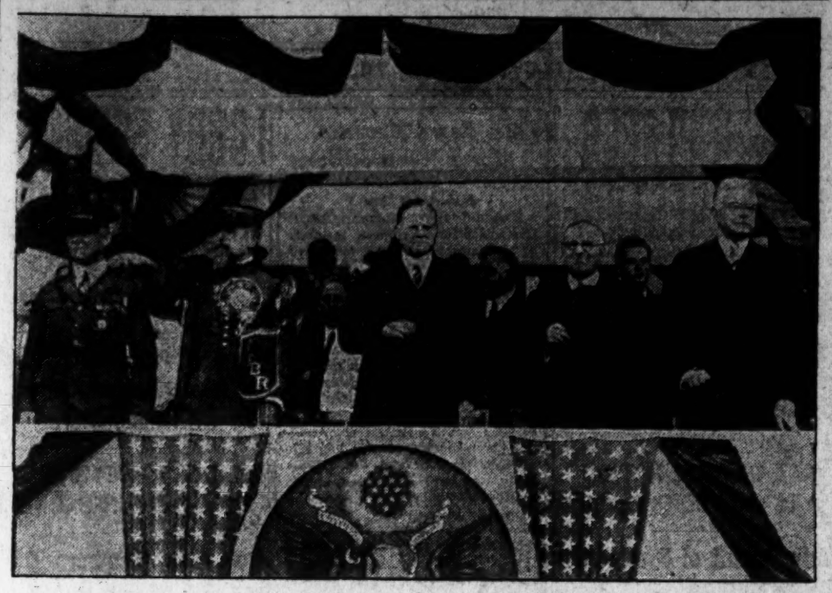
TWO NATIONS' OFFICIALS REVIEW RAINBOW DIVISION



Henry Miller Service.

3 HURT, 75 ESCAPE, AS BUILDINGS FALL

NOON HOUR SAVED MANY

Montgomery, Ala., July 15 (A.P.).—City authorities tonight were making a final check-up to determine definitely whether any of the 75 employes of two Montgomery mercantile establishments which suddenly collapsed shortly after noon today, or any laborers working in an excavation adjoining the structures, are pinned under the debris and wreckage.

With employes of the city engineering department still working desperately at nightfall to clear away the tangled masonry and timbers, leaders of the rescue work stated that so far as they knew, only three persons were injured. They were George Degruchy, manager of the Pizitz department store, and two of his negro employes. The latter were not expected to live.

Collapsing with little warning, the two upper stories of the three-story Pizitz Building crumbled over into the excavation on one side and onto the roof of a one-story shoe store on the other.

Many Have Narrow Escapes.

Employes of the stores made their way through the falling materials after a first crash had trapped some of them in the rear of the buildings and on the second floor of the department store.

Police, firemen and pedestrians managed to free practically every employe before a second crash occurred. Fire Chief Chester L. Ingram and seven firemen were trapped on the second floor of the department store building and escaped injury by flattening themselves against a portion of the rear wall of the building.

A ninth person trapped on the second floor of the structure was Manager Degruchy. Mr. Degruchy said that he was on the third floor when the first crackling noise was heard. He raced to the second floor to give warning to employes of the store and within three minutes, he said, the walls of the building descended on him. He was dragged from the wreckage with a broken arm and a fractured shoulder.

Noon Hour Cut Casualties.

He expressed the belief that his warning and the fact that the collapse occurred during the noon hour, when many of the employes of the stores were at lunch and there was a scarcity of customers, were responsible for the few casualties.

Although they had not reached every employe, Degruchy and the sales manager of the bootery, J. H. McDaniels, felt confident that none had been seriously injured. The confusion, caused by large crowds that congested the streets up until late in the day, prevented an accurate check.

Damage to both structures was estimated at a quarter of a million dollars.

Macedo, Mexican Banker, Dead.

Mexico City, July 15 (A.P.).—Miguel H. Macedo, 73 years old, one of Mexico's greatest banking authorities and a noted jurist, died last night. He was president of the Mexican Bar Association, rector of the National Law School of the National Bank Commission and secretary of the second Pan-American conference. He also has held government posts.

Mrs. Gann Declined Rum As Guest of Sir Esme

Lexington, Ky., July 15 (A.P.).—The dinner given by Sir Esme Howard at the British Embassy in Washington recently which decided the social controversy as to where Mrs. Dolly Curtis Gann, sister and official hostess for the Vice President, should sit, also revealed Mrs. Gann's attitude on liquors served at embassy dinners.

The Kentucky Woman's Christian Temperance Union wrote an inquiry to Mrs. Gann asking for a "frank statement." The correspondence was made public today.

"Did you, for the honor and dignity of your country, decline liquors at Esme Howard's dinner?" Mrs. Gann was asked.

"I did decline," she replied.

CADET ON WAY HOME, WEST POINT THINKS

PARENTS NOT NOTIFIED

West Point, N. Y., July 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Stacy B. Gunderman, 18 years old, who has been absent without leave from the United States Military Academy since last Friday, is thought to be on his way home to Hollidaysburg, Pa., it became known today. Neither authorities at the Academy, which he entered July 1, nor his parents have heard from him. Without money, unless he held some out contrary to regulations, the plebe probably is "beating" his way home, it is thought. When he left he was in the regulation cadet gray shirt and trousers.

Three or four plebes resign each year before the end of the first month, which is considered the hardest of the four years, it was said at the Academy today. The stiff schedule, starting at 5:50 a. m., and continuing until supper at 6, with taps at 9:30, includes infantry drill, calisthenics and athletics, the cleaning of the cadet's room and the making of his own bed. The only entertainment of the day is afforded by motion pictures or walking about the grounds after supper.

When Gunderman is arrested and returned to West Point he will face Lieut. Gen. R. C. Richardson, in charge of cadets, and William R. Smith, superintendent of the Academy. They will hear his story and then determine whether he is to be dismissed or disciplined by loss of privileges and liberties for a period. Gunderman was graduated from the Hollidaysburg High School last month and entered West Point with 412 others just two weeks ago.

Nobody remembers when, if ever before, a cadet went A. W. O. L., Capt. W. H. Wells, intelligence officer, said.

POPE IN CONSISTORY SHUNS STATE ISSUES

NEW CARDINAL APPOINTED

Rome, July 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Pope's extremely short address at today's consistory surprised Rome. Fascist newspapers had foretold important utterances regarding the situation arisen out of the concordat between the Vatican state and the Italian government.

Instead, the Pope opened his allocution to the cardinals by saying he would not touch the church's most important affairs, but would reserve his remarks upon those subjects for some future occasion which will certainly arise soon during his jubilee year.

Considerable speculation has arisen as to why the Pope abstained from speaking about the things he conceded were very important. The consistory always is chosen as the proper audience for hearing his important utterances of opinion.

Well-informed spheres surmise he does not wish to fan the fires of controversy between his own and the Italian press just before his leaving the Vatican for the first time July 25. True to his oft-expressed anxiety to seek and insure peace, the pontiff has determined upon a solemn ceremony which will take place in an atmosphere of peace and religious devotion.

The Osservatore Romano, the papal press organ, has been carrying on for some time a lively polemic with the semiofficial Italian tribune. The point of contention is the Osservatore's criticism of the government's sequestrating two Catholic papers at Vicenza and Milan which commented upon the Pope's notable letter to Cardinal Gasparri.

The chief cause for friction remains the difference between the Pope and Premier Mussolini in their conceptions of the church's responsibility in the education of the youth.

The Pope appointed a new cardinal, Father Ildefonso Schuster, abbott of the Basilica of St. Paul's outside the walls.

Alleged Attacker Of Father Flees

Youth Escapes Police After Being Charged With Shooting Relative.

Shelby, N. C., July 15 (A.P.).—Police today are searching for Perry Philbeck, 17 years old, who yesterday escaped from them after being taken into custody on a charge of shooting his father, John Philbeck, 40, in the shoulder.

Details of the shooting reveal that the boy became enraged when his father refused to allow him to use the family automobile.

Young Philbeck had agreed to accompany the officers to jail, but eluded the police on the way. The elder Philbeck is in a hospital here and physicians say he will recover. His face, neck and shoulder are peppered with shot, physicians stated.

Driver Blown to Pieces When Powder Explodes

Scranton, Pa., July 15 (A.P.).—Peter Weir, 50, of Moosic, was killed today shortly after noon, when a wagon on which he was hauling 2,500 pounds of powder from the du Pont Powder Mills at Moosic, near here, blew up. Weir's body was blown to pieces, one of the horses he was driving was killed and the other had to be shot. The explosion occurred on the du Pont property and could be heard for miles. The cause was undetermined.

The Best Lemonade You Ever Drank

Over a pound of sugar, grate the rind of several whole lemons to extract the aromatic oil that gives a particular zest. Squeeze the juice from twelve lemons. Add sugar and let stand for three hours. When ready to serve, add 2 quarts of water. Fill pitcher with large pieces of pure American ice and put a tablespoonful of crushed ice into each glass. Delicious!

For all table uses in the home where the sparkle of ice is desired to add to the appearance or palatability of a dish, the purity of American is its great recommendation.

Deputy Convicted in Killing Of Convict Gets Life Term

Florida Sheriff's Aid Accused of Helping Man Escape From Jail and Then Killing Him for Refusal to Leave State Without His Wife.

Jacksonville, Fla., July 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Chris Stephenson, deputy sheriff in Seminole County, was sentenced to life imprisonment today in Tavares, central Florida, for shooting to death an unarmed convict, Homer Jenkins, whom he had helped to escape from jail at Fort Pierce not many hours before.

Love for Jenkins' wife led Stephenson, married and the father of a daughter, to send six bullets into Jenkins on the shore of a lonely lake near Tavares and then walk away without a backward glance at the man he had killed. They were fired when Jenkins insisted that Mrs. Jenkins should flee the State with him. Stephenson flared into a passion, declaring that Mrs. Jenkins was going to remain in Florida with him.

Stephenson's wife and daughter were in the packed courtroom at Tavares today when the former deputy sheriff was sentenced after pleading guilty to murder in the first degree. They had listened earlier in the trial to amazing testimony of the events leading up to the crime.

Mrs. Jenkins had testified that in order to gain the aid of the deputy in her husband's escape she had been obliged to accept his advances. Other witnesses told the story of the escape itself and of the last tragic scene in Jenkins' life. According to their testimony, Jenkins and his wife, two other convicts and another woman fled from Fort Pierce June 30, driving in the deputy's car all night until they reached Tavares.

There the dispute arose as to whether Mrs. Jenkins should leave the State with her husband or remain with the deputy. Stephenson told the others that he wanted to talk alone with Jenkins. He stopped the car and told the others to drive back a few miles. They didn't go far, however, before they heard shots and drove back to the spot where they had left the two men.

Without looking at Jenkins, dying on the ground at his feet, Stephenson ordered the two other convicts and the two women to drive to the State line. There he ordered the two men to get out of Florida.

Then he went back to Fort Pierce with Mrs. Jenkins. Later Stephenson went to the authorities and told of killing Jenkins, declaring that he had been forced to shoot in self-defense. At his trial, however, he pleaded guilty and threw himself on the mercy of the court.

VETERANS REVIEWED BY HOOVER, GOURAUD

PARADE ENDS REUNION

Baltimore, Md., July 15 (A.P.).—President Herbert Hoover and Gen. Henri Gouraud, today reviewed the veterans of the Rainbow Division who, eleven years ago in the battle of the Champagne, crushed the last great German drive. It was a march of triumph. Soft white caps took the place of the steel helmets of 1918; slender canes, swinging merily, substituted for the rifle and bright colored clothes replaced the olive drab uniform of the A. E. F.

At the head the parade rode Gen. Gouraud, leading the veterans; for it was under his command that they broke the German line. When the head of the column reached the reviewing stand the general joined the President and stood at attention as part of his war time command swung past, his left hand rising and falling in salute; his armless right sleeve swinging in the breeze.

In the parade with the veterans were units of the regular army, members of the First Regiment, Maryland National Guard, and citizen soldiers undergoing their annual summer training period. The procession was more than two miles in length and was viewed by thousands.

The veterans carried with them the original emblem of the division, presented to it in 1917, when the regiment was at Camp Mills.

The streets were lined with packed humanity as the veterans and their more youthful companions of national guardsmen and C. M. T. C. marched through the streets of the downtown section amid a shower of ticker tape, confetti and shredded telephone directories.

From the time Gen. Gouraud, heading the 2-mile-long procession, appeared, the handclapping started, rising to cheers which reached their climax at the reviewing stand in Memorial Plaza, where the commander in chief of all the United States forces stood to watch.

The parade brought the three-day meeting of the veterans to a close and tonight the members of the famous Rainbow went back to their homes. President Hoover returned to Washington immediately after the parade, arriving in the Capital at 5 o'clock.

Eleven Girls Die In 1,000-Foot Fall

22 Hurt as Picnic Truck in Honduras Drops Into Abyss.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, July 15 (A.P.).—A truck bringing high school girls back from a picnic in the country today fell into a 1,000-foot abyss near Sauce, a few miles from here, killing 11 and injuring 22. Several of the injured were near death tonight. The driver, Luis Medina, also was killed.

Many of the girls were of well-known families. All theaters and concerts were suspended and national mourning will be declared for the funeral day.

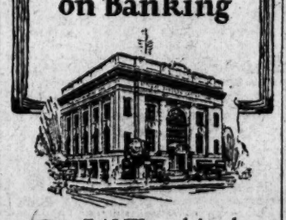
The minister of public works, Salvador Corleto, was seriously injured in attempting to reach the bottom of the abyss to direct the work of extricating the bodies.

Southern Cross to Try East-West Atlantic Hop

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—The Wright Aeronautical Corporation was informed by cable today that Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and C. T. P. Ulm would take off from London for New York in their plane Southern Cross within the next few days.

If they make the perilous westward crossing of the north Atlantic, which both a Polish and a French plane have just failed to do, they will proceed to Oakland, Calif., thus completing their circle around the world begun with their Pacific flight about a year ago.

An Open Book on Banking



A BANK and its depositors have certain obligations to each other.

The bank, on its part, must adhere strictly to the principles of safety—protection of its deposits representing its major obligation.

The bank must lend its funds where they will stimulate industry, but be collectible when due. To encourage unsound plans of borrowers may bring disaster to the man whom the bank desires to help. This bank, therefore, has adopted a policy of "Progressive-Conservatism."

The Depositor—
should make his account valuable to the bank by always keeping balances large enough to compensate the bank for the services it renders.

The Depositor—
who borrows should be entirely frank with his banker in furnishing all the facts about his financial affairs and thus establish the best basis of credit.

WALTHER LEAGUERS ASSAIL DRY KILLINGS

DEFENDS TODAY'S YOUTH

Fort Wayne, Ind., July 15 (A.P.).—Delegates to the thirty-seventh international convention of the Walther League, a young people's organization of the Lutheran Church, were stirred to enthusiasm today by the address of the league president, E. J. Gallmeyer, of Fort Wayne, in which he assailed killings in prohibition enforcement raids. Lutherans, he declared, "believe in regulation through Christian influences and not through a policeman's billy."

The speech of the league president, in the course of which he defended modern youth, brought a round of applause from the convention which is composed largely of young persons. Gallmeyer is engaged in the real estate business in this city. He has been nominated for reelection as president of the Walther League.

The convention program progressed rapidly today with the submission of reports of various officers and governing bodies. The resolutions committee prepared subjects to come before the convention for action probably tomorrow.

Mr. Gallmeyer, in his address, declared the rank and file of the youth of today was as fine and chaste as that of any age. The whole youth movement is far from being jazz-crazy, he said. He expressed a belief that "there is a constant danger of certain groups forcing their conception of morality into laws."

A program for the future work of the league was outlined by the Rev. Erwin Umbach, of Chicago, organization executive secretary.

"Our league," said Mr. Umbach, "has a full program of endeavor that will appeal to every young man and every young woman. As a gauge to determine our measure of league activity an efficiency standard was proposed to our affiliated societies in the last year. Judging by the returns we are still far from that ideal state where the majority of societies are near league perfection."

Prof. E. H. Englebrecht, of Oak Park, Ill., international field secretary, reported that during the past year 87 senior and 41 junior societies were added to the league.

Rev. Paul Miller, of Fort Wayne, chairman of the international executive board, said that in 1,200 cities of the United States and Canada the league was now operating its hospice system which extends aid to young Lutherans who are traveling or who have moved into new localities.

A.A.A. LOSES SKIRMISH IN POTOMAC BATTLE

cause of a town ordinance permitting arrests within a mile of the town and that the mayor was also justified in presiding at the trial because of a town rule granting him such authority.

Mayor Walter B. Fulton, who served as magistrate, dismissed the motion of Collins and imposed a fine of $16 before Manian had a chance to offer a defense.

Collins noted an appeal from the decision, which cost Manian $5 more, and stated he intended to carry the case to the highest courts of Virginia if necessary.

Collins stated that it is the practice in Potomac for the mayor to receive $3, the prosecuting attorney $5, the clerk of the court $1, and each witness 50 cents from such cases.

Potomac, about two years ago, was the scene of another stormy fight by the American Automobile Association. Magistrates of the town, working on a fee basis, were permitted fees only in cases where there were convictions. The association played a prominent part in having the State Legislature change the law so as to permit the magistrates to collect fees in all cases, whether convictions or acquittals resulted.

The Listening Post

—By CARLISLE BARGFRON—

THE Methodist Board of Temperance and Morals will make a serious mistake if it laughs off the efforts of Representative George Holden Tinkham, of Massachusetts, to put it in jail. It does not realize just how determined a fellow Mr. Tinkham is.

Rotund, bewhiskered and genial withal, he bobs up and down in the well of the House like a floating torpedo in a billowy sea. Some day he is going to bob up and strike where serious damage will be done.

He rolled up on the height of a wave when the reapportionment bill was under consideration before the recess and stuck on an amendment denying the South representation for the negroes that it will not permit to vote.

Pursuit of the Methodist board and the befriending of the large number of negro voters in his district are his two very determined purposes in life.

* * * *

IN the heat of the summer of 1928, when the campaign was adding to the humidity over here the representative was sunning himself on the sands of a beach in France. He had traveled thousands of miles by boat and by automobile searching for the spot, a spot where he could rest under an umbrella and listen to the ripple and roar of the waves.

He was enjoying just such a pleasure, with a bathing suit and the umbrella all that was between him and the sun when a messenger boy approached and delivered a telegram. It was from his manager in Boston.

"If you want to return to Congress," it said, "You had better return to Boston."

With not so much as a grunt, Mr. Tinkham lifted himself from his delightful spot, ambled quickly to the hotel and directly to the desk, still in his bathing suit.

"I want reservations," he said unhesitatingly, "on the first boat leaving for the United States."

* * * *

WHEN the war broke out in Europe, Mr. Tinkham went to the Austrian front in search of information and in search of fun. Somebody asked him if he did not want to fire the first gun, and fire the first gun he did. It kicked and broke his arm. The newspapers hinted at an international controversy for a long Europe playing with pieces of cannon. time—what with a neutral over in

At sea, returning to this country, Mr. Tinkham wired the Boston gentlemen of the press that he would arrive at such and such a time and would be available for an interview at exactly that time. Photographs were taken of his arm in a sling.

One newspaper printed the picture so that it showed the right arm in a sling and another one, perhaps diabolically, depicted it as the left arm that was injured. In a subsequent campaign Mr. Tinkham's political enemies showed both pictures around with the suggestion that Mr. Tinkham had been just a faker, that there was nothing wrong with his arm.

The story that is told of one great enjoyment in Mr. Tinkham's life is that once when he was leaving the city for a while, he left his Arlington Hotel apartment and wobbled to the Department of Justice, just next door, to see Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt.

He was going away, he explained, and he wanted the department to be unusually vigilant over his liquor stock, legally acquired and legally possessed. And it is understood that the clever Mrs. Willebrandt assured him that unusual vigilance there would be.

BRITAIN ASKS RUSSIA TO DISCUSS BREACH

BROKEN BY LONDON RAID

London, July 15 (A.P.).—Great Britain has invited Soviet Russia to send a representative to London to discuss with British authorities the resumption of services for diplomatic relations and the renewal of the trade and commercial relations between the two countries, which were broken off by the Conservative government's raid on Arcos House, Russian trade headquarters in London, in 1927.

Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson announced the dispatch of the invitation in reply to questions in the House of Commons today. The Labor government thus definitely makes its anticipated about-face on the Conservatives' policy toward Russia.

The House of Commons will have a chance to debate whatever conclusion the British government may draw from the negotiations Premier Ramsey MacDonald subsequently made plain. No agreement to renew Anglo-Russian relations will become effective without a debate by which each party may register its opinion by a vote.

The premier said last week in the house that the British government was considering publication of the correspondence exchanged between the British and the dominion governments on the question of resuming these relations, but that the proper moment had not then been reached for further consulting the dominions.

Mr. Henderson said today he had nothing to add to the premier's statement of last week.

PROTEST ON TARIFF HEARD IN COMMONS

SALARY INCREASES UP

London, July 15 (A.P.).—The government again was closely questioned in the House of Commons today as to whether it was making representations to the United States concerning increase in tariffs which several members insisted would work injury to British trade.

The questioners failed to elicit anything from the ministers except that W. R. Smith, parliamentary secretary to the Board of Trade, assured them the government had the matter under consideration, although "no representations up to the present have been made to the United States by his majesty's government in the United Kingdom."

Foreign Minister Henderson announced that no decision had yet been reached as to where the governmental conference on the Young reparations report would be held.

The question of increase in ministerial salaries also cropped up on suggestions that the premier appoint a committee of inquiry. Several Labor members intervened with proposals that the committees should examine the possibility of reducing instead of increasing the salaries. Stanley Baldwin and David Lloyd George, the Conservative and Liberal leaders, however, both favored an inquiry into the possibility of an increase. No decision was taken, although the general opinion seemed to be that the salary of the premier was too small.

some of them and get by with it. I can't get by with taking graft. I can't. I am doing all I can do."

Pratt said he detailed Lieut. Joseph Morgan to investigate, and that Morgan called upon Anderson to submit proof of his graft charges by June 21.

"Up to this writing," Pratt told Caraway, "Private Anderson has absolutely failed to submit any information that graft is being paid to any member of this department, except an affidavit made by one Mary Freeman, whose police record is attached hereto."

Woman Charges Graft.

Mary Freeman, the police chief said, had charged that Policeman Gravelly, of the Third Precinct, had received graft money from one "Zack" Wilson. The latter, Pratt said, had been arrested seventeen times in eight years.

"A thorough investigation of the facts contained in the affidavit of Mary Freeman has been made," Pratt said, "and it has been impossible to find a single person to verify the same.

"Due to the character of Mary Freeman and the fact that Private Anderson could produce no witnesses to bear out his allegations, it was not deemed advisable to prepare charges against Private Gravelly, who has been especially active in the enforcement of the prohibition laws.

Charges Served on Anderson.

"You will, I think, agree with me that the statement of the officer alleging graft was entirely too serious a matter to be dropped by the department; therefore, in order that all facts in the case might be properly gone into by a competent body, charges were prepared against and served on Private Anderson on June 24."

In the meantime, Pratt stated, Anderson got into more trouble. When Capt. Stott, commander of the Third Precinct, asked him why he had not been on his beat at Connecticut avenue, Pratt said, Anderson became surly and replied, "That is not for you to know."

Stott suspended him and then cited him for trial on a charge of insubordination. On June 27, he was found guilty on this charge and the one growing out of the graft accusations.

William C. Thompson Is Dead.

Heathsville, Va., July 15 (Special).—William C. Thompson, 68 years old, died Wednesday at his home in Irvington, after a year of ill health. Most of the members of his family were present at the time of his death. He is survived by his widow, three daughters, Virginia, Catherine and Marie, and one son, Will. Funeral services will be held Friday at Irvington Baptist Church.

Heathsville, Va., July 15 (Special).—Mrs. Richard Atkinson Claybrook, of Plainfield, N. J., and Fredericksburg, Va., has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Judith Newton, to Lieut. Charles D. Wheeler, Air Corps, United States Army. The wedding will take place in the fall.

FILIPINO'S FREEDOM PLEA STARTS TEARS

(Associated Press.)

Statistics and technical data were shunted aside by members of the Senate finance committee at its tariff hearings yesterday as a youthful appearing Filipino—with tears in his eyes—pleaded for freedom of the Philippines.

He was Manuel Roxas, speaker of the House of Representatives of the islands and chairman of the Philippine legislative commission, sent to this country to protest the placing of import duties or restrictions on goods from the Archipelago entering the United States.

Roxas objected particularly to testimony by John M. Switzer, of New York, representing the Philippine-American Chamber of Commerce, that the Filipinos wanted independence as a principle but were praying they would not get it. These words were used by Chairman Smoot and Switzer agreed that was the case.

In clear English, Roxas denounced this thought and declared the Filipinos were for independence, "not only on principle, not only because it is a natural yearning of a people to be free, but because we sincerely believe that only in freedom will we be able to work out our destinies."

Tears Punctuate Argument.

"We love freedom," he emphasized as tears rolled down his cheeks and as the eyes of some committee members filled.

"While we are grateful for what the United States has done for us and we love this country, we love our country more and we love freedom more," he added.

Roxas asked that Congress authorize a plebiscite in the islands on the independence question and declared if 90 per cent of the people did not favor freedom, he would abandon his efforts in that direction. He predicted also that if the issue were carried to the American electorate the decision would be overwhelmingly in favor of independence.

The witness declared he had been taught the A B C's on the knees of an American soldier, that he was left fatherless before birth by the "tyranny of Spain," and that each year on the anniversary of the death he swore devotion to the freedom of his country.

Roxas was congratulated on his testimony by both Republicans and Democrats on the committee. Senator Connally (Democrat), Texas, told him that if the islands had "any more like you they would be able to govern themselves."

Proposal Called "Shocking."

Two other members of the special commission will be heard tomorrow.

Chester H. Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, and Charles W. Holman, representing the National Cooperative Milk Producers Federation, precipitated the clash in views by advocating the placing of duties on Philippine products that compete in this country.

Gray contended high rates of duty on agricultural products would be of no assistance to the American farmer as long as imports from the islands are allowed to enter free. Holman urged that if duties are levied against the Philippines, they be segregated and returned to the island government. This is in line with a proposal by the National Grange.

Switzer described Homan's proposal as "perfectly shocking."

"As long as we recognize our obligations to the Philippines," he argued, "our duty is to help them, independence or no independence, and make them prosperous so they can support that splendid superstructure of modern civilization we have set up there."

Trade Policy Approved.

Declaring the existing free trade policy with the islands had been mutually beneficial, Vincente Villamin, Filipino lawyer of New York, opposed restriction of Philippine free-duty sugar imports or the levying of tariffs against her goods.

Gray also asked withdrawal of the power given the President under the flexible provisions to change import levies and establishment of a non-partisan tariff commission with power to make rates subject to review or repeal by Congress.

He urged termination of the preferential trade agreement with Cuba and indorsed the House provision subjecting Canadian wheat milled in bond in this country to a duty equal to any tariff cut granted American flour by a foreign country if such milled in bond wheat was exported to those countries.

James W. Bevans, of New York, representing the National Council of Importers and Traders, also opposed the provision in the bill and in the law today, authorizing the President to raise or lower rates as much as 50 per cent, and favored retention of the tariff commission as a fact-finding body for Congress.

CHINESE WILL REJECT SOVIET'S ULTIMATUM

propaganda over the period of many months and it is because of this propaganda that the Chinese have taken their recent drastic action in Manchuria. The treaty of 1924 covering the Chinese and Russian equal interests in the Chinese-Eastern Railway stipulated that this propaganda would cease. China declares that the Russians have violated the stipulation.

Russian Sentiment.

Aroused Russian sentiment, calling, in effect, for a discontinuance of communist policies in favor of the age-old method of military force, has injected a new factor into the situation, and if it appears that Russia is ready to scrap the communist retaliatory theories for the old method. The era of negotiations for peace may be initiated without delay. But so long as the Soviet government remains committed to a policy of peace at any price and propaganda as a weapon, the Chinese are not going to worry about ultimatums and are not going to desist from methods which the Nationalists apparently believe are necessary to the welfare of a united China.

The Nationalists are unreservedly supporting the Manchurian authorities. It is realized that Russia has no means of coping with the situation short of war. Reports that the Soviet government might stop operation of the Chinese-Eastern railroad by controlling the two terminals outside of Manchuria are not taken seriously, as this so-called remedy would injure Russia more than China, while incidentally proving a great boon to the railway interests of Japan, which would get the business. In any event, it looks as if Nationalist China is making a determined move to effectively end Russian propaganda in Manchuria as well as elsewhere in Chinese territory.

JUMP SAVED KUBALA IN CRASH ON AZORES

Maj. Idzikowsky Died in Few Minutes Says Surving Polish Flier.

COSTE PLANS NEW HOP

Horta, Azores, July 15 (A.P.).—Maj. Casimir Kubala tonight was said to be making rapid recovery from the injuries he received when the airplane Marshal Pilsudski crashed on the island of Graciosa. There was talk today of exhuming the body of his companion, Maj. Ludwik Idzikowski, to take it back to Poland.

Kubala had gained sufficient strength to describe how they circled over Graciosa on Saturday evening after a long struggle with a strong adverse wind and with a defective motor rapidly becoming useless. He said that fumes from the engine at times enveloped the plane and seriously hindered visibility in landing.

They attempted to come down in a big wheat field but the sharp slope caught one wing. Kubala jumped clear just in time. The airplane was almost completely wrecked and Idzikowski died with a few minutes.

Residents Find Kubala.

Residents searched through the wheat until they found Kubala lying with a deep cut in his head. He was taken to the hospital where he remained unconscious until Sunday morning.

Paris, July 15 (A.P.).—It appeared improbable tonight that Dieudonne Coste would make another attempt to fly across the Atlantic this year. He has not abandoned his plan, but asked when it might be carried out he replied laconically today, "There is no hurry."

The backers of the flight, who built the airplane and its motors, have been silent concerning a new attempt which lent support to the growing belief that it was not likely to be in 1929.

Coste Visits "Old Bus."

Despite his nerve wracking experience on his attempt begun last Saturday, Coste rose early today. He had had only nine hours' sleep in the last 72 hours, during which he had struggled against a dangerous gale of almost hurricane proportions until he regained French soil.

He could not resist the temptation to come to the flying field at Villacoublay "to have a look at the old bus" as he expressed it. He talked with other pilots of the death of Maj. Ludwik Idzikowski, Polish aviator, whose flight, begun at almost the same hour, ended in a crash in the Azores. Coste again referred to the "magnificent take-off" the Polish fliers made at Le Bourget on Saturday morning.

Woman Fatally Burned While Melting Paraffin

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 15.—Mrs. Margaret May Braithwaite, 45 years old, of Inwood, near this city, was fatally burned in her home today when her dress caught fire from flames leaping from paraffin she was melting in the preparation of fruit. She is survived by her husband.

A neighbor heard the screams of the woman and rushed to her home to find Mrs. Braithwaite attempting unsuccessfully to beat out the blaze. The neighbor managed to put out the fire, but not before Mrs. Braithwaite had been burned severely from her hair down to her knees. She was removed to a hospital here, where she died shortly afterward.

SOVIET HINTS APPEAL TO U. S. IN CHINA ROW

against "Chinese fascists." All of the demonstrations passed the Chinese legation, but there were no disorders.

Confiscate Soviet Concessions.

Tokyo, July 15 (A.P.).—Although Moscow's ultimatum expires tomorrow, reports from China indicate that the Chinese apparently are going ahead with their assumption of control of the Chinese Eastern Railway without much belief that Russia will resort to force of arms.

Rengo dispatches from Harbin state that the Chinese are busy cleaning up all details and taking over all railway property as well as closing all houses hitherto occupied by Soviet employes and confiscating Soviet forestry and mining concessions in the railway zone.

Much interest has been aroused in the visit of M. Serebriakov, appointed by the Russian government to negotiate in the affair. The Russian representative is expected in Harbin July 17, but there is not much belief apparent there that he will be able to alter the present situation. He arrived at Irkutsk by air today and immediately left by train for Harbin.

Reports from Vladivostok by way of Harbin told of a demonstration against the Chinese Consulate there, the populace hurling stones at it and shouting insults.

Officials in Harbin as well as Nanking were reported to have received the news of the Russian ultimatum demanding a conference on the seizure of the railway without surprise and in a matter of fact manner.

Gen. Chang Ching-Hui, governor of the Harbin district, urged new and old employes of the railway to remain faithfully at their posts and disregard all rumors. He also prohibited them from joining any secret labor union or similar organization.

Appeal to League Uncertain.

Paris, July 15 (A.P.).—Whether China will appeal to the League of Nations in connection with the ultimatum sent her late Saturday by Soviet Russia, as a matter endangering world peace, today caused much speculation in league circles both here and in Geneva.

M. Adatchi, Japanese Ambasador to France, now is acting president of the league council. He possesses the prerogative of convoking the council in special session if he deems the situation really menacing, and this without waiting for a formal appeal from China.

In any case, M. Adatchi, like most other officials, went to the country for several adys over the French national holiday of July 14 and no action is possible for several days.

Since Russia is not a member of the League of Nations and is opposed to its political activities, it is believed here that league leaders would wait until the last moment before launching a league investigation.

One Arrested in Lynchburg Raid.

Lynchburg, Va., July 15 (Special).—The police late Saturday night, in a raid on the home of Albert Lawling, negro, captured six gallons of moonshine liquor and arrested Mildred Lawling on a charge of ownership. Lawling was absent at the time of the raid.

Two Injured on Motor Cycle.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 15 (Special).—Raymond Wilson, this city, and an unidentified companion were injured when their motorcycle was hit by a car driven by G. T. Haywood, of Keedysville, Md., yesterday on a State road near here. Haywood assumed responsibility.

how about 75 per cent of the members of the House will vote. Any one can who is familiar with the situation. These lobbyists know that and they figure out how a vote is going to go and then send out word to interested parties that they can see certain senators and 'fix things up.' Later, when the senators have voted as they had always intended to vote, the lobbyist comes along with a bill for expenses. It is pure graft."

Padded Expense Charge.

In addition to the grafting on the public, the senator explained, the reputations of senators and members of Congress are frequently damaged by the lobbyist's activities inasmuch as the latter, in his anxiety to justify a large expense account, may intimate that "it took a lot of money to induce some senators to vote our way."

During the last Congress the Senate passed a bill introduced by Senator Caraway designed to regulate lobbying. The bill, however, died in the House. It provided for the registration of all lobbyists, required sworn statements as to the source and amounts of their financial support, and for periodical reports under oath as to their activities for or against legislation.

Drama Planned For Episcopalians

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 15.—Final rehearsals have been started for a religious drama, "Locust and Wild Honey," to be given at the Blue Mountain Episcopal conference at Hood College Wednesday evening under the direction of Miss Joy Higgins, of New York, head of the School of Religious Drama. Twenty-five persons, including several children, will take part in the play, which will be given in three scenes.

The principal characters and impersonators are: Leah, Miss Charlotte Ridpath; Elizabeth, Mrs. A. R. Montgomery; Aaron, J. Stevens Stock; John, Augela Carr; Martha, Mrs. S. Vanpelt; Mary, Miss Esther Brown; Joseph, Stephen C. Walke, and Simon, Mr. Montgomery. Miss Higgins said religious drama depicting Bible scenes is becoming more and more popular, especially in the way of illustrating church festivals. Many churches in large cities are illustrating festival Bible scenes in an elaborate manner, she said.

The conference, which has been in session for a week, will adjourn Thursday. The members speak of the college and the handsome campus as an ideal place for summer assemblies and will vote to return next year. Advance work was taken up at tonight's session by the Rev. Lewis B. Franklin, vice president and treasurer of the National Council. Tomorrow evening will be free, and Wednesday the pageant, the recreation feature, will be given.

The Rev. Dr. Frick S. Fleming, rector of St. Stevens Church, Providence, R. I., filled the pulpit of All Saint's Episcopal Church, Rev. Douglass Hooff, rector, yesterday.

Sunday School Annex Corner Stone Is Laid

Special to The Washington Post.

Culpepr, Va., July 15.—Appropriate exercises were held at the Methodist Church this morning in connection with the laying of the corner stone of a Sunday school addition to the church.

The exercises as conducted by the pastor, the Rev. John Jett, consisted of old-time songs, recitations and a history of the church. The annex is to cost $50,000 and is to be finished for occupancy by December 1.

B. E. Gray Named Legion Commander

Succeeds H. S. Pownall in 10th District of West Virginia.

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 15.—Bernard E. Gray, of Keyser, division road engineer, was named district commander for the tenth district American Legion, Department of West Virginia, at a meeting here yesterday. He succeeds H. S. Pownall, Moorefield, who resigned.

Dr. O. V. Brooks, of Morefield, was named delegate from the district to the national convention, with Carl Saunders, of Romney, as alternate.

While no formal action was taken, sentiment at the meeting was strongly in favor of Dr. J. A. Duff, former State vice commander, for commander this year. His name will be presented to the State convention later in the summer.

H. S. Pownall, previously designated to represent the State on a Legion pilgrimmage to Europe in September, announced while here that business engagements would prevent him from accepting. No successor has been named.

Union Army Veteran, 86, Dies.

Cumberland, Md., July 15 (Special).—Edward Mimma, a Union veteran of the Civil War, 86 years old, having served in Company K, First Maryland Infantry, has died at his home near Confluence, Pa. He is survived by his wife and twelve children. His living descendants total 96, including 47 grandchildren and 37 great-grandchildren.

Maryland Man Dies Suddenly.

Barton, Md., July 15 (Special).—George Dawson, aged about 70, of Moscow, near here, died suddenly yesterday from chronic asthma while on a visit at the home of Michael Shipway at Bayard, W. Va. He was stricken Thursday. A coroner's inquest was held and the verdict was death from natural causes. The body was brought here for interment.

3,000 Will Attend Picnic of Farmers

Prince William Event Will Hang Up Record for County.

Manassas, Va., July 15.—The largest picnic ever given in Prince William County will be held on July 18, at Dawson's Beach, near Dumfries, under the auspices of the agricultural advisory council of the county, which represents each magisterial district. The committee estimated today that more than 3,000 farmers and business men and their families will take the day off to fraternize at the shore.

The principal speaker of the day will be John H. Hutcheson, State director of agricultural extension work in Virginia, while Mrs. Francis Y. Kline, of New York, will address the women on phases of home economics. The band of the United States Marine Corps at Quantico will be in attendance throughout the afternoon, through the courtesy of Maj. Gen. Smedley Butler, commandant at that post, and games have been arranged for both boys and girls in addition to the swimming and boating parties that go with such an outing.

Mrs. Charles C. Kelley Expires at Kilmarnock

Special to The Washington Post.

Heathsville, Va., July 15.—Mrs. Charles Clifford Kelley, of Kilmarnock, died at her home there Saturday after an illness of a year. Funeral services were conducted at Kilmarnock Baptist Church by the Rev. H. H. Gibson, and interment was made at Remo Baptist Church, Northumberland County.

Mrs. Kelley was the daughter of the late Albert and Theodosia Miskell Clark, and had been closely associated with the church activities of both the community of her girlhood home and that where she later lived. She is survived by her husband and two daughters, Averill and Rodie Kelley, of Kilmarnock; three sisters and one brother.

CURRENT EVENTS IN VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND

VROOMAN TO SPEAK AT RURAL INSTITUTE

Former Agricultural Aid Will Be Heard at Blacksburg.

NOTED AS FARM EXPERT

Blacksburg, Va., July 15 (A.P.).—Carl Vrooman, one of the leading farm authorities in the country, who served as First Assistant Secretary of Agriculture during President Wilson's administration, will speak at a joint evening meeting of the Institute of Rural Affairs and State Farmers' Institute to be held at Virginia Polytechnic Institute, Wednesday, July 31. Vrooman's topic is "Farm Relief at Minimum Cost."

Vrooman is well qualified, it is pointed out, to discuss farm relief and its cost, for he has been a practical farmer in the Middle West and has studied the economics of agriculture for articles which he has prepared for leading magazines in this country. During the war he was sent overseas on a special "presidential mission" in the interest of food production, where he held private conferences at the front with Marshall Foch, Gen. Pershing and Clemenceau, then Premier of France.

For more than a quarter of a century he has been farming scientifically thousands of acres of Illinois and Iowa land. He has grain farms, dairy farms, a fruit and truck farm, a nursery and greenhouses. In fact, at Bloomington, Ill., his home, he is doing practically every kind of farming that can be done in the Middle West. He has addressed farm organizations in nearly every State in the Union. For more than a decade he has been recognized by millions of farmers throughout the country as one of their ablest, most active and most devoted champions.

Named by Wilson in 1914.

In 1914 President Wilson appointed him to serve as first assistant Secretary of Agriculture, which he held for five years. One of the first jobs he undertook as Assistant Secretary was the writing of a practical bulletin for farmers entitled "Grain Farming in the Corn Belt With Live Stock as a Side Line." This was one of the most popular bulletins ever issued by the department, for about 1,000,000 copies were distributed among farmers.

Vrooman was the father of the war garden movement during the World War. In an interview published by practically every paper in the country he insisted that so far as possible all vegetables should be grown locally for local consumption, one of his slogans being "Eat less freight." He called for 1,000,000 war gardens, and to his surprise more than 2,000,000 were forthcoming. M. Jusserand, then French Ambassador, in an autographed copy of one of his books which he presented to Vrooman, wrote, "To the Honorable Carl Vrooman, father of the War Gardens, from one of 40,000,000 grateful Frenchmen."

In January, 1921, Vrooman was selected by the American Farm Federation to handle "the gift of corn movement." More than 700,000 bushels of corn were collected from American farmers and sent to starving peoples of Europe. In recognition of this service the Polish government decorated him with the medal of officer in the Order of Polonia Restituta.

His Idea Accepted.

In May, 1921, he went to Washington as a private citizen and on his own initiative, in an effort to secure equality for agriculture through Federal legislative action. The Vrooman plan was presented to Congress in the original "Norris bill." The central idea of the bill was the exporting of surplus crops to Europe on credit, based upon sound commercial security. Vrooman has been actively pushing this idea from that time until now. The Norris bill was modified and became known as the farmers' relief bill, with the Vrooman idea as its central feature. The fight for this bill, led by Senator Kenyon, was the first great fight staged by the farm bloc.

Among the organizations outside of Congress which have indorsed the Vrooman proposal to dispose of surplus crops abroad are the Farmers' National Council, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the National Farmers' Grain Dealers Association, the Mississippi Valley Association, the Illinois Agricultural Association, the Illinois Implement Dealers Association and the Southern Commercial Congress.

Vrooman is 56 years old. He was born in Macon, Mo., October 25, 1872. His father was Judge H. P. Vrooman, who worked with Horace Greeley and Carl Schurtz, and named his fifth son for the latter. Vrooman's boyhood was spent in Kansas. He attended Washburg College, Topeka, Kans.; Harvard University, Oxford University, England. At all three of these institutions he won prizes in debating and oratory.

Final Rites Held For Capt. Hamlin

Prominent Danville Citizen Is Fatally Injured When Auto Strikes Him.

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 15.—Funeral services were held this evening for Capt. Frank M. Hamlin, 83, who died yesterday at a local hospital from injuries sustained a week ago when struck by an automobile driven by Walter Mink, a city employe, who was exonerated of blame. Mr. Hamlin, suffering from concussion of the brain, was apparently doing well until yesterday morning when he had a sudden relapse and gradually sank.

Capt. Hamlin, who served during the Civil War, was killed going out in the street to speak to a Union veteran, Capt. A. M. Wheeler, now of Raleigh, N. C., and Danville's first postmaster after the Civil War, who was in a car outside the Hamlin home last Sunday. Capt. Hamlin seeing him strode out to greet him and never saw the approaching automobile.

Capt. Hamlin was born in Leaksville, N. C., and settling in Danville after the Civil War was engaged in the mercantile bussiness. He married Miss Elizabeth Arney, who died in 1919. He was unusually active physically until his injury.

He leaves ten children, D. A. Hamlin, J. T. Hamlin, Charles Hamlin, Miss Reamey Hamlin, Danville; Mrs. A. H. Motley, Asheville, N. C.; Mary Hamlin, California; George Hamlin, South Carolina; Edward L. Hamlin, South Boston; Mrs. Raleigh Gilliam, Richmond, and Mrs. W. N. McNeill, of Savannah, Ga.

Martinsburg Couple Injured in Auto Wreck

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 15.—Mr. and Mrs. John L. Robertson, this city, were injured, the former seriously, when the automobile in which they were riding, driven by Mrs. Robertson, left the State road two miles west of here and plunged into a field.

They were brought to this city for medical attention.

VIRGINIAN DROWNED IN FALL OFF DREDGE

REZONING FIGHT TO OPEN

C. W. Lawrence, of Ashton, Va., an employe of the Smoot Sand & Gravel Co., of Washington, was drowned yesterday near Fort Foote when he fell from a company dredge. Prince Georges County authorities held the drowning was accidental and issued a certificate of accidental death.

Lawrence is believed to have been leaning over the side of the dredge to draw water for washing when he lost his balance. A water pail and cake of soap were found on the edge of the dredge. He had gone out on the scow about 5 o'clock and was not missed until breakfast time, several hours later. He had been employed by the dredging company three weeks.

The pail and soap led to the river being dragged and the body was found almost beneath the place where Lawrence fell into the water.

The Prince Georges County Commissioners today will consider seven applications for rezoning of property in the county. Six of the applications have been disapproved by the Maryland National Park and Planning Commission. It is expected that the owners of the property refused rezoning will appear in force at the hearing, which begins at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

The application of John F. Wooten for rezoning of property on the Baltimore boulevard near Lakeland from residential to commercial has been approved by the planning commission and it is expected that the commissioners will concur.

The planning commission has partially approved a similar change in classification for a tract at Bradbury Heights owned by George J. Bradbury. The application of Mrs. C. J. Furhman, Elmore Power, Claude Gilbert, O. B. Zantzinger, jr., and Frank M. Coward for classification from residential to commercial have been disapproved by the planning commission and these applicants are expected to appear in opposition to the comission's ruling. Their property is located on the Baltimore boulevard, the Marlboro pike, the Defense highway and in Brentwood.

The commissioners also will conduct a hearing on the application of William A. Ryan, proprietor of the Marlboro Hotel, formerly Duckett's Hotel, at Upper Marlboro, for a license as a roadhouse. In view of the announced intention of the commissioners to refuse all roadhouse license applications, the decision in this hearing is being awaited with interest by the owners of other roadhouses

The Washington, Marlboro and Annapolis bus line yesterday began service on its lines to Seat Pleasant, Md. The line formerly ending at Maryland Park has been extended to the new terminus. Buses will be operated every 30 minutes through the day with 15-minute schedule in rush hours.

Dr. Fred Chappelear, of Hughesville, Charles County, Md., was elected president of the Southern Maryland Medical Society at its first semiannual meeting Saturday at Chapel Point, Md. Dr. W. H. Gibbons, of Croome, Md., and Dr. William S. Keister, of District Heights, Md., were elected vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively. Both are from Prince Georges County. Dr. Keister is county health officer and was one of the leading figures in the organization of the society.

The newly elected mayor and town council of Colmar Manor will hold their first meeting tonight to complete organization. Mayor Burt M. Bromley and the members of the council were inducted into office Saturday by former Mayor John S. White, who was not a candidate for reelection.

The council will decide tonight whether or not E. Charvoz, who was elected town clerk, is eligible to hold office, as it has been claimed by the opposition that he does not hold equity in real estate in the town. Should Charroz be held ineligible, a new clerk will be appointed.

The council will meet regularly on the first Tuesday of each month.

Contracts for the construction of sidewalks and streets in Mount Rainier, Md., amounting to $64,727 were awarded last night at a meeting of the mayor and town council. The contracts were awarded to John Houghton, of Mechanicsville, Md. The construction work will be financed by the sale of bonds authorized by the State Legislature session of 1927. The bonds have not been advertised as yet.

The corporation counsel was directed to prepare specifications for the advertising of bids for the installation of a garbage, ash and trash collection. It is hoped to have the new service established by August 1.

Hopewell Congregation Hears Farewell Sermon

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 15.—The Rev. Schmucker, pastor of Broadway Christian Church at Hopewell since June, 1928, has accepted a call to another church and last night preached his farewell sermon. Mr. Schmucker has calls from several churches in different cities, but he has not announced to what church he will go. Before coming to Hopewell the Rev. Schmucker for thirteen years was pastor of Winchester Avenue Christian Church of Martinsburg. When he took charge of the Broadway Christian Church, the congregation was worshipping in an abandoned bakery building. Today the church owns a beautiful place of worship and a parsonage.

Seven Deaths, 18 Births Reported at Lynchburg

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., July 15.—Seven deaths and eighteen births were reported here last week at the bureau of health. There were three white and four negro deaths and sixteen white and two negro births. Four of the births were of nonresident parents.

Girl, 18, Fatally Burned When Oil Can Explodes

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 15.—Fatally burned when an oil can exploded while she was kindling a fire yesterday, Emma F. Bellew, 18, of Mechums River, this county, died today at University Hospital. Practically all clothing was burned from the girl's body when members of the family came to her aid.

Besides her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kemper F. Bellew, the girl is survived by five brothers and three sisters.

Movement to Remove Plant to Danville Fails

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 15—With virtually all of $55,000 subscribed by local citizens as preferred stock in the Art Shirt Co., of Troy, N. Y., a movement looking to the removal of the Troy plant to Danville was called off today by a special committee of local business men who have been dealing with Edwin L. Schulman, coproprietor of the New York plant. The committee issued a statement saying it could not agree to the terms demanded.

SADDLERS' CLASSES ARE SHOWN FEATURE

NOTABLE HORSES LISTED

Orange, Va., July 15.—Entries for the saddle classes are the big feature of the entry list for the Orange horse show, to be staged here July 24 and 25. H. C. Warren, secretary, after completing compilation of the entry list, which closed Saturday, announced today that each of the 37 classes on the program had attracted a banner number of entries, with the largest and most talented array of saddle horses that have been booked for a horse show in Virginia in recent years.

It was predicted that the competition in the saddle classes would be the hottest witnessed on the circuit this season. The list of exhibitors in these classes includes Henry L. Fonda, of Albemarle; A. G. Rolfe, of Richmond; E. W. Noble, of Gloucester; Miss Edith Nesbit, of Warrenton; Mae Ferneyhough, of Warrenton; George and Anthony Rives, of Albemarle, and W. B. Bogert, of Keswick.

Fonda has three entries and may exhibit in the open classes, Twilight Maiden, winner of the championship at Madison Square Garden last winter. Noble has entered Marse Henry, the big chestnut gelding with which he has been cleaning up on the circuit this season. Marcorita, a mare that has not been outside the ribbons since making her appearance on the circuit, has also been entered by the Gloucester sportsman. Miss Nesbit will be on hand with Inspiration, winner of the open saddle class at Culpeper, in which she defeated Marse Henry, Marcorita, Diana Mayo and many other good saddle horses. Rolfe is to make a bid with Delightful and Diana Mayo, with Bohemian Widow his entry in the class for saddlers, ladies to ride.

As has been the case in former shows, the hunter and hunter improvement classes are all well filled. Mrs. Thomas H. Somerville, the former Marion duPont, one of the best known horsewomen in America, is president of the show and is taking an active part in its management.

Frostburg Girl Is Married.

Frostburg, Md., July 15 (Special).—Miss Margaret E. Clark, daughter of Mr and Mrs. James Clark, who taught school in Frederick County following her graduation from Frostburg State Normal School in 1924 and later at Glendale, Garrett County, was married to George D. Kirby, son of Mrs. Isabelle Kirby, at Eckhart, at St. Michael's Catholic Church here, by the Rev. Joseph A. Weber. Miss Orpha Clark was bridesmaid and John Chambers, best man.

Gouraud Pays Visit To Naval Academy

Full Honors Are Accorded "Lion of Argonne" at Annapolis.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 15.—Gen. Henri Etienne Joseph Gauraud, of France, known as "the lion of the Argonne," and his staff officers now touring the United States, visited the Naval Academy today.

The general is attending the reunion of the Rainbow Division of veterans of the World War in Baltimore. Expressing a desire to visit Uncle Sam's Naval School, arrangements were made for a motor trip.

Gen. Gouraud and party, accompanied by Pierce Brawner, of Baltimore, arrived at 8:20 o'clock. Though his visit was not of an official nature, the war hero, nevertheless, was accorded honors due his rank. His arrival was marked by a salute of thirteen guns and the Naval Academy Band and a special guard were paraded. Like formalities were carried out upon his departure. Welcomed by Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robinson, superintendent; Capt. Charles P. Snyder, commandant; Commander A. T. Beauregard and Lieut. Comdr. A. H. Rooks, aid to the superintendent, the French general and his party were afterward escorted on a tour of inspetcion of academic buildings.

Mayor Walter E. Quenstedt joined the party of naval hosts and extended greetings to Gen. Gouraud in behalf of the city. The visit was so timed, however, as to preclude an inspetcion of the city. His stay here was less than two hours.

Funeral Services Held For Eugene C. Rhodes

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 15.—Funeral rites for Eugene Clarence Rhodes who, died at his home in Newport News, Va., after a brief illness, were held this morning at the home here of H. H. Smith, and interment was in Oakwood Cemetery.

Mr. Rhodes was a son of Charles E. and Emma Rhodes, of Alberene, this county, and was 43 year old. He married Miss Elizabeth Garner, of this city, who survives. He also leaves a brother, Emmett Rhodes, and a sister, Mrs. T. I. Coles.

Body and Wrecked Auto Carried Far on Engine

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., July 15.—Roland Cramer, 40 years old, negro, was instantly killed one mile east of here yesterday when his automobile, which he was driving to this city, was hit by a westbound Baltimore & Ohio express.

The man's body was knocked clear of his shoes, and carried, with the car on the engine pilot, a quarter of a mile. He was a quarryman, working at Blairton.

Shopping with Bab on Connecticut Avenue

DEAREST GENEVIEVE:

How is your sunburn this morning? What is your opinion, at this date, on "sun-tan fashions?" Do you still think it's just dandy to have your back and shoulders constantly exposed to the good old sun? And also what do you think of going about without stockings? There is only one way to do this and still be artistic and that is to have your tan an absolutely uniform shade. Then it is rather pretty. I saw a girl I know on Connecticut avenue yesterday who was a nice cheanut brown, which was most becoming to her as she is a blonde with big blue eyes. In a little sleeveless blue frock and a white hat and no stockings she was surely most attractive. But her face, arms and ankles were all the same color.

Plage Deauville Is Responsible

—for many of the prettiest tans now abroad in the city. A certain group of last year's debutantes may be seen there every day without fail, diving in the pool, sunning themselves at the flower-decked edge, or later in beach coats enjoying tea under the gayly colored umbrellas of the Plage.

Meyer Davis' Club Chantecler Orchestra plays during tea-time and during dinner, so naturally there are numbers of parties made up for dancing, both afternoon and evening. Make your reservations for dinner before hand. The Plage Deauville is at Wardman Park Hotel.

Every Housewife Enjoys Dining Out

—once in a while, particularly in this hot summer weather. To find an attractive restaurant which has good food and service, and is at the same time not prohibitive in price is an achievement.

People who know about the Cavalier Cafe at 3500 14th street feel that it is a rare discovery. Breakfast, luncheon and dinner are served daily. The cafe is cool and charming and the food all and more than you might expect. The prices are so moderate that I hesitate to tell you now small they are.

Every Night A Cold Supper

—is served, beginning this week at the Huguenot, 1359 Connecticut avenue. A special price of eighty-five cents has been inaugurated for the hot weather menu.

Nothing could be more agreeable on a summer night than to drop into this delightful little garden and enjoy a delicious cold supper in such happy surroundings.

You may imagine what the menu will include: Salads, cold meats, iced drinks and other delicacies.

They May Change the Date

—for sailing. I mean the party I have been telling you about which leaves on the Ile de France for a tour of England, France, Switzerland, Austria and Belgium.

This trip is being planned by the C. C. Drake Travel Bureau in the Willard Hotel. Go in and ask Miss Moorhead about it. She is in charge of the local bureau which is under the management of Miss Elizabeth Persons. Miss Persons has the office for C. C. Drake & Co., in Baltimore and Philadelphia, too.

You'd better decide to go to Europe the end of July or the first of August with this small party.

Dining and Dancing Underneath the Stars

—on The Powhatan roof is one of the most delightful ways to spend a summer evening. Every one appreciates the opportunity this delightful roof affords for cooling off in an environment of dignity and charm.

Johnny Slaughter's Orchestra plays during dinner and until closing time at midnight or thereabouts. The popularity of this orchestra is well known. They have been playing on the Powhatan roof year after year, and have an immense following of admirers.

Make up a party for tonight and either dine on the roof or go up later for the dancing. Cover charge after nine is one dollar.

The Speed Boats Should Have Credit

—for some of the handsomely tanned complexions one sees. Dashing through the sunlight on the Potomac River in these fascinating Gar Wood boats is surely conducive to a good coat of tan.

The speed boats at Haines Point are the most amusing diversion in Washington. So many people take the bus to Haines Point, which leaves from the Treasury, and spend hours of delightful pleasure in this cool, breezy Point. On the hottest days there is always a breeze here. Enjoy a swift ride in the speed boat and then have luncheon, or dinner, or tea, under the trees. If you are unable to go away for a complete change, this is one of the things you can do to feel that you are enjoying the summer.

While there are many motors parked around the Point, as a rule, there is always room for one more, if you are driving your own car.

The boats go very fast, and take you through some pretty shore scenery. It is especially lovely at night, when the brilliant lights of Arlington Beach and the city make a fairyland of the darkness. Now that there is a moon, you should really not miss the fun this sport affords.

Reduced Rates Still Continue

—at Underwood & Underwood's. If you have neglected to order new pictures from your plates already made, you still have a chance to do so. As you well know the reduced rate in effect at this time is good for all pictures made in the studio and for all pictures which have been made. The home portraits, in other words, do not come under this grouping.

Do you ever stop to look at the window at Underwood & Underwood's, Connecticut avenue at N street? You will see displayed just now, some very lovely portraits mounted in the most exquisite fashion in delicate colors. Whoever designs the mountings for this famous studio is an artist in a superiative degree.

But for that matter, we become accustomed to taking for granted wonderful portraits and handsome mountings from Underwood & Underwood's.

Every one appreciating thoroughly the value of these pictures will, of course, order while they are so inexpensive.

Affectionately,

Bab

BAPTIST CONVENTION OPENS IN MARYLAND

Dr. Porter, of Washington, Presides at Braddock Heights Session.

PAGEANT IS PRESENTED

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., July 15.—The Rev. Dr. J. J. Porter, pastor of the First Baptist Church, Washington, presided at the opening session of the Woman's Missionary Union and the annual Sunday School conference of the Maryland Baptist Assembly which began at Braddock Heights today. The Young People's Union, which convened Friday evening with an attendance 200 adjourned last night.

A large number of young people members in addition to about 200 missionary and Sunday school members attended the sessions today. A pageant entitled "The Road to a Safe Tomorrow," was given in the First Baptist Church, of which the Rev. William C. Royal, president of the assembly, is pastor.

The play was under the direction of Mrs. C. D. Creasman, Lewisburg, Tenn., junior Sunday school specialist, and in addition to a large congregation, it was witnessed by many members of the assembly. The pageant was followed by the regular service. The assembly sermon was preached by the Rev. Dr. Holvix Harlan, of the University of Richmond and a member of the summer faculty of George Washington University, Washington. His text was "Finding God."

Retiring President Speaks.

Addresses at Braddock Heights in the afternoon were made by Reade W. Corr, of Baltimore, who spoke on the doctrine of the union; Miss Isla Carmon, who took missions for her theme; Irving H. Hughes, whose subject was personal evangelism, and the Rev. Dr. E. F. Aler, pastor of Larchmont Baptist Church, Norfolk, Va., who spoke on Christian character. Oriole Union, Baltimore, Miss Ruth Goering, president, was awarded the banner for having the largest number of members present at the assembly.

In his annual address Joseph H. McGrath, of Crisfield, the retiring president, referred to the motto of the union, "We Study That We May Serve," and added that one of the objects of the meeting was to renew the pledge. He thanked the officers and members for their cooperation during his term in office and spoke in high terms of the service of Mr. Royal. He then gave a brief review of the work of the organization for the past year.

The union is composed of 122 separate units, 27 of which are in Baltimore, with a total membership all over the State of about 3,500.

Miss Clara M. Woolford, of Baltimore, is president of the Woman's Missionary Union and Miss Margaret Chapin, of Washington, is the instructor of the girls' auxiliary; Miss Jeanette White, of Baltimore, teacher of the girl ambassadors and the Rev. R. Rush Loving, pastor of Sourgeon Memorial Church, Norfolk, is the teacher of the "royal ambassadors."

Mission Union Session.

The latter comprise a camp of boys from Frederick, Cumberland, Annapolis, Crisfield, Laurel and other places, under the direction of Mr. Loving. The boys are trained in emergency practices.

The first session of the Mission Union was under the direction of Mrs. S. R. Barnes, followed by an address by Mrs. Creasman on "The Larger Stewardship." Sunday school conferences were directed by Miss A. L. Williams, of Birmingham, Ala., in charge of the primary department; Mrs. Creasman, junior department; Miss M. Alice Ruby, intermediate department; Mrs. W. L. Blankenship, of Atlanta, Ga., adult department, and the Rev. Cecil Perry, of Louisville, special Sunday school worker, administration department.

A series of lectures on lesson construction is announced for each day by the Rev. Dr. Bernard Spillman, Kingston, N. C., of the Sunday school board. Dr. Spillman will also make an address at Chautauqua in the evening. The church administration and pastors' Bible conference met this morning. Dr. Joseph T. Watts, of Baltimore, general secretary of the assembly, made an address on "When Does a Church Function?"

Home Demonstration Club Names Delegate

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., July 15.—The advisory Club of Loudoun, recently elected Mrs. Council of the Home Demonstration W. T. Smith, of Lincoln, a delegate to the homemakers meeting to be held at Blacksburg, July 31 to August 2. Mrs. O. L. Emerick, of Purcellville, was chosen alternate. The homemakers meeting is held in connection with the Virginia State Farmers Institute, which has the distinction of being the oldest State-wide educational farmers organization in Virginia.

NEVER wait to see if a headache will "wear off." Why suffer when there's Bayer Aspirin? The millions of men and women who use it in increasing quantities every year prove that it does relieve such pain. The medical profession pronounces it without effect on the heart, so use it as often as it can spare you any pain. Every druggist always has genuine Bayer Aspirin for the prompt relief of a headache, colds, neuralgia, lumbago, etc. Familiarize yourself with the proven directions in every package.

MAYOR'S ELECTION MAY GO TO COURT

Republicans Threaten Move If Annapolis Council Attempts Recount.

LAWS ARE IN CONFLICT

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 15.—The fight between the Republicans and the Democrats over the election of mayor will be carried into Circuit Court, it was indicated here tonight after the newly elected city council, at its initial session, had appointed a committee of five to investigate the protest of Charles E. Chance, defeated Democratic candidate, and report back to the council whether it is advisable to call for a recount of votes.

The Republican cohorts, who elected Walter E. Quenstedt, through two Baltimore attorneys, Simon Sabaloss and Wendell Allen, in the discussion that followed the appointment of the committee, declared that the city council is without legal authority to call for a recount of votes. They indicated that they would seek a restraining order in the circuit court to prevent the recount if necessary.

An old law gives the city council the final right to canvass the returns, it was brought out at the meeting, while a law, passed two years ago, delegates this authority to the city board of election supervisors.

Quenstedt was elected mayor by a majority of 23 votes on the basis of returns made by elections officials. These returns having been canvassed by the city board of election supervisors, the mayor-elect qualified before the clerk of the Circuit Court and he in turn administered the oath to his colleagues. The Democrats still are in control of city government, the complexion of the council being 7 to 3.

Mr. Chance in his petition alleges discrepancies in the count of the vote and expresses the belief that a recheck will show that he was the successful candidate. His complaint had its inception with the returns from the Fourth Ward, the colored belt which gave Quenstedt the not unexpected majority of 278, which was sufficient to overcome Chance's margins in the First, Second, and Third wards. The defeated candidate claims it is significant that very few ballots were rejected for irregular marking in the Fourth Ward, whereas approximately 50 were thrown out in the other three wards.

Fraternal Americans Hear District Deputy

Special to The Washington Post.

Hamilton, Va., July 15.—The Rev. John W. Seay, district deputy State president for Loudoun District, No. 6, O. F. A., visited Hamilton Council, No. 23, this evening and addressed the lodge on the basic principles of the Order of Fraternal Americans. The meeting was largely attended by members of Hamilton Council and of other councils.

YOUTH'S BODY TAKEN FROM 50-FOOT POOL

Montgomery County Drowning Victim Found With Rod as Dynamite Fails.

AUTO THEFT IS REPORTED

Members of the Rockville Volunteer Fire Department yesterday recovered the body of Earl Price, 20 years old, of Dickerson, who was drowned Saturday evening in a quarry near his home. The Washington Police Department had dispatched its expert draggers to the scene, but they were stopped at Bethesda when the body was recovered.

Price and a younger brother were swimming in the 50-foot pool of water at the quarry when he suddenly called to his brother and sank. He is believed to have been seized by cramps. The pool was blasted with dynamite Sunday in an effort to recover the body but without avail. Recovery was made with a steel rod.

Alvin T. Murray, 25 years old, and Miss Marian L. Otis, 25, both of Washington, were married shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning by the Rev. Bertram M. Osgood in the parsonage of the Rockville Baptist Church. The couple was accompanied by the bridegroom's father and several other members of his family. No reason was given for the unusual nuptial hour.

Clayton K. Watkins, license clerk of the circuit court, was awakened and drove 5 miles from Gaithersburg to issue the license.

The Bethesda Chamber of Commerce will hold its midsummer meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Montgomery County Building at Bethesda. Several important questions are expected to be discussed.

Mrs. Sadie L. Stanley yesterday filed a bill for limited divorce from Ray F. Stanley, prosperous farmer of the Laytonsville district, in the circuit court at Rockville. Through Attorney Harold C. Smith, of Rockville, she asks alimony and custody of their seven children.

The wife charges cruelty. She alleges that her husband struck and beat her, that he has refused to allow her to live on their farm, and that he refuses to contribute to her support. Judge Robert B. Peter ordered the husband to pay alimony of $50 per month pending disposition of the suit.

The wife alleges that the husband refused to contribute anything to her support, although she claims that the farm was purchased in part with funds earned by her. The couple was married April 30, 1908, and has seven children.

Police of the Bethesda substation yesterday were notified by Washington police tat Harry Boucher, 42 H street northeast, listed as owner of the automobile which was seized Sunday by police of that substation with a load of twelve cases of alleged liquor, had reported the theft of the automobile Sunday night. Boucher reported that the car, a high-powered touring car, had been stolen from his garage after the door lock had been broken.

The car was confiscated by Sergt. Leroy Rodgers, James Shoemaker, J. S. McAuliffe and Policeman Caywood, of the Bethesda station, on the Jones Mill road near Kensington. They had been watching for the car for two weeks, they said. A police car blocked a small bridge over Rock Creek and stopped the car, the three colored occupants jumping into the creek and escaping.

The annual camp meeting of the Philadelphia district of the Free Methodist Church will be held August 2 to 11 near Blenmont, on the Seventh street pike. Approximately 60 tents will be pitched on the camp ground to accommodate the groups of members from the District of Columbia, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland.

District Elder H. L. Kelly will be in charge. Services will be held morning, afternoon and evening on each day.

The catalog for the seventy-sixth annual fair of the Montgomery County Agricultural Society is expected to be ready for distribution in a few days. The catalogs are in the hands of the printer. The fair will be held August 20 to 24, inclusive, and will be the most elaborate affair yet staged by the society.

The town council of Takoma Park, Md., last night awarded contracts for the construction of approximately 1,000 yards of concrete sidewalks in the town. The contract was awarded to Fred Taylor, concrete contractor of the town. The sidewalks will cost approximately $2,100, according to Martin F. Iverson, of the town council, assistant building inspector of Montgomery county.

The town's finances are in excellent shape, according to the annual report of the town treasurer.

LURAY POSTMASTER DIES AFTER ILLNESS

Death of Everett M. Berrey, Republican Leader, Is Shock to County.

BURIAL TO BE TOMORROW

Special to The Washington Post.

Luray, Va., July 15.—Everett Maurice Berrey, postmaster at Luray for the last five or six years, died at his home here last night. Though he was known to be seriously ill for some time, his death came as a distinct shock to Page County, where he was well known. He was one of the leading Republicans of the Shenandoah Valley, and the majority of 300 or 400 given President Hoover and Representative Jacob A. Garber in this county in November, 1928, was credited largely to Mr. Berrey's skill in having every Republican voter at each of the thirteen precincts in the county.

He was an intimate friend of C. Bascom Slemp, private secretary of former President Coolidge; Henry W. Anderson, R. H. Angell, Moseley Brown, Republican candidate for Governor of Virginia in the approaching November election, and many other leading party men throughout the State. Before his appointment as postmaster of Luray, Mr. Berrey for several years was chairman of the Republican party of Page County. While holding this position he incurred many physical hardships in remote sections of the county in seeing that every Republican voter was registered.

He was a son of the late Thomas J. Berrey, one of the organizers and for many years president of the Page Valley National Bank, Luray.

Mr. Berrey was about 42 years of age and is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lennis Batman Berrey, daughter of E. P. Batman, deputy treasurer of Page County; his mother, Mrs. Annie V. Berrey; two sisters, Misses Edith and Estelle Berrey, and one brother, Emmett C. Berrey, cashier of the Page Valley National Bank, this place.

Burial will take place in Green Hill Cemetery, Luray, Wednesday afternoon, when a large number of leading Republicans from different parts of Virginia will be present.

Death was due to a complication of diseases.

Man's Arm Is Broken When Kicked By Mule

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 15.—J. S. Morris, of near Earlysville, this county, is at a hospital here with a broken arm received when a mule that he was trying to halter turned and kicked him. With his arm hanging limp, Morris jumped into his car and drove here, a distance of fifteen miles, to consult a physician.

After handling mules practically all of his life, Mr. Morris said that had learned two things about them—that you can never tell which end the animal is going to use for attack. "Just when you are expecting the brute to bite you," said Mr. Morris, "he will swing around and use his hind legs to put you out of commission."

VIRGINIANS TO GIVE HOOVER FISHING ROD

Other Citizens Will Join Izaak Walton League Members on Tomorrow's Trip.

POLICE ESCORT PLANNED

Special to The Washington Post.

Gordonsville, Va., July 15.—As an indication of Virginia's appreciation and as a mark of welcome to President Hoover in his selection of the Rapidan as a fishing site, the Orange County Chapter, Izaak Walton League of America, and citizens from surrounding counties will motor to Washington Wednesday, where the chapter will present the President with a fly rod and reel, which were made specifically for this purpose.

The ceremony will take place on the White House lawn at 12 o'clock noon. Max Fleischer, secretary and organizer of the local chapter; George L. Browning, president, and Col. Daniel L. Porter, delegate from Orange and Madison counties, and members of the State Department of Game and Inland Fisheries, are on the presentation committee. Gov. Harry Flood Byrd, also appointed on this committee, has been called to Connecticut on this date and, therefore, will be unable to act. Miss Dorothea Fleischer, 9-year-old daughter of Secretary Fleischer, will present the tackle, it is expected, though this will be definitely decided at a meeting of the board of directors Tuesday evening.

A motor cavalcade of 75 or more cars, flying banners and carrying Orange and Madison County citizens, will leave the Town of Orange at 8:15 o'clock with police escort through to the White House. The party will be joined by other cars en route, and at Alexandria will be met by members of the department of game and inland fisheries and other conservationists, which will increase the motorcade some eighteen or twenty cars. Movie reels will be taken of the ceremony and of the delegation.

The Capital City will vie with Virginia in hospitality on this occasion, having arranged for special parking privileges during the ceremony which will be followed by free movies for the entire party at the Fox Theater.

Petersburg Girl Is Married.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 15.—Miss Helen Raney Crumpler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Crumpler of Colonial Heights, and Clarence W. Benthall, of Norfolk, were married yesterday afternoon at the residence of the Rev. Fred W. Moore, D.D., pastor of Second Baptist Church, who officiated. Mr. and Mrs. Benthall will make their home in Norfolk.

BLOW TO COMMUNISM.

The reaction of the Russian people to the seizure of the Chinese-Eastern Railway in Manchuria is the most effective blow against communism and its methods which has been delivered in many a month. Though aimed at the Chinese the indignation and wrath of the Russian masses in reality constitute a sweeping indictment of the very principles upon which the whole foreign policy of propaganda and internationalism has been founded.

All along, the Soviet leaders have sought to make the world believe that the Russian masses were behind them in seeking to sow the seeds of internationalism and anticapitalism in foreign countries. Some have gone so far as to add world-revolution as an integral and necessary part of the program.

Workers of one country were brothers of the workers of another, according to this theory. Nationalism has been pictured as of little importance in comparison with the bonds which tied the workers of all countries to work together for the common goal. National rights which wicked capitalistic countries sought to safeguard by war at the expense of the proletariat had no place in the communist's curriculum. Consequently war was outlawed, excepting the war of the masses against their oppressors.

And now overnight, all is changed. The threat against the Chinese-Eastern Railway finds the communist leaders seeking to minimize the blow but finds the Russian masses rising up and demanding that their government take immediate action. Workers' organizations, constituting the very source of the Soviet power, demand "decisive measures, vigorous action, the proper answer to aggression and due protection of Soviet rights."

By demanding protection of national rights or vested interests in a foreign country and practically insisting upon war to protect these national rights, the Russian masses are now doing precisely what the peoples of various countries have done through the ages. They want the age-old remedy of force to support the nationalism which they see challenged. They have reacted precisely as any capitalistic country reacts. And the Soviet leaders are being impelled by the force of these demands to issue ultimatums threatening war, to mobilize troops for service on foreign soil.

Thus, at the first test, the communist theories with respect to international affairs have been blown away like so much froth and the Russian people have done the blowing.

The reaction of the Russian masses renders the task of the Soviet leaders doubly difficult and hazardous. The masses demand protection of national rights and the only apparent move in this direction may spell war. Other possible remedies may not satisfy the demands of the Russian people.

There is discussion of make-shift temporary methods of reprisal such as putting the Chinese-Eastern Railway out of commission by closing the terminals not on Manchurian soil. The effect of this would be to throw the railway into bankruptcy to the benefit of the Japanese lines. Such an expedient might be worth trying if it averted war but it is extremely doubtful if the aroused Russian masses would permit it. Russia would suffer far more than China by the employment of this make-shift method.

A natural sequel to the communist policy has been a policy of denouncing war and relying on other methods such as propaganda in the interest of the common brotherhood of workers. Soviet Russia has given this a thorough trial in China with most unfortunate results. As soon as the Chinese realized that there was no danger of warlike action by Russia the open season for aggression against Russian propagandists and Russian interests began. Failure of Russia to retaliate invited more determined and wholesale action on the part of the Chinese. From the most feared nation in the Far East, Russia with her peace and propaganda slogans has sunk to a position where she is regarded by the Chinese as legitimate prey whenever the interests of the Chinese call for action against her.

WHERE ENFORCEMENT FAILS.

The annual report of the New York Department of Correction indicates the magnitude of the problem that is being investigated by the National Commission on Law Enforcement. The report shows that 8,115 of the 21,232 prisoners received in New York institutions had previously served sentences there. One prisoner had served 65 terms, 3,443 had served two terms, and 1,587 were received for the third time. With nearly 40 per cent finding their way back into the prisons of the same city, it appears that little progress has been made in rehabilitation of convicts.

It is unfortunate that all available statistics on criminals concern those who have been caught. It is impossible to know what becomes of the 60 per cent who serve but one term in New York. Some of them are held for long sentences, others find their way to different cities, some are skillful enough to avoid the police a second time, and, it must be presumed, some reform. But making allowance for the large number of crimes for which no arrests are made, the many acquittals of guilty persons and the ambulatory natures of robbers, swindlers, automobile thieves, &c., it appears that the prison inhabitants who are reclaimed as respectable citizens constitute a rather small minority.

Commissioner Richard C. Patterson, jr., interpreted his report as an "appalling and disconcerting picture of the criminal problem with which society is confronted." "The utter folly of releasing such criminals to prey upon the public again and again, to say nothing of the incidental expense involved in pursuing, capturing and convicting them, is too obvious to require comment," he said. "It is difficult to see how the most optimistic can hope for any real diminution in the amount of crime in New York City until some plan is evolved whereby these chronic criminals and recidivists can be taken 'off the market' entirely."

But this is only part of the problem. Only a percentage of the guilty are ever apprehended and convicted. The movement for better detection of crime has had no less attention than that for rehabilitation of prison inmates. Relatively few of the guilty are incarcerated, and only a few of those overcome their criminal habits. New York's record is not an exception to the rule. The situation in the country as a whole probably is not materially different. It offers little encouragement for President Hoover's commission. If this body is able to get to the bottom of the question and evolve a practical solution in less than a decade there will be cause for gratification.

THE PETROLEUM SCHEDULE.

A new angle to the proposed tariff on imported petroleum was presented to the Senate finance committee in its consideration of the free list. The American Steamship Owners Association points out that the resultant increase in the cost of oil would fall most heavily on the shipping industry. American oil-burning vessels engaged in foreign trade consumed more than 23,000,000 barrels of oil in 1928, and American coastwise shipping used 27,000,000. The proposed duty of $1 per barrel on foreign oil, says the association, would raise the total fuel bill approximately $56,000,000. The association considers this a staggering blow, and is at a loss to know how to meet it.

American shipping is already hampered by greater costs of construction and operating vessels in this country. It is the policy of Congress to foster development of the merchant marine, and the Government has spent millions for that purpose. The recent investigation of the merchant marine problem by the National Industrial Conference Board brought out that the only distinct advantage which American shipping now has over its foreign competitors lies in its possession of a greater volume of oil-burning ships. This single disadvantage would disappear with any material increase in the price of fuel oil.

A duty on petroleum would carry still another blow to American shipping. American tankers now carry a large percentage of the total water-borne oil traffic. The proposed tariff would stimulate construction of refineries abroad and another source of revenue to American ships would be cut off.

The effect of the proposed duty on the shipping industry should not be ignored, but the real issue involved is much more extensive. A duty of $1 per barrel would close the United States oil market to foreign concerns. New demands would be made for domestic oil and the conservation program would go a glimmering. The result would be further depletion of American oil reserves which are already being drained at an alarming rate. The supply of oil is not limitless. The United States is far ahead of every other country in exploiting its reserves. Any measure calculated to accelerate that process is derogatory to both the public and the national welfare.

FLYING AROUND THE WORLD.

It was the refueling flight of the Army airplane Question Mark which first suggested a nonstop flight around the world. The idea gained momentum with each successful refueling test. The new record set by the biplane Angeleno at Culver City, Calif., will undoubtedly stimulate the promoters of a round-the-world flight to greater activity.

If Mendell and Reinhart had flown in a direct line, circling the globe at the equator, they would have covered more than three-quarters of the distance around the world. The plane landed in good condition with the exception of a damaged tail, which brought the flight to an end. A mechanical expert who examined the motor pronounced it in excellent condition and said the engine would be ready to fly again as soon as it could be reassembled. Both the engine and the plane were second-hand, having traveled about 17,000 miles before being conditioned for the endurance flight. The pilots were fatigued after more than ten days in the air, but they had not yet reached the end of their endurance.

During its 246 hours and 43 minutes in the air the Angeleno covered a distance of 19,750 miles. This is easy flying, an average of slightly more than 81 miles per hour. Had the plane made but 100 miles per hour, which is not a rapid rate in the air, it would have traveled a distance almost equal to the circumference of the earth. If a round-the-world flight were routed by way of the United States, Europe and Central Asia, liberal allowances could be made for touching the most available points for refueling without exceeding 25,000 miles. From the standpoint of mileage a round-the-world flight appears within the realm of probability.

But the endurance flight which has just ended gives no indication of the difficulties to be overcome in circling the globe. Cruising about in good weather at an easy speed within gliding distance of an airport is an undertaking entirely different from the weathering of storms over the Atlantic and the Pacific. The long stretches of water would make it necessary to carry a heavy fuel supply between refueling stations. Contact with the refueling ships at distant stations would be much more difficult. The strain on the pilots would be immeasurably greater. The chances of disaster would be multiplied a hundredfold. The fact that an airplane engine and two pilots have withstood the strain of continuous flight for nearly 20,000 miles gives no reason to believe that the present-day airplane is capable of circumnavigating the globe without touching the ground.

The Department of Agriculture reports that last year 1,960,000 persons turned their backs upon the farm and went to the city. Apparently the back-to-the-farm movement is still flourishing.

There is little news in the story that a man playing golf with a tennis racket almost beat an opponent equipped with a complement of clubs. The clubs are what beat most golf players.

The question of American investments in British industrial concerns is scheduled to be brought before Parliament. Not so long ago it was getting them; now it's that they're got.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

By ANNE O'HARE McCORMICK.
In the New York Times.

Washington lives only on politics. From the big official lobby on Capitol Hill to the hundreds of unofficial lobbies watching over some interest or other, commercial, social, religious, financial, scientific or sentimental, it is a vast House of Representatives, of which the membership, the staff and the overhead constantly increase. Up to the time of the war it was the easy-going, inconvenient headquarters of an isolated and unambitious government. Now, in addition to multiplying bureaus and lobbies, it has a growing gallery of correspondents, political observers from everywhere, citizens who retire to Washington from Iowa and Georgia to enjoy the political show and escape the smoke of business and industry. It is a ballooning, self-conscious, grandiloquently planning city of more than half a million, probably the world's largest aggregation of the exclusively white-collared.

They are all transients. The foreigner is as much at home as the native because nobody is at home. Rooted in the job as it is, even the personnel has no local roots. It always describes itself as Pennsylvanian, Nebraskan, Virginian. Who ever heard of a District-of-Columbian? The most distinguished residents are aliens, lodgers in rented mansions or in huge apartment hotels, never big enough or many enough. They cast their vote elsewhere or not at all. The only civic spirit in this general headquarters of citizenship is for other cities. The people as a whole may be interested in their capital, but no individual is interested. It is nobody's home town. Of all persons who suffer government, Government clerks are the least concerned in it; in their pigeonholes they enjoy one joke, and that is when some new chief comes into the department and talks about a change of administration.

The wealth collected and disbursed in this capital is created somewhere else. Nothing is produced here but laws and reputations. The other day I talked to a representative of one of the least of the Balkan States. Remembering his home capital, I expected him to be bowled over by the dazzling modernity of the citadel of democracy. Few contrasts in the world are more sensational than that between the pastoral primitiveness of his country and the electrified up-to-dateness of his life in Washington. But what this Balkan said of the Capital of great America was that he felt artistically starved in it: there is no music, he complained, neither orchestra nor opera, no theater, no fresh or native art. Washington produced nothing, he repeated, and wondered if it was in the nature of politics so to deaden and destroy that a city preoccupied by government alone and filled with bureaucrats must waste all its energy in dull debate.

In at least one virtue, Washington scores in comparative tests. It is obviously the seat of a friendly and profoundly peaceful government. Nowhere else are officials of high and low degree so accessible to the casual citizen. Nowhere else are relations between the administration and the people so informal and so free. Nobody keeps you out of any government office or prevents you from seeing any officer up to the limit of his time and endurance. And no capital ever had so little military parade. Except on the most solemn occasions you hardly see a uniform in Washington, even in the War and Navy Departments.

Only in the past decade has Washington really discovered the world. By a remarkable combination of historic forces it was not a world capital at all until it became the most powerful of world capitals. It has not yet adjusted itself to that dizzy leap. It does not know what to do with its eminence. It is now discovered in a moment of Olympian suspense. But observe that it begins to build, feverishly, the greatest group of government buildings ever planned at one swoop. It begins to compare itself with Paris. Washington now sees itself for the first time in the eyes of the world. Give it another decade or two and it will make those eyes blink!

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

A GOLFER'S RUINATION.

One day I drove a golf ball straight
Two hundred yards or more;
A golfing feat, I now repeat,
I'd never done before.
Its memory still with me survives,
And now I curse my common drives.

Just once by chance a mashie shot
Of mine was straight and true.
By chance or luck, near by it stuck,
I made the hole in two.
But oh, I've grumbled much since then
Because that shot won't come again.

And once I shot a seventy-nine
Before my hair turned gray,
But ninety-one's the best I've done
Since that unhappy day.
And now I wail to all I see,
"My game's not what it used to be."

The Lion's Conception of a Fair Division Is One That Gives Two-Thirds to the Lion.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE divorce courts are busy, the nations live in dread of war and national problems remain unsolved because men pretend to favor justice and right when their one desire is to get an advantage for themselves.

In the language of the street, they kid themselves by twisting the meaning of words. "Let us do what is fair," they say; but their conception of fairness is an arrangement that will increase their profits at the other fellow's expense.

They have practiced hypocrisy so long and so well that they now fool themselves, and not one man in ten is wholly natural and sincere in anything that he says or does.

Men great and small pay lip service to righteousness; virtue is worn as a garment; and evil does not disturb the conscience if it is hidden.

Three men of my acquaintance bought a piece of property, intending to hold it a short time and divide the profits when its value increased.

The real estate market collapsed, however, and they were unable to sell at any price.

One of them, who was a merchant, suggested that he could use the property himself and offered to rent it until it could be sold.

The others agreed. But the rental offered by the merchant seemed to them absurdly low.

"Fifteen dollars a month!" said one. "You know that isn't enough. You should pay sixty."

"Forty-five is about fair," said the other.

"Well," said the merchant, "since we are partners in this and all of us wish to do what is right, let us compromise. Each will write on a slip of paper the figure he thinks fair and we'll add them and divide by three."

The others agreed and the thing was done. But the merchant didn't write the figure he had offered. Instead of $15, he wrote $3.

He saved money, but he lost the respect of two friends.

The incident affords an excellent illustration of the purpose and spirit of negotiators who pretend a desire to solve the world's problems justly.

They have no interest in justice. Their one desire is to get all they can, and their much talk of fairness is a smoke screen to conceal their motives and fool the other side.

There is not a problem—international or national, political or social, economic or personal—that could not be solved quickly and justly if both sides would be honest.

Men know what is fair and right.

All that is necessary is a mutual resolve to face the truth and do what is right, no matter who is harmed or helped.

Men quarrel for profit, not for justice.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

NEWS FROM AMERICA FOR THE BYRD EXPEDITION.

U. S. A.—Monday—Well, we have now definitely entered the period of the long summer sunshine, and for seven more weeks we shall be forced to sleep without sheets, listen to people describe their summer homes and endure persons who read heat-wave stories aloud.

Today it was 90 in the shade and Jensen was sent out in search of shade. He had not returned at dinner time and it is believed he found it. We are in great discomfort during the days, and the nights are no bargain either, what with the people who play radios with the windows open. We need supplies such as lemonade, rickies, ice-cream cones, electric fans, fly-swatters and citronella. Spelvin, good old Spelvin, is in a delirium from the peculiar malady known as the "beer yearning," poor fellow. His cries for lager are most pitiful.

Peterson shot a ford this morning. This is the season when the fords overrun the country in great herds. We have to fight hard, I tell you, to keep them off our camp.

• • • •

U. S. A.—Tuesday—We are still in a very bad way from the heat, which shows no sign of letting up. We try to forget it, but the newspapers remind us of it with big, front-page stories and lists of heat victims. Hourly temperatures are displayed, too. It is all most depressing.

We have to go about in our filmsiest garments now. Larsen has abandoned his underwear and we sit about nights with our shoes off. We are suffering from a severe ice shortage. The ice man hasn't appeared in 48 hours and we fear he may have met with a mishap. Spelvin has gone out in search of him. Good old Spelvin! He's the boy to send out in search of an ice man.

Our food problem is serious. We have nothing but steaks, chops, veal pot pies and great stores of corned beef, which can not safely be consumed in such temperatures. Greeves, Larsen and Woffett left on a salad hunt last night. We have plenty of lettuce leaves and tuna fish, but no sliced eggs. Greeves is confident of bagging an ample supply of sliced eggs.

• • • •

U. S. A., Wednesday—Jenkins says we may get a shower today. We have now abandoned pajamas and are sleeping a little more comfortably. We do little now but sit about and read the weather forecasts. Larsen slew a pair of forecasters today. They both deserved it. This is bully sport. What a splendid fellow old Larsen is! Always doing good like that!

Woffett shot a cantaloupe dealer a few minutes ago. Our cantaloupes have had no flavor whatever and something had to be done about it.

• • • •

U. S. A., Thursday—There is much sickness in camp now due to eating softshell crab sandwiches at the beaches. Several of our men are laid up with chowder poisoning, too. Spelvin, wonderful Spelvin, slew a Giant Pest this evening. The fellow came around in a runabout and invited sixteen of us for a week-end automobile trip. Dear old thoughtful Spelvin!

He—Going down to the bathing beach?

She—No, I bruise too easily.

LETTERS TO THE EDITORS.

Police Would Be More Comfortable and More Efficient if Hot Weather Clothes Were Authorized.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The Broadway flapper with skirts above the knees, without stockings or bloomers, is after all brave and sensible to dress that way in the scorching, semitropical climate of our summers. But, with all the genius we profess to have, with all the wonderful organizations we have built in this country, has there been a man among the overpaid officials of the numerous governments of the States who ever took the trouble to "see" or "act" or "think" about the clumsiness and the unnecessary weight of the uniform of the Army and police force? It is no wonder that the poor policemen are often cross and irritable. To see them on a hot summer day, with a dark, heavy suit, jacket buttoned up to the top of their neck, with a cap fit for Arctic weather, is a sight that often makes us wonder about our national sanity. In the name of all the gods, why impose upon these poor men such a heavy, dark suit during the blistering, hot summer months?

What the police force needs is a sensible, light uniform for the summer months—and this should be worn from April 1 to October 1 in this part of the country—made out of unbleached white duck, no shirt or tie, with light cork helmet affording plenty of ventilation and protection from the scorching sun, a uniform on the same style as the summer uniform of the Navy officers. (I hope the Navy officers will not suffer a "lese-majeste" by this suggestion.) The added smart appearance and comfort and pride that the men would enjoy should greatly enhance the efficiency of the service. The objection I can already hear against this suggestion is that "we have no money to do it." GEORGE WILDON LLOYD.

Preparedness Prevents War. Why Not Show Europe the Extent of America's Man-Power Resources?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: We have had a number of ideas advanced as to how to prevent war most of them along pacifist lines. Now that the Russians and Chinese have evidently decided to settle their affairs by the last resort, war, with the prospect of Japan taking a hand, it is interesting to see just what influence resolutions to prevent war will have. Just what nation in Europe has the men, money or inclination to get tangled up in another war by interference. They all have had enough of war to last for another generation yet to come.

But it is the coming generations, that know nothing of war, which may at some future date show an aggressive tendency over questions of commerce, or any number of unforeseen complications that may arise.

The United States has shown the world that there will be no repetition of unpreparedness on its part. While the Army is doing well, through the R. O. T. C. and Citizen's Military Training Camps, why not have the Navy take up a plan that would furnish an object lesson to many European countries, and, at the same time, assist in the education of the American youth.

Let the high schools throughout the United States who have cadet corps, also the private military schools, get together with the view of forming a regiment of about a thousand students, and a band of not less than a hundred instruments. Let the Navy Department furnish an estimate of the cost for rations and all expenses incurred of a two months' cruise in one, or two if necessary, of their transports during the summer. These ships could make all the principal ports of the Atlantic, North Sea and the Mediterranean.

What would be the moral effect on the rising generation of Europe on seeing a regiment of this kind, and to hear that it was a mere handful. While I for one, am a firm believer in "See America first," still, I know the value of European travel in making better Americans. C. A. LOCKE.

A MODEL ROAD.

A beautiful piece of road a mile and a half long has been bought by Massachusetts from Henry Ford for $1, says the New York Times. After his purchase of the Wayside Inn Mr. Ford came to the conclusion that all the world was driving by. He decided to tempt the public to go elsewhere. There was reason to believe that if he built a masterpiece of highway in the vicinity he could divert unwelcome traffic. He acquired the land needed and laid out a road that became the talk of Massachusetts. Construction alone cost him $200,000. The right of way was 100 feet wide, so that on both sides of 30 feet of hard, smooth surface there was more than enough room for paths and landscape gardening. Then Mr. Ford turned his road over to the State.

The public works department is now engaged in giving it a setting to make it a model for road builders everywhere. Mr. Ford had set the pace. Natural surroundings he conserved. He cut down no trees if he could help it. He graded fills and cuts to harmonize with the land on both sides. Where possible, advantage was taken of vistas. A view of the Wayside Inn was left open. The plan now is to plant trees and shrubs in keeping with the neighborhood wild growth. The landscape engineer of the department, J. H. Taylor, is making it a labor of love. No less than 6,727 trees, shrubs, plants, vines and ferns were set out during the spring. In the list of trees were 3,000 white, Scotch, mountain and red pines, and 200 spruces, hemlocks and cedars. Among the other trees were ailanthus, catalpa, white birch, bird cherry, American plum, laurel, willow, elm, locust, mountain ash, tulip, linden and yellow birch. Every kind of shrub native to New England was also set out. Flowers and vines were added. The wayside promises to be a paradise for the amateur botanist. But will motorists respect such a wealth of blooms? Anyhow, the combination of Henry Ford and the State of Massachusetts will be hard to beat as road builders and landscape gardeners.

Perhaps.

Steubenville Herald-Star: Perhaps if all these magicians who are holding a convention at Lima were transferred to Washington they might be able to help Congress relieve somebody.

EVENTS OF INTEREST IN SOCIETY CIRCLES

Turkish Maid Is Secretary For Embassy

By JEAN ELIOT.

WHILE Washington has sent an occasional woman to a consular post abroad and one—Miss Lucille Atcherson, now married and out of the service—to diplomatic duty, no foreign country has yet sent a diplomat in petticoats to Washington, at all events not one with formal diplomatic status. However, once in a while some charming young woman comes to her country's embassy or legation to fill the role of social secretary. For example, there is Miss Gytha Stourton, an English girl, who has this post at the British Embassy and who makes her home with her kinsmen, the British Ambassador and Lady Isabella Howard.

The latest to join this group is Miss Gedide Deha, of Turkey, who is serving as social secretary to the Turkish Ambassador Ahmed Mouhtar Bey, as translator for a staff which speaks little English, and is making herself useful in a variety of ways. Young, pretty and charming, Miss Deha is in this country to complete her education and is enrolled as a student at the University of Chicago. She is putting in her holidays helping out at the embassy, succeeding Mrs. Jack Bernard Tate, formerly Miss Elizabeth Nelson, a Washington girl, who held this important post for a long time.

Mr. and Mrs. Tate, by the way, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son on Saturday, and Mrs. Tate is finding the young man more absorbing even than handling diplomatic correspondence for the Turkish republic. The baby is to be called Robert Wood Tate for Mr. Tate's father, Dr. Tate, of Bolivar, Tenn.

While in college Mrs. Tate specialized in French so successfully that she won a scholarship at the Sorbonne. So she brought a fluent command of the language of diplomacy to her work at the Turkish embassy. Indeed, it was primarily as a translator that she was employed and she took care of the social secretary's work rather as a side issue.

Miss Deha is finding this phase of her activities rather light just now, as the ambassador is in mourning, but she, too, puts in a great deal of time on the work of translation.

Mrs. Tate is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Thomas Nelson, of Washington. She was married a little over a year ago. Mr. Tate is an assistant to the solicitor of the Department of State.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crane sailed yesterday on the S. S. Rotterdam for Holland and will spend some time in Europe. They have been making their home for some years at Westover, one of the most famous of the colonial plantations on the James River. Mr. Crane was at one time U. S. minister to Czechoslovakia and is the son of Mr. Charles R. Crane, some time U. S. minister to China.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ullman, of Washington, who have a summer home at Wild Rose Shores, on South River, near Annapolis, have motored to Ocean City, N. J., for a visit.

The Secretary of the Interior, Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, who has been on an inspection tour in the West, has returned to his apartment at the Mayflower. Mrs. Wilbur is remaining in California for the present.

Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde and Miss Gertrude Hyde, wife and daughter of the Secretary of Agriculture, have come to Washington from their home in Trenton, Mo., to be with Mr. Hyde, and are staying at the Mayflower to remain through the rest of the summer. In the autumn Miss Hyde will enter one of the Capital's finishing schools for her senior year.

Will Spend the Next Two Years in Cuba

Underwood & Underwood.

Mrs. Kenneth Chappell and her baby, who were recently guests of Mrs. Chappell's mother, Mrs. Benjamin Reeves Russell, at her home in Kensington. Mrs. Chappell has left for Guantanamo, Cuba, where Lieut. Chappell, U. S. M. C., will be stationed for two years.

Letter Writing Occupies Time Of First Lady

Mrs. Hoover Busy While President Reviews Rainbow Division.

While President Hoover was in Baltimore yesterday to review the parade of the Rainbow Division and attend the luncheon given in connection therewith, Mrs. Hoover remained at the White House, busying herself with the correspondence which must necessarily accumulate in the busy life of the First Lady of the Land. Mr. Alan Hoover, who has just arrived at the White House from California, remained with his mother, while Mr. Herbert Hoover, jr., went to Baltimore with his father.

The President and Mrs. Hoover had Senator Hiram Bingham and his son, Mr. Hiram Bingham, jr., as their guests at dinner on Sunday evening. Mr. Bingham, who has been undergoing the usual period of training at the State Department since he passed his examinations for the foreign service, has been appointed vice consul at Kobe, Japan. He will leave Washington shortly and will sail from San Francisco August 2 for his new post.

The President and Mrs. Hoover had as their dinner guests at the White House last evening members of the newly created Federal Farm Board, together with Mr. Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, and other guests.

The Farm Board members present were the Messrs. James M. Stone, of Kentucky; Alexander H. Legge, of Illinois; C. C. Teague, of California; W. F. Schilling, of Minnesota; Charles S. Wilson, of New York; Carl Williams, of Oklahoma, and C. E. Denman, of Missouri.

Others present were Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland A. Newton, of St. Louis, Mo.; Mrs. Arthur MacArthur and three sons, Bowman, Douglas and Malcolm; Miss Anne Randolph and Miss Mary Randolph, Mr. Herbert Hoover, jr., and Mr. Alan Hoover.

Lord Willingdon, Governor General of Canada, will visit Murray Bay in the Province of Quebec, Canada, and will call upon Chief Justice Taft at his summer home. The governor general will be accompanied by Lady Willingdon and members of his staff. They will stay at the Manoir Richelieu Hotel for a few days before sailing for a yachting trip.

Capital Debutante

MISS ROSE PAGE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas W. Page, who is to be presented next winter. She is a sister of Miss Celeste Page.

Military Pomp Marks Wedding At War College

Miss Julia Dunkle Gitts Married to Lieut. Lyman Gano Miller.

Miss Julia Dunkle Kitts, daughter of Mrs. William Penn Kitts and the late Col. Kitts, U. S. A., was married yesterday to Lieut. Lyman Cano Miller, U. S. M. C. Lieut. Miller is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip H. Miller, of San Diego, Calif., and is at present on duty at the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J.

Mrs. Kitts and her daughter have been living at the Army War College. The ceremony took place at 4:30 o'clock yesterday at the Officers' Club of the post, Col. Edmund P. Easterbrook, chief of chaplains, U. S. A., officiating, and afterward there was a reception with dancing.

The orchestra of the Army Band played the wedding music, supplementing the familiar wedding marches with such charming numbers as the bridal chorus from "The Rose Maiden" and "Traumerei." And just before the service Mrs. Henry O. Swindler, wife of Capt. Swindler, U. S. A., sang "Because," with another Army officer's wife, Mrs. J. H. Ford, playing her accompaniments.

Col. McCaskey Escorts Bride.

Miss Kitts was escorted by her cousin, Col. Walter D. McCaskey, U. S. A. She had Miss Helen Carter, daughter of the late Lieut. Col. Robert Dexter Carter, as maid of honor, and her single bridesmaid was Miss Dorothy Grier, daughter of Col. H. S. Grier, an instructor at the Army War College, and Mrs. Grier. The best man was Lieut. M. B. Twining, U. S. M. C., and Lieut. H. F. McComsey, Air Service, U. S. N., served as usher.

The men of the wedding party were all in white uniform, as were many of the officers of the post who were among the guests; and the wedding was marked by picturesque military ceremonial.

The bride's gown was of eggshell moire, with the popular diagonal line emphasized. There was shirring at the left side and a slight drapery at the right, in which was caught a spray of orange blossoms. The sleeves were long and tight. The veil formed the only train—a voluminous veil of tulle on which was mounted a panel of beautiful old Maltese lace which had been worn by the bride's mother. This fell

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

DURING the course of her remarks at the Saturday evening performance I attended at the Columbia, Dolores Del Rio announced that her next picture will afford her her first talking role. The statement was greeted with tumultuous applause. From this I gathered that I was one with the audience in the view that Miss Del Rio will gain appreciably by being heard from the screen.

Her speaking voice betrays no quality that would seem to bar it from successful recording through the microphones, and her singing voice, already so recorded, is clear and wholly agreeable. The matter of accent seems to me to be negligible, in so far as intelligibility is concerned, although I am afraid that future roles will have to be scrupulously selected for the Mexican star in order that such slight Spanish accent as does manifest itself may be in consonance with the character to be portrayed. So far this has been successfully managed in the cases of Bacianova and Vilma Banky, in comparison with whom the artiste from below the Rio Grande speaks flawless English.

That is, so far as I have been able to judge.

To one of Mr. Johnston's introductory statements, preliminary to the star's appearance on the stage, however, I must take unimportant exception. In calling attention to the Parisian origin of Miss Del Rio's stunning costume, Mr. Johnston observed that the matter was mentioned only because she had never appeared in a role permitting her to adorn herself in modern dress.

Unless my memory is as bad as usual, Miss Del Rio's first appearance on the American screen was in ultra-smart attire in support of Dorothy Mackaill in "Joanna," a sprightly, but inconsequential, story of modern youth. That is to say, as modern as youth was in the early 1920's.

As long as we are still in the Columbia, you no doubt will be glad to be reminded that Al Wohlman, one of the Metro-Movietone artists appearing on the supplementary bill, is well known to many Washingtonians.

Mr. Wohlman is a youngster with a fine barytone voice and an elocutionary gift that tempts him to recite, as well as sing, every time he makes an appearance before an audience or a microphone. The present instance is no exception, his song, "Blues," the third on his list, being intoned for a large part of its length in a declamatory fashion that falls something short of Mansfield's or Forbes-Robertson's, but still is not so bad.

If Al just had to do this sort of thing, he should have chosen "Muddy Water" as his medium. This, to my notion, is the best thing he does, having an interpolated snatch of Kipling's "Boots" interwoven with the lyrics of the song in such a way as to produce quite a sock—an interwoven sock, so to say!

Mr. Wohlman, by the way, formerly personally conducted one of the more flourishing of the Atlantic City night clubs. Yes, that is probably where you met him!

Hardie Meakin's last gesture before departing the Capital for the seashore, was to send a telegram to each of the motion picture desks heralding the fact that the Fourteen Gorgeous Foxettes have now become the Sixteen ditto, ditto.

Oh, yeah?

Despite competitive personal appearances, augumented dancing ensembles and all the rest of it, I still am of the opinion that on the basis of novelty and all-round merit, "On With the Show," the Warner Brothers first 100 per cent natural color musical comedy, ought still to be running to profitable business way along in August. It is the season's top in its field.

For those who think that the advent of the talking picture has not proved a tremendous stimulus to the interest of the public in the cinema, I take pleasure in filching from Mr. William A. Johnston's Motion Picture News just a few of the figures compiled by Freddie Schader to indicate the state of the industry as it discloses itself along Broadway.

During the past six months Broadway picture houses—and only a few of them are on Broadway—have piled up a gross box-office intake of $12,607,958. The staggering sum has been garnered by an even 20 playhouses.

Extended run pictures presented in 12 houses accounted for $3,281,285, and eight so-called "grind" houses, including the Roxy, took in $9,326,673. Incidentally, the Roxy's share—largest by virtue of the largest seating capacity, 6,205—was $2,653,839.45.

And it may interest you, too, to know that while many of the old-time movie stars of the first water seem to be dropping out of the running, the vast changes that have been going on in studio personnel on both coasts has resulted in a 75 per cent increase in talent available to those engaged in making and marketing film entertainment.

By the way, how are you standing the cold snap?

Today's True Detective Story

By VANCE WYNN

The Great Express Company Robbery

IT was in the early eighties that one of the cleverest crooks in the country stood outside of the wired inclosure of an Adams Express office and looked longingly at a package of bank notes on a shelf beyond his reach.

It was near the noon hour and most of the clerks were preparing to go out for lunch. The crook noticed that some of them wore linen dusters and that when they left the inclosure they doffed these office coats and tossed them to one side. It did not take this gentleman long to come to his determination. The door leading to the inclosure was partly opened. He slipped inside and, tossing his hat into a corner, hastily put on an ink-smeared linen duster that had been discarded. He stuck a pen behind his ear and in that guise readily resembled one of the regular clerks.

He was in the inclosure less than a minute, and when he departed he carried with him a package of bonds which was estimated to be worth $10,000.

A few days after this it was reported that a man entered one of the oldest and wealthiest banks in the City of Philadelphia, and by means of a sharpened umbrella pulled out a package of money from behind one of the grilled windows and made his escape with it. The sum was placed at $1,000, but that was the least part of it. The audacity of the theft was what caused consternation in the financial district. If such things were possible, then no institution would be safe.

These two cases were much talked about, and they were especially interesting to Francis Kelly, the famous bank detective who patroled the financial district in Philadelphia and whose beat included the Custom House, the Sub-Treasury and the famous banking house of Drexel & Co., the Philadelphia branch of Drexel, Morgan & Co. Kelly was not only a keen student of human nature, but he knew the ways of the get-rich-quick members of the criminal fraternity. He discussed the matter with one of his associates.

"I'd be willing to stake my reputation on the fact that both of these jobs were done by Chauncey Johnson," he said. "I know his methods like a book and I don't know another man in the United States who could have pulled them off as neatly as Johnson."

Kelly had been in the United States Secret Service and had also been chief of detectives in Philadelphia, but at that time was in the employ of the houses in the financial district. He acted as he often said, as a "preventive." The bank crooks knew that he was on the job there, and as a consequence they gave that section a pretty wide berth.

But the moth will hover around the flame, and one morning Kelly noticed a rather striking-looking man in the neighborhood of the Drexel bank. The detective watched him for some moments, and presently the man entered the portals of the bank. Kelly walked up to him and touched him on the shoulder.

"Good morning, Chauncey," he said familiarly, "what are you doing here?"

"I don't know you," was the gruff reply, "and that's not my name."

"Why," was the cheerful reply, "everybody knows Chauncey Johnson, and I'm somebody."

It was impossible to brazen it out any longer, and the famous bank robber admitted his identity. He insisted, however, that he had no evil intentions on this particular bank and had walked in for the purpose of looking at the large oil painting of the founder of the house.

The explanation was accepted, but the man was taken into custody and lodged in the City Hall. Later he was escorted to New York, where it was said that he was wanted for the Adams Express Company robbery.

The moral is that it is dangerous to take too many chances—even if you are at the head of your profession.

Both Maids Favor Delphinium.

The maid of honor wore a peach-tinted frock and the bridesmaid delphinium blue. They were fashioned alike of chiffon. The skirts, formed of two circular flounces, were sleeveless and had deep cape berthas of chiffon to finish the decolletage. Both wore hats of eggshell horsehair, folded back smartly in front and trimmed with bands of delphinium blue ribbon; and both carried bouquets of peach-colored roses and delphinium.

Col. McCaskey, who acme from State College, Pa., for the wedding, was accompanied by Mrs. McCaskey and Mr. Mahlon Miller, brother of the bridegroom, was also among the out-of-town guests.

When Lieut. Miller and his bride left for their wedding trip, she wore a pearl-gray ensemble of crepe and kasha, with a small matching hat of felt. They will make their home at Lakehurst, N. J., after their honeymoon.

The former Postmaster General and Mrs. Harry S. New have closed their house, Hemlock Hedge, in Edgemoor, and have left by motor for their camp on Turtle Lake, Mich.

Justice Butler Sails for Europe.

Justice Pierce Butler, of the U. S. Supreme Court, sailed yesterday for Europe on the S. S. Berengaria. The Marchioness of Townsend, Mayor of Kings Lynn, England, who was recently a visitor in Washington, was also a passenger on the Berengaria, as was Mr. James W. Gerard, former U. S. Ambassador to Germany.

The United States Minister to Uruguay, Mr. Grant-Smith, is passing several days at the Wardman Park Hotel.

Mrs. McCumber Leaves For Summer Cottage.

Mrs. Porter J. McCumber, wife of former Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, left town last night for her summer cottage at Detroit Lake, Minn. She was accompanied by her son, Mr. Donald R. McCumber, and her small grandson, Mr. Harrison Brand 3d. Business will keep Mr. McCumber in town, and Mr. and Mrs. Harrison Brand, jr., are remaining with him. Mrs. Brand was formerly Miss Helen McCumber.

Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Edward L. King have arrived in Washington from Fort Leavenworth, Kans., where Gen. King was in command until recently. He will take up his duties here as assistant chief of staff for operations. Gen. and Mrs. King have taken an apartment at the Martinique, and after they are settled Mrs. King will go to Fort Monroe to remain until September.

Gen. and Mrs. King made their home here several years ago, Gen. King being an instructor at the War College, and they have numerous friends in the Capital. Their son-in-law and daughter, Lieut. and Mrs. Charles Lee Andrews, jr., with their two children, who have been at Coronado on the West Coast, will shortly move to Annapolis, where the former will be an instructor at the Naval Academy. Mrs. Andrews was formerly Miss Nancy King.

Mr. and Mrs. John Rutherfoord, who are at Green Plains, their country home in Virginia, have Mrs. Rutherfoord's mother, Mrs. Alphonso Mason, with them for the summer.

Undersecretary Returns After Visiting Family.

The Undersecretary of State, Mr. Joseph P. Cotton, returned to his apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel yesterday after passing several days with Mrs. Cotton and their son, Mr. Joseph P. Cotton, jr., and daughter, Miss Isabel Cotton, at their summer home at Bedford Hills, N. Y.

Mrs. Charles F. Hughes, wife of Admiral Hughes, has returned after accompanying their daughter, Mrs. Otto Nimitz, to her summer place in Maine.

Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. L. F. Safford, who have recently returned to Washington for station, are now established at 5620 Colorado avenue. They were on duty here three years ago and have since been on the West Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pembroke Thom have as their guest at Pembroke Park, on Pierce Mill road, Mrs. H. Randolph Unsworth, of New Orleans, La., who will remain a fortnight. Mrs. Unsworth was formerly Miss Waldo Latham, of Washington, and has many friends here. Mrs. Thom was hostess to a small company at luncheon yesterday in her honor.

Mr. and Mrs. Thom are planning to start early in August on a motor trip to Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis To Leave City Soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade H. Ellis expect to leave Washington the latter part of this week for a ten day's motor trip. They are keeping open their house on Massachusetts avenue through the summer, but usually spend the weekends at Rippin Lodge, their country home in Virginia. On Sunday, when they were at Rippin Lodge for the day, they entertained at luncheon, having as guests Mr. Thomas Campbell, former Governor of Arizona and more recently U. S. Commissioner for the Seville Exposition, and Mrs. Campbell, Brig. Gen. Frank L. Parker, Mrs. John Dana and Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Mondel.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carter Lafferty closed their house at Sixteenth and P streets yesterday and have gone to Atlantic City. They will be at the Marlborough-Blenheim for the rest of the summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Lambert To Leave for Europe.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Lambert will leave tomorrow for a ten-week tour of Europe. Mr. Lambert will go primarily as the guest of the Carl Schurz Society of Germany, and to write his observations of that country's post-war revival, but they will also visit in France, Belgium, England and Ireland.

Mrs. Clarence M. Busch, national president of the National League of American Pen Women, will entertain informally at a Tea Table League Talk Wednesday afternoon at her home in Chevy Chase, Md., when her guests will be the members of the national executive board and also chairmen of special national committees. The invitation is for 4 o'clock, and when all are assembled matters of special interest to the league membership will be discussed over the teacups.

Miss Marjorie Ruckman has gone to New York to attend the summer session of the School of Fine and Practical Arts at Columbia University, and will be at 48 Gramercy Park, South.

Miss Flynn Marries Mr. W. A. Zalesak.

Miss Mary Louise Flynn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James A. Flynn, was married yesterday to Mr. William A. Zalesak, son of Mr. and Mrs. V. Zalesak, the ceremony taking place in St. Matthew's Church at 4 o'clock. The Rev. Dr. John Coady officiated. The church had an effective arrangement of palms and gladioli. Organ selections were played as the guests were assembling.

Th bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown of antique French taffeta fashioned with a long fitted bodice and a full skirt with an uneven hemline. Her tulle veil fell from a cap of tulle held at the sides and back with orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Mary A. Fitzgerald was maid of honor, wearing a frock of chartreuse taffeta, the long ruffled skirt trimmed with a large bow at the left side. She wore a chartreuse horsehair hat and matching slippers and carried yellow roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Helen Gartside, Miss Margaret Rout, Miss Marion Jamieson and Miss Margaret Geagan. They wore graceful frocks of chiffon, two being in yellow and two in orchid, and their hats were of horsehair to correspond with the gowns. They carried bouquets of garden flowers. Miss Eleanor Flynn, young sister of the bride, was a special attendant, wearing a bouffant frock of eggshell organdy and carrying an old-fashioned bouquet.

Mr. Emanuel F. Zalesak, of Baltimore, was best man and the ushers were Mr. Peter M. Tamburro, of Alexandria, La.; Mr. Wilton Stienbauer, of Winona, Minn.; Mr. Vincent Griffith, of Philadelphia, Pa., and Mr. Eugene Gotwalt, of York, Pa.

Immediately following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents, when Mrs. Flynn, the bride's mother, and Mrs. Zalesak, mother of the bridegroom, received with the wedding party, the former in a blue lace ensemble with a large hat to match and the latter in a gown of black lace with a horsehair hat.

Mr. Zalesak and his bride left later on a motor trip west. They will pass some time on Lake Michigan and in Canada. The latter's traveling costume was a brown dotted ensemble with an eggshell blouse and a brown felt hat. They will make their home at Schenectady, N. Y.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. Robert Jamieson, of Chicago; Mrs. Edward C. Flynn, of Desplaines, Ill.; Mrs. W. W. Fleming, of Chicago; Dr. James Schmidt, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Kubat, of Brooklyn, and Mrs. P. Lucek, of New York.

The United States Ambassador to Spain, Mr. Ogden Hammond, and Mrs. Hammond are due in New York today on the S. S. Olympic.

Mrs. John W. Weeks, widow of the former Secretary of War, has opened her summer home on the summit of Mount Prospect at Lancaster, N. H. Her daughter, Mrs. John W. Davidge, of Washington, and her family are visiting her.

Mrs. S. H. Cayce, of Memphis, Tenn., arrived in Washington last night, to be the guest of Mrs. Eleanor Cox Griffith for a few days.

Mrs. R. O. Sanderson was hostess at luncheon today on the Willard roof. She had eight guests.

Mrs. Miller Announces Daughter's Engagement.

Mrs. Milton Miller announces the engagement of her daughter, Mrs. Cecilia L. Fant, to Lieut. Thomas Albert Wildman, Medical Corps, U. S. A. The wedding will take place in September.

Mrs. Robert L. Owen, wife of former Senator Owen, has returned to the Wardman Park Hotel from Muskogee, where she was called by the illness of her mother.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Spence have taken an apartment at 1875 Mintwood place.

Capital Girls Are Entertained on Coast.

Mrs. Jenks Cameron and her daughters, Miss Betty Cameron and Miss Jean Cameron, of Washington, are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davenport, in Spokane, Wash. The girls are being much entertained. Their aunt, Mrs. Harry T. Davenport, gave a bridge and tea in their honor, and one day last week they were honor guests at a luncheon and swimming party, for which Miss Claudia Randall was hostess. Miss Randall will be queen of the derby at the forthcoming Interstate Fair.

Capt. and Mrs. C. W. Walton, of Langley Field, Va., are in Washington for the week and are staying at the Mayflower. They will then go to Highland Park, Ill., for the Ravinia Opera season.

Miss Lillian Tober, of Bridgeport, Conn., is the guest this week of Mr. and Mrs. Guy G. Harper, of 1208 Kenyon street. Miss Tober plans a trip to New York to visit friends before her return home.

Announcement has just been made of the marriage of Miss Lyne Starling Smith, of Washington, and Mr. Victor F. Williams, of Guilford, Me., which took place in Fairfax, Va., on October 13, 1928. The Rev. Mr. Marshall, of the Episcopal Church, performed the ceremony.

Mrs. Williams, a graduate of George Washington University and a member of the Chi Omega fraternity, is the daughter of Mrs. Thomas Lee Smith, of Frankford, Ky., and the late Col. Smith, U. S. A.

Mr. Williams is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Summer Williams, of Guilford, Me. He is a graduate of Bowdoin College, a member of the Psi Upsilon fraternity and is now attending the George Washington Law School.

They will be at home after September 3 at the Knowlton Apartments, 2227 Twentieth street.

Pilot to Tell Experiences Over WRC

Wesley Smith, Pioneer Air Mail Flier, to Be Heard by Radio Audience—On WMAL, Officer Will Discuss Citizen Camps.

Cool weather brought an improvement in atmospheric conditions last night.

One of the pioneers of the air mail service, Wesley Smith, veteran pilot of the New York-to-Chicago route, will be the speaker in the third broadcast of the series, "Roads of the Sky," at 6 o'clock tonight over WRC. "Flying the Mail: New York to Chicago" will be the subject of his talk. He will tell the dramatic details of the pioneer flights through the night from Hadley Field, N. J., to Chicago with the daily mail.

The story of Wesley Smith is practically the story of the development of air mail service in the United States. He is one of the most famous fliers of the air mail routes, and, although superintendent of the New York-Chicago division, he still insists upon piloting one of the fast mail planes himself. Smith's first flight over the line in 1919 came very near being his last, according to the aviator. The details of that trip will be told by him during his radio talk.

The music of Napoli provides the entire program for the broadcast "Neapolitan Nights" at 10 o'clock. Featured artists to be heard include Antoinette Consoli, soprano; Berta Marchetti, contralto; Giuseppe di Benedetto, tenor; Nino Fucile, barytone, and a mandolin ensemble. The concert orchestra will be under direction of Pasquale Rescigno.

Sixty minutes of current favorites will be played by Bill Scotti's orchestra from the Hotel Manger at 11 o'clock, including "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover," "Eyeful of You," "Sleepy Valley" and "Am I a Passing Fancy?"

From his bungalow in Universal City, Paul Whiteman has called upon a far-off Broadway revue entitled "The Little Show" to supply the numbers he will feature in the Old Gold-Paul Whiteman Hour at 8 o'clock from WRC. The selections to be included in "The Little Show" medley are "I've Made a Habit of You," "Moaning Low," "Or What Have You" and "A Little Hut."

Other numbers are "Right Out of Heaven," "Yours Sincerely," "Evangeline," "Singing in the Rain," "Sing a Little Love Song," "I'm Just a Vagabond Lover," "Things That Were Made for Love" and "Down Among the Sugar Cane."

Frederic William Wile, on duty this month as a major in the Officers Reserve Corps of the United States Army and doing his "tour" of service at Fort Myer, Va., will speak from WMAL at 7 o'clock. His topic will divert from his well-known political theme and concern itself with the C. M. T. C. movement for training the youth of America to be defenders of their country in times of emergency.

Old favorites, ranging from classic to popular, will be played by David Mendoza and his orchestra in the program in the Fada Salon Hour at 9 o'clock. The program will open with the overture to "Pagliacci" and will include "Bells of the Moon," "Variation," by Delibes, and "Parandole," Victor Hall and Ethel Codd will sing a duet, "Thine Alone," and old favorites to be heard are "Poor Butterfly," "Some Sweet Day" and "Southern Roses." The program will end with "Close of Day," the theme song of this hour written by Mendoza.

The Singing Mothers of Washington, under direction of Mrs. Eppa Norris, the well-known concert and church choir singer, will be heard in a short recital from WOL at 8:45 o'clock. During the course of the concert, Mrs. Norris will tell briefly how this organization of the District Congress of Parents and Teachers was formed, and Mrs. C. R. Speaker, secretary of the Langdon Parent-Teachers Association, will speak on the vacation activities of the children of Langdon, as directed by the Parent-Teachers Association.

Through a specially-built short-wave transmitter located on one of the boats, the Ohio River boat race between the Betsy Ann and the Tom Greene will be radiocast by WLW at 5 o'clock by Ford Billings, station director.

Temporary license to operate a 99 meter, 3030 kilocycle, transmitter was received at WLW yesterday from the Federal Radio Commission.

What Today Means to You

"CANCER."

IF July 16 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to 11 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. and from 11 p. m. to 12 midnight; the danger periods are from 7 a. m. to 8 a. m. and from 1 p. m. to 2 p. m.

A restful time is not predicted for this date, as few prearranged plans will reach materialization. Events, on the whole, however, will prove beneficial, when you have recovered from the confusion and surprises of the moment.

The child born July 16 will have a very friendly personality, and will be ready to chum up with nearly everyone. Its nature will be truly democratic, and there will be no affectation about it.

Your habit of procrastination overshadows many of your more worthy characteristics. Your intentions, which are very worthy, are poor substitutes for deeds and actions. Your tomorrows are crammed full of today's unfinished business. You are never caught up with your obligations. It takes extreme measures to make you act at once. You expect circumstances and man to wait for your convenience. Your dilatory ways kill your dependability. Stop making resolutions which you break, and strengthen your will power!

You are not addicted to worry, and conditions which would harass and fret another do not annoy you in the least. You are rather willing to "pass the buck" in this respect.

Your extreme tolerance is one of your fine traits. Your judgments are never quick or harsh, and you always try to place yourself in the other fellow's boots before condemning. You are kind to others and advantage is often taken of your sympathy and generosity. In your impetuous way, however, you often promise to do things, the fulfillment of which is impossible. You often say things for which you are immediately sorry. Your loyalty, your affection and your chronic good nature are factors which should make your home a place of happiness for both you and the man or woman of your choice. You would make a very indulgent parent.

City's Radio Business Is Big in 1928

Gross Sales of Sets Given as $6,490,957 for Year in Department of Commerce Report; Few Dealers Answer Query.

Dealers in radio receiving sets in the District did approximately $6,490,957 worth of business in sales of sets alone last year, or an average of $56,813 volume of sales for each dealer, according to the electrical equipment division of the Department of Commerce, which has just completed a national survey with the cooperation of the National Electrical Manufacturers Association.

Although only 16 dealers, or 14 per cent of the 117 in the District, replied to the query sent out by the Department of Commerce, the figures obtained are considered representative of the volume of business transacted by the whole group.

The 16 dealers sold 164 battery sets and 4,998 alternating current sets during 1928 and thus did a volume of business amounting to $909,014, the survey reveals.

This average is well above that of the dealers of the country as a whole. The volume of business per dealer for the United States is $10,800, which is less than the figure for 1927, which was $11,750, though the difference is accounted for in the reduction of prices on sets.

The average value of the sets sold throughout the nation was $158.50 for 1928, and $231 for 1927.

As for the wholesalers of the United States, the 261 of the 1,140 reporting claimed a volume of business of $91,068,091 during 1928. They sold 88,549 battery and 703,071 AC sets and did an average business of $349,000. The average number of sets sold during the year by each wholesaler was 3,040 for an average price of $115.

Even a heavy snowstorm and 25 minutes notice did not prevent Edwin Dunham, now of the NBC production department, from broadcasting Sir Harry Lauder when he had the opportunity, back in the days when broadcast programs got on the air more or less by the mercy of Providence.

Dunham was then program manager, announcer and a little bit of everything else of WGI, at Medford Hillside. About 2,000 yards from the studio was Goddard Chapel, of Tufts College. Sir Harry was to appear there.

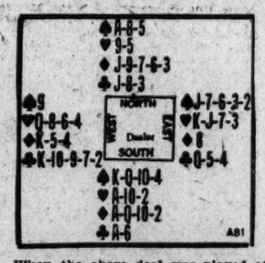
The station had no idea it would be allowed to broadcast the famous Scot, but permission was received—25 minutes before Sir Harry was to begin. Dunham, who also has had a great deal of experience on the technical side of radio, turned out the station personnel to a man.

Carrying two reels of wire, the station force floundered through the snow, unreeling the wire behind them as they went. Half exhausted, they reached the chapel. A microphone was hastily rigged up. Somewhat out of breath, Dunham, stepping into his character of announcer, walked up to it, with some misgivings, and essayed a test. The word was flashed back over the communication wire from the studio that the circuit was in working order.

A moment later Sir Harry was ready to begin his entertainment. Durham announced him. This, Dunham believes, was the first time Sir Harry ever faced a microphone.

WORK'S BRIDGE

WE start today a "Could You Do Better?" series, which will appear on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week.



When the above deal was played at Auction Bridge the bidding was: South one No Trump, followed by three passes.

If it had been played in a game of Contract, the bidding would have been: South two No Trumps, West pass, North three No Trumps, followed by three passes.

West led the fourth best card of his longest suit—the Seven of Clubs; the Eight, Queen and Ace were played by North, East and South, respectively. South won trick 2 with the King of Spades and to trick 3 led the Four of Spades; North won with the Ace, West refusing. To trick 4, North led the Jack of Diamonds, on which South played the Ten; West won with the King. West then led his King of Clubs and, on the next trick, established his Clubs, North winning with the Jack. After this the Declarer took in four Diamond tricks, playing first the Ace and Queen from the closed hand and winning the last two in dummy. Dummy then led a Spade and, as West had refused Spades on the second round, the finesse of the Ten was a sure winner; so Declarer made in all four Spades, one Heart, four Diamonds and two Clubs—a total of eleven tricks, five-odd.

Could you have done better?

THE ANSWER.

The approved lead from a long suit headed by King-Ten-Nine or Ace-Ten-Nine is the Ten—the top of an intermediate sequence. Had West's first lead been the Ten of Clubs, it would have made no difference whether dummy covered with the Jack or played small; Declarer would win but one Club trick and the adversaries' Clubs would be established on either the first or second trick; of course, East would not play his Queen unless dummy played the Jack. After that it would be impossible for declarer to win a total of nine tricks before West won the lead and cashed his remaining Clubs for a total of five tricks and a saved game.

Always be careful to make the correct opening lead.

JULY 16.

MARY BAKER EDDY, discoverer and founder of the theory and practice of Christian Science, and founder of the Church of Christ Scientist, was born this day, 1821.

Mrs. Eddy's parents were members of the Congregational Church. She gives 1866 as the date when she discovered Christian Science. Her followers believe that living in strict accordance with Christian Science will not only improve their moral and spiritual condition but will insure their physical welfare.

Mrs. Eddy died in 1910. There are approximately 2,000 Science churches and societies in America and a considerable number in foreign countries. She is most widely known as the author of the book, "Science and Health With Key to Scriptures," first published in 1875.

Dare INTERPRETS the MODE

"Premier Rayon," a two-piece dress combining plain navy and small beige and white flowers printed on a navy background. (Courtesy of J. Suzanne Talbot, Paris).

TROUSERS for women have found another warm advocate in the Parisian Haute Couture. This time it is the Maison Mag-Helly that is sponsoring a graceful version of these garments, in a form somewhat different from those advocated by Poiret.

It is the idea of Mme. Mag that since a woman sitting down must inevitably show something of what is worn beneath the skirt, that garment beneath should not partake of the character of underwear, such as none-too-esthetic bloomers, for example, but should be an integral part of the ensemble, just as tastefully designed as the dress itself, and frequently of the same material.

* * * *

She has, therefore, designed a number of such outfits, with trousers beneath the skirt and just a trifle longer, so as to show just a glimpse. A band at the bottom fastens about the leg, somewhat as in the case of golf knickerbockers—without the "plus four" effect, to be sure.

Which in turn reminds us of a clever costume shown by Nicole Groult. This was an afternoon or house pajama in a black and white polkadot, trimmed in red and black embroidery and ribbons, rather simply tailored. With this was a long tunic of black crepe de chine, faced and trimmed in the pajama material, which when slipped over the pajamas made an attractive afternoon dress ensemble, with the trouser legs showing just slightly beneath the skirt.

Ten hats! But we make only one, you see, and a lot of different brims—and promise you absolutely that each of the ten is chic and doesn't look the slightest little bit homemade or anything. Send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for the illustrated leaflet, which tells you exactly how to make it—or them.

* * * *

What do you mean you can't do anything with it? There isn't anything we can't do something with—that is after we all study the matter and weep and struggle over it for a certain length of time.

You see, it was this way—but we guess we will tell you mañana!

For Petite Adorable!

A darling summer hat for Petite Adorable! It has a washable linen crown, and ever so many brims that snap on to it! A brim to match each of her summer dresses, you see. Hurry! Send for the leaflet.

J. Suzanne Talbot experiments with rayon, and evolves this delightful summer suit I illustrated for you today. It combines plain navy with navy printed in small beige and white flowers, and is cunningly trimmed with tiny pleats.

The weekly Dare fashion letter appears in the Capital exclusively in The Sunday Post. It will pay you to look for each one.

245 Orphans to Go On Annual Picnic

Employes Association of Gas Light Company to Treat Children.

Two hundred and forty-five orphans will visit Chesapeake Beach today as guests of the Employes Beneficial Association of the Washington Gas Light Co., which will hold its forty-first annual excursion.

The children—from St. John's, St. Joseph's and St. Vincent's orphanages and the Jewish Foster Home—will leave their orphanages at 9 o'clock by bus for the District line, where they will board the 10 o'clock train.

The orphans will be treated to picnic lunch and supper in a shady grove and will be given free rides on all of the amusements. After a swim in the bay, they will be treated to ice cream and other refreshments. A special program of athletics has been arranged for them.

C. M. Deener heads the arrangements committee.

RAILS MOVE AHEAD AS MONEY TIGHTENS

Heavy Profit Taking Sets in Among Industrials and Utilities.

STEEL COMMON YIELDS

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—Another flurry in call money, coming at a time when more stable credit conditions had been widely expected, prompted heavy profit taking in the industrials and utilities in today's stock market, but the bull movement in rails was pushed onward with unabated enthusiasm.

Call loans renewed at 9 per cent, the rate established a week ago, but rose to 10 and then to 12 per cent, as the banks called more than $50,000,000 in loans. The high rate was said to have brought funds from out of town, and the market rallied somewhat in the late trading.

Forecasts of substantially easier money during the latter part of the summer were still heard in Wall street, despite an increase in time money to 7¾ per cent for all maturities, as compared to 7½ per cent last week. George Reynolds, chairman of the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co., of Chicago, however, stated that there was little prospect of relief from tight money in the immediate future.

Would Reduce Borrowings.

Calling of loans was attributed to the desire of banks to reduce their borrowings at the Federal Reserve, which were heavily increased to tide the money market over the July 1 pinch. Bankers state that the new small sized bills had been a factor in keeping credit tight, as they have created an extraordinary demand for currency, which has imposed a drain on banks throughout the country. The mid-month settlements have also been heavy.

A spectacular rise in wheat futures, carrying prices more than 40 cents a bushel above the low prices of late May, was an important development of the day, and helped to steady the market before the close. Several favorable second quarter earnings statements appeared, including Chesapeake Corporation, By Products Coke, S. S. Kresge and Independent Oil & Gas.

The Associated Press price index of 20 leading rails was elevated about 3 points further into record high territory. Such issues as New York Central, Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Delaware & Hudson, Union Pacific and Reading sold up 5 to 8 points to new peaks.

C. & O. Leads in Advance.

Chesapeake & Ohio led the advance with a gain of more than 13 points, selling at the unprecedented figure of 275½. Pennsylvania sold at 97½, the highest on record, and New Haven reached a new top at 115. Alleghany Corporation stocks again touched record prices in response to the company's first earnings statement, covering the period from organization February 15 to June 30 and showing net of $1,219,106.

There were a few strong spots among the industrials and specialties. International Business Machines selling up nearly 13 points to a record price, and Underwood Elliott Fisher making a wide gain.

American International, Fleischmann, By Products Coke, General Asphalt, Continental Insurance and Mathieson Alkali also recorded new peaks. Although utilities were generally under pressure of profit taking on last week's sharp advances, Consolidated Gas mounted 3 points higher into new high territory, and American & Foreign Power soared 10 points.

Steel Off About 4 Points.

Heaviness of U. S. Steel, which lost about 4 points, was particularly unsettling. Allied Chemical, Allis Chalmers, Auburn Auto and General Electric dropped 4 to 8 points, while such shares as International Telephone, Bethlehem Steel, Columbia Gas, United Corporation, National Dairy Products, Public Service, of New Jersey, and Anaconda Copper lost 2 to 3 points. Federal Mining dropped 25 points, then rallied 15, closing off 10. Crosley Radio and American Zinc and Lead were among issues touching new 1929 lows.

Wheat futures shot up 8 to nearly 9 cents a bushel on further bullish crop estimates from Canada and unfavorable weather in the Northwest. Corn mounted 2½ to nearly 5 cents on bullish weather and decreased visible supply. Cotton, however, was under pressure, losing $1 a bale and more on favorable weather and lower Liverpool cables.

Foreign exchanges were firmer, with sterling cables moving up 1-16 of a cent to $4.85 1-16.

CARRIER BONDS SOAR TO NEW HIGH LEVELS

FEDERAL LIST SOFTENS

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—Buying centered in the rails in today's irregular bond market market, with six issues reaching new highs for the year in the carrier group. The market opened strong, but turned irregular with tighter credit brought about by the midmonth settlements and the large circulation of the new money. Time money was firm at 7¾, compared to 7½ for last week, and call money renewed at 9 and moved up to 12 per cent.

The advances in the rails reflected the strength displayed by group in the stock market. Atchison Convertible 4½s ran up to a new peak at 151¾ and closed at 151½ for a net gain of 2 points. A new high was also touched by Missouri Pacific 5½s, which sold up to 123½ and finished at 122¾, a gain of 3½. New Haven Convertible 6s rose 2½ to a new top at 130. Others to establish new highs were Green Bay & Western with a net gain of 4¾, and Southern Pacific 4½s of 1969.

The Alleghany Corporation issues were strong, the 5s of 1949 selling up to 109½ and winding up at 108¼ for a tally of 1¼ on publication of net profit of $1,219,106 from February 15, the date of organization, to June 30.

American Telephone & Telegraph Convertible 4½s again were under accumulation, getting up to a new peak at 172¾ and closing at 171¾ for a net gain of 2¼ on a turnover of $1,883,000 par value. International Telephone Convertible 4½s yielded 2½ to profit-takers; a new peak was scaled by Remington 5½s at 97¼ on an advance of 1½. Chairman James H. Rand, jr., announced the company was going to retire its second preferred stock. Sinking fund requirements on the bonds for three years, he said, were in the Treasury.

In the foreign list the 6s of Kreuger & Toll, which controls the Swedish Match Trust, crossed 100 for the first time this year, but closed at 99⅜ for a fractional gain.

The United States Government obligations turned irregularly lower.

BANK INVESTMENTS DISCLOSE DECREASE

Reserve Board Reports Drop in Loans, Net Demand and Time Deposits.

STOCK TRADING IS LIGHT

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Decreases of $51,000,000 in loans and investments, $123,000,000 in net demand deposits, $25,000,000 in time deposits, $39,000,000 in Government deposits and an increase of $24,000,000 in borrowings from Federal Reserve banks were shown yesterday in the Federal Reserve Board's condition statement of weekly reporting member banks in 101 leading cities as of July 10.

Loans on securities declined $49,000,000 at all reporting banks, $72,000,000 in the New York district and $7,000,000 in the Cleveland district, and increased $3,000,000 in the Boston district, $7,000,000 each in those of Atlanta and Chicago and $6,000,000 in the Philadelphia district.

"All other" loans advanced $11,000,000 at reporting banks in the New York district, $7,000,000 each in the Cleveland and Chicago districts, $6,000,000 in the Kansas City district and $30,000,000 at all reporting banks. Holdings of United States Government securities fell off $19,000,000 at all reporting banks and $10,000,000 in the San Francisco district, and holdings of other securities, $6,000,000 each in the Boston and New York districts and $11,000,000 at all reporting banks.

Net demand deposits, which at all reporting banks were $123,000,000 below the July 3 total, declined $109,000,000 in the New York district, $14,000,000 in the Boston district, $13,000,000 in the Chicago district and $6,000,000 in that of Philadelphia, increasing $12,000,00 in the San Francisco district and $8,000,000 in the Cleveland district.

Time deposits receded $8,000,000 in the Cleveland district, $6,000,000 in the San Francisco district and $25,000,000 at all reporting banks. The principal changes in borrowings from Federal Reserve banks for the week were increases of $14,000,000 and $7,000,000, respectively, at the Federal Reserve banks of New York and Boston.

Railroad Expenditures Set Record.

Expenditures made by Class I railroads in 1928 for taxes, including Federal, State and local taxes, were the largest for any year on record, according to reports just filed by the carriers and made public today by the Bureau of Railway economics.

During the calendar year $389,432,403 were expended for this purpose, an increase of $509,547 over the previous high record established in 1926 and an increase of $13,322,183 over 1927.

Out of each dollar of gross revenue in 1928 the railroads paid 6 2-5 cents in taxes, which for the first time exceeded the amount spent for fuel. Of expenditures made out of gross revenue last year the tax bill of the railroads was only exceeded by two other items, labor requiring 43 cents out of each dollar of gross revenue and materials and supplies requiring 18 1-5 cents.

Class I railroads in 1928 paid $431,630,914 in cash dividends. In 1927, cash dividends amounted to $411,581,093. Of the total dividends paid in 1928, $248,492,875 represented dividends charged against current net income, while $182,538,039 was charged to the surplus account.

Stock Trading Is Light.

The opening of the Washington Stock Exchange for the week was characterized by light trading, the bond division's total of transactions, $6,800, being $6,400 under last Friday's session and the stock turnover of 517, falling under Friday's new high for the past four months by 5,382 shares.

Volume of stock trading was swelled appreciably by transfer of 400 shares of National Mortgage & Investment preferred at 4¾, fractional recession. Thirty-five shares of Terminal Refrigerating changed hands at fractional declines from 51½ and sales of 32 shares of Merchants Bank & Trust Co., at 150, were also recorded.

New Richmond Bond Offering.

A banking group headed by Chase Securities Corporation, including Barr Brothers & Co., Inc., A. B. Leach & Co., Guardian Detroit Co., Inc., and the American Bank & Trust Co. of Richmond, is offering $2,550,000 City of Richmond, Va., 4½ per cent bonds. Of this issue, $1,000,000 of the bonds falling due in 1939 are priced to yield 4.50 per cent and the remainder, due in 1963, are priced to yield 4.40 per cent.

The bonds, which are issued for various public improvement purposes, are a legal investment for savings banks and trust funds in New York State. The assessed valuation of the City of Richmond as officially reported for 1929 is $266,756,591 and its net bonded debt $26,526,633.

W. W. Marlow Guest of Honor.

Approximately 40 of the employes of Second National Bank surprised Walter W. Marlow, cashier of that bank, with a testimonial dinner at the Continental Hotel last night, in celebration of his twentieth year's association with the institution. Mr. Marlow was presented a gold wrist watch by his fellow officials and employes.

He has been cashier of the bank since 1922 and entered its service July 28, 1909, as a bookkeeper, rising through the grades as collection teller, discount teller, paying teller and assistant cashier. At the annual meeting of the bank last January he was elected a director.

Most Prosperous Nation.

With a per capita wealth of $3,126.90, the Swiss is the world's most prosperous nation, according to the new edition of economic chart compiled annually by Redmond & Co. The survey just issued presents the economic statistics, under 60 classifications, of 49 countries.

Next in order of per capita wealth are New Zealand, $3,029; United States, $2,908; Canada, $2,770; Australia, $2,710.50; Great Britain, $2,677.70. Soviet Russia, with $215.80 is at the bottom of the list of major countries.

In per capita debt New Zealand ranks first with $841.40; Great Britain next with $815.20 and France third with $646.70. The debt burden of the German, with $16.60 is among the lightest. On a prewar basis of 100, the cost of living is highest in Czechoslovakia with 741 and lowest in Poland with 103.

Living costs are figured at 172 for the United States and 150 for Canada. The United States distanced all other countries in 1928 with a favorable visible trade balance of $681,100,000. The Dutch East Indies, with a population of 51,718,000, was next with $292,546,000. Great Britain had the highest adverse trade balance of $1,882,278,000 followed by Germany with $846,426,000.

Assistant Cashier I. J. Roberts, of Riggs National Bank, and Mrs. Roberts will leave Thursday for a three week's motor trip through Virginia, North Carolina, Pennsylvania and New England.

Vice President Francis G. Addison, jr., Security Savings & Commercial Bank spent the week-end at Point Lookout, Md.

Eugene E. Thompson, senior partner of the firm of Crane, Parris & Co., who has been a patient at Garfield Hospital, has been removed to his home in Wesley Heights, his condition being greatly improved.

Walter S. Penfield, international lawyer and director of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., has sailed for an extended trip to Norway and Sweden. He will be gone until September.

LISKA'S WILD PITCH GIVES WHITE SOX 4-2 VICTORY

ECHOES FROM THE FIGHT CAMPS

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK, July 15.—There will be another prize fight at the Yankee stadium in the interests of charity on Thursday of this week, the principals being Tommy Loughran, the light heavyweight champion, and James J. Braddock. Both boys contributed much to the social and financial failure of the Tunney-Heeney exhibition one year ago by tagging the party of the second part, Thomas Heeney, the crushed rock of New Zealand, on his chin in training exercises, and knocking him temporarily irresponsible.

Braddock contributed more to the ruin of Tex Rickard's last big presentation than Loughran did, however, because he selected a most inopportune time and the most inauspicious circumstances for his breach of custom. It was James who hit Heeney on the chin in the presence of Mr. Rickard's personally conducted party of well-to-do millionaires and fine people on the Sunday last preceding the contest with Mr. Tunney causing consternation among the stockholders of the Madison Square Garden Corporation.

Their consternation will be remembered to have been well taken, as the customers reflected that if Heeney could not protect himself against a sparring partner weighing 165 pounds Mr. Tunney's farewell performance would be more properly an execution than a contest. The customers therefore stayed away in large numbers.

Loughran, Not Tunney, Might Have Been Heavyweight Champ.

Prior to this incident, Heeney had boxed a semi-private affair with Loughran in the horse barn at his training quarters. Due to some oversight on the part of Heeney's two boards of managers, Loughran was not advised to deal gently with the challenger's chin. Two years before that he had sparred daily with Jack Dempsey in Atlantic City and although his impudence toward the falling champion at that particular time should have been significant, most people thought Dempsey was merely tolerating these liberties.

Before the end of round one of the battle of the Sesquicentennial it became apparent that Loughran's disrespect for Dempsey had been quite sincere and thoroughly justified. In a ten-round match with fighting gloves, Loughran might have won the heavyweight championship of the world himself, in which case he could have abandoned the light heavyweight championship.

Loughran Laid Crushed Rock Low in Horse Barn.

However, the young sparring partner's abilities were first underrated and then, in the excitement over the installation of the first really refined heavyweight champion, forgotten. Forgotten, also, was the fact that Loughran had fought Tunney only slightly less than even, himself, in a ten-round bout when he was comparatively green and Tunney was a ten-year-man of the ring.

Thomas Heeney's two groups of managers, the Brothers Harvey and the Brothers Mortimer, were so engrossed in out-managing one another that they forgot all these significant details of Loughran's career when he was invited to box with the Crushed Rock in the horse barn. And I have it from Mr.

Tilden, Hunter Again Named By U. S.

Selected for Singles; Van Ryn-Allison to Play Doubles.

Lott and Hennessey Ignored for Davis Cup Positions.

By TED VOSBURGH,
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

NEW YORK, July 15 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden and his old comrade, Frank Hunter, were named today along with the fiery youngsters, John Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, to carry America's colors into action against Germany in the interzone Davis Cup tennis final, starting this Friday at Berlin.

Establishing something of a record for long distance master-minding, the Davis Cup committee of the United States Lawn Tennis Association officially nominated this new "big four" and immediately cabled the American expeditionary forces in Europe to that effect.

Although Chairman Joseph W. Wear, of Philadelphia, and his fellow committeemen availed themselves of their privilege of withholding the exact lineup until 24 hours before the three-day series begins on Friday, the general supposition is that Tilden and Hunter, the country's first and second ranking players, will be used in the singles, with Van Ryn and Allison playing in the doubles.

Hennessey and Lott Are Out Unless Change Is Made.

The brilliant combination of Van Ryn, the dashing captain of Princeton's tennis team last year, and Allison, former intercollegiate champion from the University of Texas, had been considered an almost certain choice for the Davis Cup assignment since they won the classic British doubles crown, but the selection of Tilden and Hunter came as a surprise.

So far as the inter zone final is concerned, the latest move leaves George Lott, of Chicago, and John Hennessey, of Indianpolis, entirely out of the picture. There still is a chance for them to see action against France in the challenge round, provided their mates can eliminate the Teutons. This decision battle is scheduled for July 26, 27 or 28 at Paris.

Tilden and Hunter Both Are Far Past Prime.

In deciding in favor of Tilden and Hunter as the team mates of Van Ryn and Allison, the committee cast its lot on the side of experience and paid Germany the compliment of using this country's most formidable veterans. Big Bill is 36 and a slower, less dependable player than when in his prime, while Hunter is only a year

Almost the Naked Truth

By JAMES S. COLLINS

NEW YORK, July 15.—Announcement of the make-up of the United States Davis Cup team today had tennis tongues wagging all over town. The appointment of Bill Tilden was not unexpected, but the selection of Frank Hunter to the exclusion of George Lott was something of a shock. A large school of tennis followers has avocated the selection of Lott and John Hennessey in preference to Tilden and Hunter, largely because of the experience the younger players would derive and which would stand them in good stead when that day comes, as it must soon, when they will replace the waning veterans, Tilden and Hunter, as American tennis standard bearers.

Another group has urged that selections be made solely with reference to this year's series and that apparently is what Capt. Fitz-Eugene Dixon, the American team leader, has done. He has been with all the candidates constantly and is in a better position to judge their form. Hunter, as everyone knows, is a great match player—a fighter to the finish—and that quality probably was the determining factor in his selection.

Tilden Demanded Hunter's Choice On Team, Was Report.

Whatever may have been the reasons behind his selection over Lott, it is bound to evoke bitter criticism. At the time Tilden and Hunter sailed for England, it was reported that the former had made it known that he would refuse to play in the Davis Cup matches unless Hunter did. Plausibility was lent to the report by the fact that Bill and Frank are closer than the Smith brothers ever were and the additional fact that on previous occasions Tilden has insisted on imposing his own wishes on the Davis Cup committee. Of course, Tilden can not speak these days with quite so much authority as he used to, but his wishes still carry weight and undoubtedly he urged Hunter's selection.

This department hears that announcement of the selections was accelerated by Tilden. The veteran is said to have cabled tennis officials here that he was considering newspaper offers to report the Davis Cup matches and wanted to know at once where he stood, since under the amateur rule he could not report for a newspaper any tournament in which he himself was playing.

Results of German Matches May Cause Shift.

Of course, the fact that Tilden and Hunter in the singles and Van Ryn and Allison in the doubles have been nominated as the team to oppose Germany in the interzone final does not mean necessarily that this same team will oppose France in the final, granting that the United States team gets past the Germans. Teams are named for a single series. If any of the players falter against the Germans he probably will be yanked in favor of Lott or Hennessey for the big doings against the French.

If Van Ryn and Allison meet the French doubles team in the final, they are very unlikely to repeat the victory they scored over the Frenchmen at Wimbledon. On that occasion they defeated Cochet and Brugnon. Defeating Cochet and Brugnon is quite a

No. 20 by Ruth In 9th Beats Detroit

Triumph Cuts Margin of Lead to 8 Games as Macks Divide.

DETROIT, July 15 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The New York Yankees' habit of making errors threatened to wreck them today, but the wreck finally happened on the other track, the Tigers being derailed. The score was 7 to 6 and it evened the series, with two more games for the Hugmen here.

Ruth's bat threw the switch and caused the pile up of the Bucky Harris special, the aged ex-invalid propelling a drive to the far center-field reaches of Navin Field in the ninth and beating the relay throw to the plate for his twentieth homer of the season and the run that was the margin of victory.

Ruth also made a single and a double, scored two earlier runs and drove in another. He was the big bertha in the Yanks' fourteen-hit assault against Owen (Holy Cross) Carroll that squared things for what Uhle did to the Yanks Sunday.

There were three Yankee misplays, just as on the day before, and all helped the Tigers and made the debut of Roy (Albright College) Sherid as a starting pitcher a nerve-wracking experience for the juvenile of Huggins' staff. Sherid pitched seven frames be-

Cleveland, Ohio, July 15 (A.P.).—Fine pitching by George Earnshaw enabled the Athletics to get an even break in their double-header here today and they took the nightcap, 4-0 after the Indians had slugged out an 8 to 5 victory in the first game.

Pirates Defeat Braves In 11th; Earl Clark Hurt

Boston, July 15 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh Pirates took the Braves into camp here today, winning, 5 to 4, in eleven innings. The winning run was scored on Comorosky's infield hit, Bartell's sacrifice and Sisler's muff of Clark's fly back of first base. Brandt held the Pirates to seven hits.

Centerfielder Earl Clark, of the Braves received a hand injury in the first inning when hit by a pitched ball. Johnny Cooney, pitcher, replaced him.

Court Awards Cyril Tolley $5,000 For Unauthorized Picture in "Ad"

LONDON, July 15 (A.P.).—A likeness of Cyril Tolley making a golf shot, accompanied by a limerick in which a caddy expressed full approval of the performance, appearing in an advertisement will cost a firm of chocolate manufacturers £1,000 sterling.

The British amateur champion sued the chocolate makers on the grounds that the advertisement would suggest that he had been paid for it, which would impair his amateur status in golf, and that his standing as stock broker was in jeopardy since it is against the rules of the stock exchange to advertise. A verdict for the plaintiff was promptly returned. The damages were for "loss of reputation."

There was no statement as to what disposition the title holder will make of the money, although it was suggested he could keep it with propriety and without endangering his amateur standing in golf. With attorney's fees deducted it was estimated he would have just about enough left to pay his expenses to California in August to play in the amateur golf championship of the United States, beginning September 2.

Tolley won the British title for the second time last month. He was the champion first in 1920. A man of great stature, he is one of the longest drivers in the game. He holds the British military cross, and is a member of 23 British golf clubs.

Cubs, Twice Outhit, Win Pair From Phils

Philadelphia, July 15 (A.P.).—The Chicago Cubs defeated the Phillies in both ends of today's double-header and reduced the Pirates' lead to two and one-half games. The scores were 9-8 and 7-6. Chuck Klein collected three home runs, getting two in the first game and his twenty-sixth of the season with the bases loaded in the eighth inning of the nightcap battle. The Phillies out-hit the Cubs in each game.

The Cubs' home run swatters were Hack Wilson, in the opener and Cliff Heathcote in the last. Wilson in the first game made his nineteenth homer of the season.

EASY VICTORY BY KING AND MITCHELL

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., July 15.—The Middle Atlantic doubles tournament began today on the grass courts at the Baltimore Country Club with three of the four seeded teams turning in victories. The No. 2 team of the Jacobs brothers, Eddie and Billy, did not compete, but is expected to toe the match tomorrow against E. S. King and F. Hammond.

Three Washington pairs played and only one—Dooley L. Mitchell and Gwynn King, the defending champions—will remain over for further competition.

Mitchell and King met Edward Kripenkerl and Frank Roberts and the former won in four sets. After looking at the scores of the last three sets, it appears as if the Washingtonians used the first merely for warming up exercise. The count was 6 to 4 in favor of the Baltimoreans. Then the champions ran out the match, 6—1, 6—2, 6—2.

Burwell-Thompson Win Only Four Games.

James Carey and F. Barton Harvey played superb tennis against Robert Burwell and Stanley Thompson, of Washington, and won with the loss of only four games. Then John A. Magee and Warren K. Magruder seeded No. 3, put the other Washington team—William Seidel and Pat Deck—out of competition by losing only four games.

FIRST ROUND.

Dooley L. Mitchell and Gwynn King, Washington, defeated Edward Kripenkerl and Frank Roberts, 1—6, 6—4, 6—2, 6—2.

John A. Magee and Warren K. Magruder defeated William Seidel and Pat Deck, Washington, 6—1, 6—2, 6—1.

L. Ferd Turnbull and Malcolm N. Oates defeated Ray Farber and Louis Levin, 6—2, 6—1, 6—4.

MATCHES TODAY.

Giants Pound Sherdell To Down Cards, 7 to 2

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—Despite injuries to several valuable members of their team, the Giants scored an easy victory over the equally battered St. Louis Cardinals today. The score was 7 to 2. The Giants pounded their former jinx, Wee Willie Sherdel, for 13 hits, bunching ten of them in two innings for all of their runs.

Jack Scott pitched his second complete game of the year, holding the Cards to seven safe hits and contributing a double and a single to his victory.

LANE ALLEN, 25 TO 1, SCORES IN ARLINGTON FEATURE

Golden Prince Second by Length

G. Collins' Horse Pays $51.70 Mutuel in the Westshore.

Valkyr Gallops Field Dizzy to Win Empire Feature.

CHICAGO, July 15 (A.P.).—G. Collins' Lane Allen, scantily backed at 25 to 1, showed his heels to a field of fair handicap runners today as he won the West Shore Handicap—the feature race at Arlington Park.

Evidently because he finished sixth the last time out, Lane Allen was neglected by the "wise boys," the result was he paid his scattered backers $51.70 for a $2 mutuel ticket. One length back of the Collins' color bearer came the favorite, Golden Prince, while two lengths farther to the rear trailed Cross Co, the 5-year-old mare from the Wild Rose Farm, which finished third.

Lane Allen, which jumped into a long early lead, covered the mile and one-eighth of fast going in 1:51 2-5. The win was worth $1,300 to his owner.

Sharing honors with the Collins' 4-year-old colt was the 16-year-old apprentice rider, Paul Neal. Neal further increased his lead over Elmo Shropshire for riding honors on Western tracks by booting home two winners. He was astride Jack Hawksley, which won the sixth race, and Banset, victor in the seventh event for 3-year-old fillies and up.

Empire City Race Track, July 15 (A.P.).—G. A. Cochran's Valkyr, favorite, showed her heels to some fair handicapper horses when she won the Brouxville Handicap, at a mile and a sixteenth here today. The race was worth $975 to the winner and it brought out a good field. Distraction, under 126 pounds, finished second with Sun Forward third. The start was bad. Recreation was left standing while Spanish was away so porly that he had no chance. Sun Forward broke fast but Valkyr rushed to the front under steady restraint. She galloped the field dimsy and won by a length and a half. Distraction beat Sun Forward a length for the place.

CONTENDERS UNCERTAIN FOR WEEK-DAY CITY SERIES

Races Heated In 6 Leagues At Present

Few First-Half Winners Likely to Cop in Second.

HEATED battles are being waged in most every instance in the various week-day baseball leagues in their races for final contention in the annual week-day eliminations to be held this year like last, on the Terminal Y. M. C. A. diamond beginning August 19. Although none of the leagues have decided their championships as yet, all of them, with the exception of two, have teams fighting for honors which the winner will carry with it in the series for the city series championship.

Of the six circuits now functioning, only the Calvary Baptist Nine of the Georgetown Church League and the Naval Hospital Nine of the Departmental League, seem sure of their titles for entrance in the series to come. The other leagues, namely, Industrial, Government, Terminal Morning and Terminal Evening, have two or more teams waging fights for final honors.

Second-Half Leaders Fight To Hold Their Own.

All of the leagues play with the split schedule. In most every case, the teams which have won in the first half have failed to carry on in the second, with the result that the second half leaders are playing all the harder to win their end of the schedule for a chance to represent their league finally in play-offs which will be necessary to decide the league champion.

In the Industrial League, the Washington Gas Light Co. Nine won the first half schedule. The Thompson's Dairy Nine is the leader now in the second half which means that, should it win the second half, it will play Washington Gas Light for the league championship.

The same situation prevails in the Government League. Navy Yard won the first half of the schedule easily only to fall back and watch the Government Printing Office nine take all the honors from the start of the second half. A play-off will have to be arranged here to decide the final winner. In the Terminal Evening League, Pullman and Express will have to play a set of games to decide the title, as the former led the pack after the first half while the latter leads the second half by a wide margin at present and bids fair to win it.

Potomac Yards Displaced in Terminal Morning League.

Potomac Yards won the first half championship in the Terminal League, while it has led the second half schedule all the way until yesterday when it was defeated by Washington Terminal, who moved into the lead from second place. Potomac Yards now rests in second place. Uncertainty as to the final winner in this second half race makes for an interesting fight and a probable play-off should Washington Terminal continue to win.

All of the leagues will have finished their entire schedules by August 1 and play-offs, where they will be necessary, will be held the first two weeks of the month prior to the opening of the championship series. Just before the opening, a meeting will be held for representatives of all of the league winners to make final plans for the series and to arrange the schedule.

Pare, Defending Title, Wins 1st Round Match

Chicago, July 15 (A.P.).—Keith Gledhill, Santa Barbara star, advanced to the second round of the singles competition in the western championships at Scioto Country Club today, defeating Dallas, Chicago, 6—0, 6—1.

Frank Donovan, Detroit, advanced when Edwin Haerle, Chicago, defaulted.

The first lights have been installed to illuminate the tennis courts in Potomac Park for play at night. Lights like those pictured above are to be also installed on the west side of the courts. The installations will be completed in the near future and the courts opened to the public for play at night. It is planned to illuminate other public courts if those being installed at the Potomac Park courts prove practicable.

Sacramento Releases Severeid and Crandall

Sacramento, Calif., July 15 (A.P.).—Henry (Hank Severeid and Otis (Doc) Crandall, two veterans of the major leagues, were released outright today by Sacramento of the Pacific Coast League.

Severeid has been catching for Sacramento since 1927, coming from the New York Yankees after a successful performance in the world's series against St. Louis. Crandall joined the club last year as relief twirler and coach.

The players were released because lack of attendance forced a retrenchment policy, the club management announced.

New German Heavy, Dr. Haymann, in U. S.

New York, July 15 (A.P.).—Dr. Ludwig Haymann, German heavyweight boxer, arrived here today aboard the Albert Ballin in search of boxing fame and fortune. He was met at the pier by Tom O'Rourke, American handler of boxers, under whose management he expects to fight here.

Haymann is a graduate of the University of Munich and holds the degree of doctor of politics and philosophy. He is 27 years old, weighs 192 pounds and is 6 feet 1 inch tall. Haymann said he had fought 50 times in the last three years, winning most of his bouts, but he lost a decision to Phil Scott, of England, last May in London.

Doeg Wins 2 Matches At Longwood Bowl Nets

Brookline, Mass., July 15 (A.P.).—John Doeg, of Santa Monica, Calif., America's eighth ranking tennis player, today gained the third round of the thirty-seventh annual Longwood Bowl singles tournament, despite ragged play.

The Californian, seeded second, was forced down into extra set matches by Robert M. Ryan, of Fort Worth, Tex., who was eliminated, 6—4, 3—6, 6—2, and Edward S. Tarangioli, of New York University, who carried matters along to a 6—2, 4—6, 6—1 finish.

LINCOLN POST WINS FIRST SERIES

Legion Baseball Head Splits Season Into Two Halves.

LINCOLN POST'S nine is the winner of the first half championship of the American Legion baseball series and will meet the winner of a new series, which will be started this week, in three games, starting August 12. So declared W. W. Watt, director of the local series, last night.

The original plan to play the entire schedule through two rounds was set aside and the split series instituted. The Lincoln Post Team was undefeated to date and well out in front.

Second series games will be played as rapidly as possible, Watt stated. All contests must be scheduled before August 4. Games necessarily postponed by rain will be disposed of during the week of August 4-10. The championship series, provided Lincoln Post does not repeat in the second half, will be a best two-of-three affair.

Regional Games at Philadelphia To Start August 15.

As the local championship team has to be selected before August 15, when the No. 10 regional tourney begins in Philadelphia, the remaining games will have to be disposed of rapidly. Saturday, Sunday and some midweek contests will be listed.

Victory and Lincoln teams will open the second half battle Thursday when they clash at 5 o'clock on one of the Monument lot diamonds. The remaining teams will swing into action Saturday and Sunday.

Teams will be required to play as scheduled, Watt announced. Managers of the various teams will be required to inform the secretary of the Capital City League at the sports department of The Washington Post at once when their teams can play. In order to complete the schedule on time all teams will have to play two games each week.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

Answered by JIM BARNES,

Former American Open Champion; recognized everywhere as one of the greatest golfers in the world.

In playing the mashie pitch shot, stand well over the ball and keep the feet fairly close together, making sure that they are absolutely flat on the ground. Work the swing from the knees and avoid overswinging and trying for distance. Use a half swing back, with the left arm controlling all through the swing. Keep a firm grip on the club all through the swing.

Umpire Hart Escapes Terrific Line Drive

FOES GAINED FAME AS SPARRING MATES

Heeney Wasn't Kidding When Loughran Tagged Him.

"My gracious," Mr. Dempsey related when the deficit was written down in red on the books of the corporation. "My gracious but Tex and I were upset about what those boys did to Heeney. The public saw what Braddock did, but, fortunately, there were only a few witnesses when Loughran hit our tigerman. As Thomas went down the Mortimer brothers ran around the ring yelling: 'Now, then, Thomas, old boy, up you go all merry and bright, and stop your fooling, because this is no time to be playing jokes.' The Harvey brothers laughed merrily and remarked that he was just a kid at heart and always cutting up.

"But it depressed Tex and we thought it would serve the best interests of the sport to say nothing about it to the public. But a few gossips mentioned the matter and it was simply impossible to keep up the public curiosity in a man who had been knocked stiff by two light heavyweight sparring partners."

Tommy Eyes Partner's Stakes, Sipping Own Wan Broth.

There is a widespread suspicion that Braddock will succeed to the light heavyweight championship this week, thus permitting Loughran to resume his progress toward the heavyweight title. Loughran's training consists mainly of sitting at the training table with a cup of wan broth before him and gazing wistfully at the steaks provided for his sparring partners. He has been so listless from his dieting that he has not had much strength for boxing, having matured to such an extent that 175 pounds is now 4 or 5 pounds below his natural minimum. At 183 or 180 pounds he is strong and agile, but to make 175 pounds he must take off about 5 pounds of strictly pertinent muscle and flesh rather than so much irrelevant blubber.

Loughran has been in the ring ten years and owing either to the privations he undergoes in making weight or to natural decline or both he has not been at his best for more than a year. He is by specialty a boxer and although beautifully arranged, with big, loose shoulders, his hitting has never been regarded as anything worse than an irritation to a robust opponent.

Braddock Hits and Lets Law of Gravitation Take Course.

Braddock is still progressing and eating with abandon. His specialty has been to hit an opponent on the chin and let the law of gravitation assert itself. In league with the law of gravitation he has dropped a fairly impressive array of colleagues, including Mr. Tuffy Griffiths, of Chicago, who dropped so hard he splattered.

The charity which has been named beneficiary of this contest is called the Fund for the Home of the Daughters of Jacob. The only other noteworthy fight of the open air season was arranged for the benefit of the Milk Fund. The programs for the Gin Fund and the Pension Fund for Unwed Fathers will be announced in due course.

Pare Wins in Defense Of Western Net Title

Chicago, July 15 (A.P.).—Seeded stars swept through the opening rounds of the Western Tennis Association singles without casualty today on the courts of the Skokie Country Club, all overcoming first or second round opponents in impressive style.

Emmet Pare, of Chicago, defending champion and national Clay Court titleholder, drew a first round bye, and romped through his second round engagement with Woods Clarke, Chicago, without the loss of a game.

JEFFERSONS NEED GAME.

Jefferson Firemen want a game for Sunday with some team in the unlimited class. Phone Clarendon 1064-W-2.

2 JR. TEAMS DROP OUT OF LEAGUE

Second Half Schedule Starts Sunday With Eight Teams.

EIGHT of the ten teams which have been battling for the first series championship of the junior section of the Capital City League will carry on into the second half race which gets under way Sunday. The Mardfeldts and Corinthians were the only clubs to withdraw from further hostilities.

The Vic Sport Shop and Lionel nines, which will battle Sunday in a playoff game for the first-half title, the Ty Cobbs, Calhouns, Langleys, C. A. O'Briens, Potomacs and Murphy-Ames are entered in the second series.

All of the clubs, with the exception of the Vics and Lionels, will start the second turn of the wheel this Sunday. The two deadlocked leaders will confine their activities to breaking that grip that they have held on each other throughout the last two months.

Lionels Beat Vics in Only Meeting to Date.

In their lone battle to date against each other, the Lionels conquered the Vic Sport Shop Nine. Manager Koerner and his Georgetown charges are not so confident that they can stop the Curtin-coached nine twice in succession. The latter team is anxious to wipe out the humiliating setback meted out by the Lionels three weeks ago and no better opportunity could be presented than that at hand.

A check of the records of the senior nine of the Capital City League for the first series brings to light the fact that one or more postponed games may have to be played before the Montrose Nine can be awarded the title for the first half. The games involve the Montrose, Try-Me Ace and D. J. Kaufman nines.

Kaufman Nine to Battle Overtime in Extra Games.

The Aces have a postponed game with the Kaufman Team. The Montrosemen played a tie contest with the Budget Boys. In order to settle the matter, the Aces will meet the Kaufmans in a play-off of the postponed game. If victorious in this tilt, the Kaufman Club will not have to meet the Montrosemen.

If the Aces are returned victors against the Budget Boys, the latter team and the Montrose Nine will have to play. In order to tie the Montrose Club for the title, the Aces have to defeat the Kaufmans, and the latter team has to defeat the Montrosemen.

Nats Awarded Giard By Decision of Landis

Chicago, July 15 (A.P.).—Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, commissioner of baseball, today awarded Pitcher Joe Giard, claimed by both the Washington Americans and Atlanta, of the Southern Association, to Washington.

Giard started the season with the St. Paul club, of the American Association. During negotiations for the purchase of the Atlanta club by Washington, the latter club sent Pitcher Archie Campbell to St. Paul, with the understanding that Giard would be transferred to Atlanta.

Commissioner Landis disapproved the Campbell-Giard deal because a major league club can not, under his ruling, transfer players indirectly from one minor league club to another. The deal became a trade between Washington and St. Paul.

After the negotiations between Washington and Atlanta fell through, both teams claimed Giard's services. Judge Landis ruled him the property of Washington, although he had signed with Atlanta. Washington will send Giard to San Antonio, of the Texas League.

THE DOUBLE - - - By EDGAR WALLACE

Dick Staines, department inspector, happens upon mysterious intruders in the deserted London home of wealthy Walter Derrick. One of them, a woman, amazes him by her striking resemblance to Mary Dane, a beautiful nurse whom Dick has lately met at Brighton. Fingerprint experts discover that the sole trace left by the intruder who drugged Derrick's caretaker is identical to one left by the baffling Slough murderer ten years earlier. Dick concludes that the greater portion of the Derrick inheritance must be hidden on the property. He and Derrick search the well-built old house for secret vaults, which they feel certain the old man must have placed there. A few days later Dick discovers in the Derrick home the body of "Lordy" Brown, a character, from whom he has previously rescued Mary Dane on the highway. Dick puts in a phone call for Derrick.

(CHAPTER VIII—Continued.)

"It's all right," said the superintendent. "There's an extension phone in the office up here, and I was just trying it out."

He was still speaking when Derrick's voice was heard.

"Can you come up? It's rather urgent," said Dick. "Do you remember my talking to you about a man called Brown?"

"Lordy Brown—yes. He was about here yesterday, somebody told me. He sent a message in by one of my servants saying he wanted to see me, and why on earth he shouldn't have come to the house I don't know. When I sent out to bring him in, he was gone. Is he in any kind of trouble? The impression I got from my man was that he was tight."

"He's out of all his trouble," said Dick quietly. "He's dead."

"Dead?" Derrick's voice was horrified, incredulous. "Has he met with an accident—when did it happen?"

"Last night." A pause. "In your drawing room."

He heard an exclamation at the other end of the wire.

"You're not joking—did he try to break into the house? You remember, I had my suspicions?"

"I don't know what he tried to do. He was in the house and he was shot."

Another long silence.

"What does the caretaker say? Did he do the shooting? He had a revolver."

"Your caretaker has vanished from the face of the earth," Dick said.

"All right—I'll be up as soon as I possibly can."

"Do you know where the caretaker is likely to be found?"

"I don't. I'm too bewildered even to think of his address."

"Bring Tommy with you," said Dick, but Mr. Derrick had rung off.

Bourke came downstairs at that moment.

"Did you find anything at all in your first search of the room?"

Only for a second did Dick hesitate, and then, putting his hand in his waistcoat pocket, took out the little nursing case.

"I noticed that," said Bourke.

He opened the case with an interested frown, put his two fingers in the pocket, but brought out no card. That was the one piece of evidence that Inspector Richard Staines did not pass to his superior. Why he didn't he could not for the life of him understand. Yet nine men out of ten, and ten women out of ten, could have explained his dereliction of duty in the simplest possible terms.

Dick went back to Weald's house and had a bath and changed and ate a tasty breakfast. By the time he was presentable the first clue came in. It was from the caterer of a cab shelter who had been on duty in the early night and was sitting in the entrance of the shelter talking to a cabman when he had seen the caretaker, whom he knew, come hurriedly across the street. The driver of the first cab on the rank was having his supper. He took the second and drove to King's Cross Station. He said he had to catch a midnight train to the North.

The keeper of the shelter knew him to speak to. Apparently, on some nights, Larkin was in the habit of coming over to the shelter for supper and a chat. He was sometimes there for as long as two hours, and was always loth to return to the deserted house.

"Which convicts him of lying," said Bourke. "He told Mr. Derrick that he never left the building in any circumstances. Has Derrick arrived?"

They were talking in the hall of Weald's house.

"The difference between him and us, Richard, is that he shows it and we don't."

CHAPTER IX.

Dick went into the house and found Derrick walking up and down the shrouded drawing room where the tragedy had been discovered. He was in golfing kit, and apparently when Dick had called him he was on his way to the links.

"No, I didn't tell Weald anything, but he's coming up today. What is your theory, Staines?"

Dick shook his head.

"I have three," he said, "all so ludicrously improbable that I can't risk my reputation for intelligence by telling you one. Nothing has been touched so far as I can see, but it is evident that more persons than one were in this house last night."

"What makes you say that?" asked Derrick quickly.

Bourke saved his subordinate the necessity for replying.

"Obviously," he said, in his gruff way, "the man who shot Lordy Brown was not the same man who tried to save his life—we found him with a big bandage round his chest."

Derrick looked at him, stupefied.

"Where was he?"

Bourke pointed to the exact spot.

"He had a cushion under his head and he was covered with a dust cloth," he said. "Staines, when he saw him, thought it was a roll of carpet or something of the sort."

"Good God!" Derrick's face was pale and strained, and in his eyes was a great bewilderment.

"I can't understand it," he said jerkily. "More people than one—here! What were they doing? It is awful. . . . I don't know what I'm talking about or what I'm doing. I had a feeling something terrible was going to happen. I slept badly last night and had dreams. It must have been your talk of ghosts. Has the ghost been recognized? Who was it?" he asked, when he saw Dick's expression.

"According to Larkin, it was your father."

Derrick's jaw dropped.

"My father?" He almost squeaked the words. "It is incredible. . . . Who said this—Larkin? Larkin's a fool. The man's full of fears and ridiculous fancies." He wiped his wet face. "Did he describe him—the—er—ghost, I mean?"

"Larkin, you mean? Oh, yes, he gave a very lucid and faithful description. He said that he had seen your father many years before and recognized him instantly—partly, I think, by his limp."

"By his limp," repeated Derrick. And then quickly: "But anybody could limp. That would make it easier for some brute to impersonate him. How horrible!" And then, in a more angry tone: "Ghost—I'd like to see that ghost. There's nothing living or dead that's ever scared me. Why didn't the fool tell me? I'd have been up and laid that spook for good."

He spun round on Bourke.

"Now what am I to do, superintendent? How long is this intolerable nuisance to continue? I'm a perfectly law-abiding man. So far as I know I've done no person the slightest injury. If there's gold in this house that they want to find, by gad, I'll give them the run of the house if they'll only come forward! Let them find it and have done with it. I'd put an advertisement in the newspaper to that effect," he said, with a little laugh, "only I should have Lowndes Square crowded with all the treasure seekers in the world and my house torn to ribbons! I don't know what you're going to do, superintendent, but I know what I shall do. I'm going abroad. I'm withdrawing my caretaker—a cursed lot of use he is to me—and I'm giving the ghosts and the gold chasers a free hand to walk where they will."

"Do you think Lordy Brown came into either category?" asked Bourke.

The other shook his head.

"I don't know. I have a suspicion that he knew something about these burglars. From what I remember of him and his record, burglary was not outside his sphere of operations. But I don't know—I'm too coufounded to form even a theory. There is the fact. He was found dead in my drawing room, shot, my caretaker has disappeared——"

The door opened and a detective sergeant came in quickly.

"The Yard have just phoned me that Larkin has been found in Liverpool. He went there by the midnight train."

"Has he been arrested?" asked Derrick.

"I don't know.

The sergeant lowered his voice and said something to Bourke in an undertone, and the superintendent nodded.

"This officer says that the story Larkin tells is that you call him up at half past 11 and told him to catch the midnight train at Liverpool, go to an hotel, and wait for you to arrive in the morning. He said you had a code word.

Derrick nodded.

"That is right—'Peterborough' was the code word. I used it because this sort of telephone trick has been worked before."

"The code word was used and Larkin went out of the house immediately"

Derrick bit his lip thoughtfully and his eyes narrowed.

"That's curious. How could they know?"

"Who knew the code word besides you?" asked Dick.

Derrick shook his head.

"I don't know—nobody, unless I've murmured it in my sleep. As I sleep alone"—he shrugged his shoulders—"I'm beat."

"You did not give these instructions to Larkin?" asked Bourke.

Derrick shook his head.

"Why on earth should I ask this man to go to Liverpool? What business have I there? Obviously somebody wanted him out of the road and that somebody was——"

He looked at Dick and an odd expression came to his face. Dick thought it went a little paler, a little more haggard.

"There was somebody else in the house—you said so. They may have been there all the time; they may have been on the phone."

"And," said Bourke slowly, "they could easily have telephoned from the ground-floor instrument and called up Larkin on the extension. Now, Mr. Derrick, I wonder if you'd give me a few seconds with Staines."

"Have the whole house, my good fellow," said Derrick, once more his genial self.

There was a little table standing in the middle of the drawing room. Dick seemed to remember that when he first came in it was uncovered; when he returned after Bourke's inspection he had found a light cloth laid over it, and the empty flower vase, which had stood there, removed.

"Take a look at this."

"Drop your head sideways against the light—now. Do you see it?"

Dick saw it very distinctly: a thumbprint—a thumbprint he knew by heart. The print of the Slough murderer!

CLARENDON DENIED AID FOR FIRE HALL

Arlington Board Announces Terms for Assisting Building Fund.

LAW LIBRARY IS PLANNED

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

The board of supervisors yesterday refused the appeal made by N. D. Mitchell and William P. Ames for an appropriation of $5,000 to aid in the erection of the new firemen's hall for Clarendon in view of the fact that the Citizens Holding Co. for the Clarendon Community Hall had given the fire department only $2,500 of the $10,000 net profit from the sale of the building.

Despite the strong protest raised by Supervisor E. C. Turnburke, Supervisors Edward Duncan, chairman, and B. M. Hedrick, agreed that if the holding corporation will give the fire department $5,000, they will give a similar sum and erect a firehouse, taking title to it. The agreement is contingent upon the approval of the board on the location and plans for the building.

Oppose Plea to Citizens.

Much discussion took place among the members of the board, Supervisors Duncan and Hedrick expressing very plainly that in their opinion the fire department should receive the $5,000 from the holding corporation and not have to ask citizens in the various communities to pay their share of the additional $2,500.

The board took the view that the funds obtained to purchase the building were raised largely through the efforts of the fire department and that all donations were made with the idea that the fire department was being assisted and not the citizens' association.

William P. Ames appeared before the board and asked consideration on his application for a permit to construct a railroad siding along Lambden Terrace in Rosslyn.

The application has been before the Arlington County zoning commission for more than two months, that body having referred it to the board of supervisors on the grounds that it dealt with the use of streets and not property.

After considering the request of Mr. Ames, the board announced that it will view the proposed location and set a date for a public hearing on the matter.

Approval was given by the board calling for an appropriation of $25 each month for the salary of A. J. Webb, secretary to the zoning commission.

Give Room for Library.

Favorable consideration was given by the supervisors to the request made by State Senator Frank L. Ball and Edgar W. Pumphrey, a special committee from the Arlington County Bar Association, that a room in the courthouse be set aside for the use of a law library which will be provided by the Bar Association.

Chairman Duncan announced that as soon as County Engineer C. L. Kinnier completes plans for the use of the rooms in the building there will be a room set aside for the library on the third floor.

According to present plans, the room now used by the board of supervisors will be turned over to County Treasurer E. Wade Ball, who asks for additional room to take care of the increased business of his office.

Although there was plenty of time to take action as to whether they will appeal the recent decision of a special tribunal in awarding a large section of the county to the City of Alexandria in the annexation proceedings recently completed, the board failed to take action at its meeting yesterday. Indications are that a final decision will be given at the meeting to be held Tuesday, July 30.

Mount Vernon avenue between Frazier avenue and Four Mile Run will be closed today and remain closed to all traffic for two weeks, according to an announcement made last night by Engineer Thomas N. De Lashmutt, who is supervising the work of widening the road for the county.

With the closing of this section of the road De Lashmutt announced that the road beginning from the Military road to Frazier avenue will be opened today with the exception of the short strip from Columbia Pike to the Little Tea House. Traffic by using a short detour up Columbia Pike, going in the rear of the Little Tea House, can get on Mount Vernon avenue again and travel as far as Frazier avenue.

Traffic from Potomac will detour along Hume avenue to the Washington-Richmond Highway to Washington.

Owing to the deep fill made necessary between the Little Tea House and Columbia Pike, it is expected it will be another month before the entire road is opened to traffic.

James B. Taylor, wanted by the District of Columbia authorities on a charge of larceny after trust, was arrested in Arlington County last night by Policeman C. W. Carr.

Taylor, who was arrested on complaint of John E. Minnick, of the Porter apartments, was turned over to the District authorities.

Milford Witts, former secretary of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, was chosen chairman of the annual Red Cross roll call for 1930 by the executive committee of the Arlington County Chapter, American Red Cross, at its meeting last night.

Considering it Clarendon's next move in view of the action of the county board of supervisors refusing to assist in the erection of a new firemen's hall unless the holding corporation of the citizens' association gave to the fire department $5,000 of the money raised from the sale of the community hall, the presidents of the several civic associations meeting last night to consider the matter took no action.

It was announced last night that a special meeting of the Clarendon Citizens Association will be called within the next few days to consider recommending that an additional appropriation of $2,500 to make up the $5,000 be made by the holding corporation.

Dr. Harry Walker, the newly appointed health officer for Fairfax County, assumed office yesterday. It is expected the county health nurse will be appointed at once and that the full-time health unit will be authorized by the county board of supervisors.

Mrs. U. S. Walters, president of the McLean Chapter, American Red Cross, has been appointed by Mrs. J. E. Nickell, of Fairfax, to head the Providence district committee in the antituberculosis campaign. Mrs. L. P. Tayloe will be in charge of the Vienna committee and Mrs. Russell Lynn in charge of the Herndon unit.

Claud O. Thomas, secretary of the Arlington County Electoral Board, issued a statement last night that in accordance with the decision of Attorney General John R. Saunders that all Democrats, regardless of how they voted in the last general election for president will be eligible to vote in the Democratic primary Tuesday, August 6, for governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and candidates to the House of Delegates from Arlington County.

Maj. L. P. Daniel, has been reelected president of the Great Falls Street Citizens Association of Falls Church. Other officers are: R. E. Kendrick, vice president; Charles Gage, secretary, and Joseph Loveday, treasurer.

The association voted to amend its constitution to admit to membership all citizens of the West Falls Church section within the limits of the corporation.

The president appointed the following committee to draft an amendment to the constitution: Charles Gage, Bowie Roberts, Maj. L. P. Daniel, John Bowen and Miss Josephine Stambaugh.

The Edward Douglas White Council, Knights of Columbus, will hold a benefit 500 and bridge party tonight in the auditorium of St. Charles School.

The Arlington Presbyterian Church will hold a reception for its nineteen new members in the church at 8 o'clock tonight, with a program of music, readings and addresses, according to announcement by the Rev. W. F. Wolf, pastor.

HONOR PAID MEMORY OF DEAD MISSIONARY

Requiem High Mass Is Held for Father Gabriel in Cumberland.

CHINESE EPIDEMIC VICTIM

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 15.—A congregation that taxed the capacity of St. Stephen's Catholic Church, Grantsville, Md., was augmented by ten priests who were in the sanctuary at the requiem high mass for the Rev. Gabriel McCarthy this morning.

Father Gabriel, who was pastor of St. Stephen's while a professor at SS. Peter and Paul Monastery, this city, died on May 22 at Hansu, China, where he had been assigned as a missionary of the Capuchin Order. He left here in 1925 for China. Announcement of his death was received here last week. Details are lacking, but it is known that early in the spring he was stricken with typhus and apparently had recovered. However, word from the region in which he was stationed advised of a second epidemic of typhus there which claimed thousands.

Father Gabriel told of the famine which, with the typhus epidemic, might claim millions of lives. He wrote at the time they were able to get but one meal a day, with indications that they would have to cut their fare to one meal every two days. It is thought that he either suffered a relapse of typhus or in his weakened condition was a famine victim. The requiem mass this morning at his former church was a tribute to the love and esteem in which he was held throughout the county.

The Rev. Father Clarence, present pastor of St. Stephen's, was celebrant, assisted by the Rev. Joseph A. Weber and the Rev. Gerald J. Finan, assistant pastors of St. Michael's Church, Frostburg, as deacon and subdeacon, respectively. The Rev. Henry F. Grabenstein, of St. Cyprian's Church, Washington, was master of ceremonies. The Rev. Thomas J. Lennan, chaplain of the U. S. Army, stationed in Manila, preached the sermon, dwelling at length on the conditions in China where Father Gabriel died. He told of the hardships which Father Gabriel and all missionaries endure.

The fact that Hansu is in the far western section of China and that word from the area takes 33 days to reach the coast was given as the reason no details of Father Gabriel's death have been received.

3-State Organization Of Jewelers Is Planned

Special to The Washington Post.

Danville, Va., July 15.—A movement looking to the merging of the Virginia Retail Jewelers Association with those of North Carolina and South Carolina was launched today at the opening of the twenty-first annual session attended by nearly 100 Virginia dealers. W. G. Frazer, of Durham, N. C., president of the National Association, indorsed the movement for a tri-State merger and a vote will be taken tomorrow on Virginia meeting with the Carolina's organizations next year at Greensboro.

Today's sessions were devoted to the hearing of reports from officers, these reflecting a gain in membership. The annual banquet was held tonight and the evening devoted to social diversions. A series of trade discussions and resolutions will be heard and officers will be elected before an adjournment tomorrow.

Well Known Man In Petersburg Dies

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., July 15.—Edward Williamson Butcher, vice president and general manager of the Petersburg Insurance Co., Inc., died at his home here this morning after a long illness. Mr. Butcher was a native of Petersburg, having been born here September 10, 1850. For more than 50 years he has been identified with the Petersburg Insurance Co. and with the Petersburg Savings & American Trust Co., of which he was secretary at the time of his death. During the greater part of his life Mr. Butcher was active in insurance work and was prominent in his profesion throughout the Eastern part of the United States.

He was one of the most prominent business men and churchmen of Petersburg. For many years he has been a steward in Washington Street M. E. Church, which position he held at the time of his death.

Mr. Butcher is survived by his wife, Mrs. Nannie William Butcher, of this city; a brother, William E. Butcher, of Washington, D. C., and the following children: E. W. Butcher, jr., Mrs. J. M. Culbrith, Mrs. R. H. Gilson, Miss Ida May Butcher and Robert G. Butcher, of Richmond; Mrs. W. G. L. McClure, of Norfolk, and W. L. Hamilton, of Burkville.

Frederick County Man Stabbed During Quarrel

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., July 15.—Joseph Wedlock, colored, was fatally stabbed early today near Cedar Hill, a negro settlement of Frederick County, during a quarrel with James Jones, also colored, who escaped before the sheriff reached the scene, and has not been located. The motive had not been established, as negroes questioned by authorities professed to know nothing about it. A dance had been held and several negroes said they found Wedlock dead in the rear of a pavilion.

Westernport Man Marries.

Westernport, Md., July 15 (Special). Carl Rankin, son of Postmaster and Mrs. John Rankin, of Westernport, and Miss Marian Hunter were married today in Chicago. They will arrive here on a visit tomorrow evening. Mr. Rankin met his bride at Chestertown, Md., while they were students at Washington College. At that time her home was at Vineland, N. J., but later her family moved to Chicago. Mr. Rankin holds a position in Chicago.

VIRGINIA WILL GIVE TOUR FOR EDITORS

Press Association Members to Celebrate Opening of New Road.

GOVERNOR WILL ATTEND

Danville, Va., July 15 (A.P.).—The "Know Virginia tour" promises to be an outstanding event in connection with the annual convention of the Virginia Press Association to be held here Thursday and Friday.

The tour will follow the convention on Saturday. It is planned to have the entire delegation attending the convention visit Martinsville and Bassett, Va., and Leakesville-Spray and Reidsville, N. C. In Martinsville the delegates will participate with others in the celebration planned for the opening of the through-State road, route 311.

This celebration will be attended by Gov. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia and Gov. Max Gardner of North Carolina. W. Y. Morgan, president of the Virginia Press Association, will be one of the speakers at the road ceremonies.

The press delegates will arrive in Martinsville about 1 p. m. The program will begin at 2 p. m. at Liberty Heights, where a luncheon will be served. John R. Smith, of Martinsville, will be toastmaster. The party will be in command of H. B. Trundle, manager of the Danville Register and Bee.

Addresses will be made by J. C. Latimer, of Farmville, on "The Duty of the Press to the People;" W. M. Myers, of Waynesboro, "The Duty of the People to the Press;" J. P. Fishburn, of Roanoke, "The Relation of the Press to the State;" Paul Scarborough, of Franklin, on "The Relation of the Press to Industry," and A. A. Booth, on "Piedmont Virginia."

After luncheon the guests will be taken for a ride through the industrial sections of Henry County. The party will leave Martinsville about 3 p. m. for Leakesville-Spray, N. C., where a special display of textile products will be made. Light refreshments will be served. A special program also is being completed for the visitors at Reidsville.

The program of the Virginia Press Association convention provides for addresses by L. S. Kelly, of the H. K. McCann Co., advertising chairman of the Eastern division, 4-A County Newspaper Committee; H. L. Williamson, secretary, Illinois Press Association, and editor the United States Publisher; C. H. Morrisette, State tax commissioner; Marvin W. Myers, Waynesboro News, vice president for Virginia N. E. A., and Louis I. Jaffe, editor of the Norfolk Virginian-Pilot.

Hearing Postponed In Peculation Case

Grand Jury Will Go Ahead With Embezzlement Inquiry, Avers Attorney.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., July 15.—Preliminary hearing of charges of embezzlement against Arthur G. Jones, president and general manager of the Arthur Jones Woolen Mills Corporation, was postponed today on motion of defense counsel until Wednesday, and his $10,000 bond was renewed.

Jones is charged specifically with embezzlement of about $2,600. Regardless of the postponement in magistrate's court, the July grand jury tomorrow will take up charges against Jones, it was indicated at the office of Commonwealth's Attorney James P. Reardon. Eight indictments against Jones have been prepared by the prosecutor, one of which contains fifteen counts. The exact character of the charges was not disclosed. It is expected the grand jury will devote most of the day's session to examination of witnesses.

Many of the indictments, it was said, link the name of Max Krol, former vice president, treasurer and general selling agent of the corporation, with that of Jones. A warrant for Krol's arrest was forwarded last week to New York City, but authorities there reported he could not be found at the address given them.

Two Men Are Wounded In Duel With Shotguns

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., July 15.—Two residents of Schuyler, Nelson County, employed shotguns to settle a dispute Saturday night. Robert Anderson, 55, is in University Hospital with a load of buckshot in his abdomen and Shirley Gentry, son of John H. Gentry, a neighbor, is wounded by a number of small shot which he received when he and Anderson shot it out about 7 o'clock that night. Anderson is seriously wounded. Gentry's condition is not regarded as critical.

VIRGINIA'S POTATOES FIND BIGGER MARKET

$4 PRICE MAY INCREASE

Accomac, Va., July 15 (A.P.).—Higher prices this season have again made the Eastern Shore's famous Irish potatoes money-makers. Approximately 60 per cent of the crop in the two Eastern Shore counties, Accomac and Northampton, has been dug and the price has mounted to $4 with indications of getting higher.

The leading growers, business men and the majority of the farmers feel that this situation has been brought about by many factors, chief of which was the general willingness to reduce the normal acreage. Apparently the number of State, interstate and national potato conferences held to reduce acreage and stabilize the crop have had some effect, it was stated by potato growers.

In addition to marketing the crop carefully and without a tendency to glut the market, further economy has been instituted this year through the change in packaging. It has been the custom to ship the Eastern Shore potatoes in the standard barrels containing about 180 pounds when packed.

It was pointed out to the growers and marketing agencies that the public demand was for a smaller package. This season thousands of 100-pound sacks have been filled at plants here and were rapidly absorbed by the various markets. Better prices were obtained than would have been secured by barreling, it is contended.

For the first time in the history of this section actual merchandising of a farm crop, Irish potatoes, has been initiated. A car containing 2,000 5-pound peck burlap bags was shipped from Snow Hill, Md., to Philadelphia. The success of this venture has established it, in the belief of experts. This method will be continued it is believed, as the large growers and shippers recognize that there is a demand for the household package from the retail trade.

Penniless West Virginian Fails in Suicide Attempt

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 15.—Physicians at a Weston hospital apparently are winning a fight against the insistent desire of Joseph Simms, 69, to leave this world because he is old, penniless and considers himself useless.

Simms, former clerk at the old Bailey House at Weston, a former Lewis County school teacher and widely known in that section, was found in a pool of blood in a room of a boarding house almost dead, having slashed the radial artery in a wrist. He begged the doctors to let him die.

Baltimorean Dies As Boat Capsizes

Girl Escapes Like Fate by Clinging to Craft Caught by Squall on Bay.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 15.—Charles E. Coltrane, 25, of Baltimore, was drowned, and Miss Margaret Kedar, 22 of the same city, narrowly escaped a like fate when a small racing motor boat in which they were enjoying an outing on Upper Severn river was caught in a heavy squall and capsized late yesterday afternoon.

Miss Kedar managed to cling to the overturned craft until succor arrived, but Coltrane, not a very good swimmer, became exhausted and sank, according to his escort.

Miss Kedar was rescued by parties who put out from the shore of Whitney's Landing, near Herald Harbor. Coltrane's body was recovered in thirty feet of water after an hour's search. It was brought to Annapolis and Police Justice Louis M. Hopkins acting coroner, gave a verdict of accidental drowning.

Terra Alta Arranges Homecoming Celebration

Special to The Washington Post.

Terra Alta, W. Va., July 15.—Terra Alta is arranging for a home-coming celebration August 8, 9 and 10 under the auspices of the fire department. It will have been the first celebration of the kind held in this mountain city.

H. H. Parsons, E. C. Arnold, C. B. Linger and Sprague Crane compose the invitation committee, which is busy listing former residents who are to be invited to return for the celebration.

Annual Van Myra Camp Meeting Date Is Fixed

Special to The Washington Post.

Keyser, W. Va., July 15.—The annual Van Myra camp meeting, under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will open at Burlington, this county, on Patterson's Creek, on Friday, August 26, to last ten days. Burlington has of late years come into prominence as a swimming resort.

Dr. F. L. Baker, of Burlington, is manager of the camp meeting and is arranging for occupants of the 40 cottages composing the camp. This will be the twenty-seventh year for the meeting, which will be in charge of the Rev. W. L. Luttrell, evangelist, assisted by the Rev. James A. Johnson, pastor of Grace Church, Keyser, and other ministers of the denomination in this territory. Next Friday has been set apart as clean-up day at the camp.

Police Hunt Pranksters Who Shot Girl's Escort

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 15.—Pranksters who shot Leonard Furner, 16, last night as he was escorting his sweetheart home from church, were being sought today by police. It had been prearranged to frighten Furner by shooting the gun so he would desert the girl. Owing to the darkness, Furner received the full discharge of the shotgun in his chest and arms. He is now in a hospital here.

Garrett County Lawyers Elect.

Oakland, Md., July 15 (Special).—The Garrett County Bar Association at its annual meeting elected Asa T. Matthews as president; Stuart F. Hamill, vice president, and E. R. Jones, secretary-treasurer. It was decided to have the annual vacation period again this year. It provides for a half-day closing of offices for a period of three weeks, beginning July 22.

Doran and Glass to Speak At Public Affairs Meeting

Law Enforcement Will Be Topic at Round Table Discussion.

Special to The Washington Post.

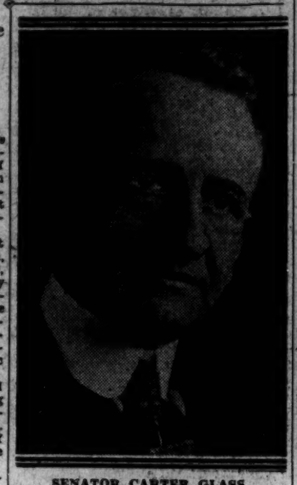
Charlottesville, Va., July 15.—James M. Doran, United States prohibition commissioner, and Senator Carter Glass, of Virginia, will be two of the speakers on law enforcement before the third Institute of Public Affairs which meets at the University of Virginia from August 4 to 17.

In announcing these two important additions to the institute program, Dean Charles G. Maphis, the director, said that the date of the address by Senator Glass had not been set. Commissioner Doran will appear before the round table on law enforcement conducted by Dr. Raymond Moley, professor of public law in Columbia University. He will probably deliver a public address also.

An open forum on prohibition will be held in Cabell Hall on the morning of Thursday, August 15, with Commissioner Doran as one of the speakers. Dean Maphis expects this to be one of the high spots in the program of the third institute.

Prof. Moley will be assisted in conducting the round table on law enforcement by Prof. Hugh Nelson Fuller, of the University of Virginia, who is conducting an investigation of criminal procedure in Virginia for the Institute for Research in the Social Sciences.

The opening round table on law enforcement, set for Tuesday, August 6, will discuss the question, "Is There Such a Thing as Organized Crime?" The second topic on August 8 will be, "Can a Prison Be Devised Which Will Not Breed Crime?" and on August 10 the round table topic will be "Administration of Criminal Justice in Virginia, as Shown by the University of Virginia Survey."



SENATOR CARTER GLASS.

For the second week of the institute, the topic for this round table will be "Taking Politics Out of Criminal Justice" on August 13, and "The Effect of Prohibition on the General Problem of Law Enforcement" on August 15, with Commissioner Doran as a speaker.

Y. M. C. A. FILES SUIT TO COLLECT PLEDGES

Cumberland Citizens Made Defendants for Promises of Three Years Ago.

ACTIONS SURPRISE MANY

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 15.—Considerable interest was aroused here when it became known that a number of prominent Cumberland people were made defendants in suits instituted by Central Young Men's Christian Association to force payment of pledges made three years ago during the campaign to raise funds for the erection of the present half-million-dollar home of the organization.

The suits were hurriedly brought when it was thought payment of the pledges might be outlawed by the statute of limitation, and a number were confronted with notice that suit had been brought before they could be advised that suit would result if they did not pay.

The amount of unpaid pledges runs into many thousands of dollars. It is understood the association looks upon the pledges as akin to promissory notes, that when the campaign was on it was advised by attorneys that those who signed the pledges were legally bound to pay. Most of the suits have been brought by Finley C. Hendrickson and Albert A. Doub, jr., attorneys.

One suit is against a prominent lawyer, who pledged $800, while a coal company is sued for $500 and a professional man for $1,000. A city official who was sued for $500 has since made settlement. Some of the suits name comparatively small amounts. A number of persons who subscribed in the excitement of the campaign claim that since they found they made pledges beyond their means. A number of women are defendants in the suits for various amounts, some for $100 and more.

United Big Vein Coal Property May Be Sold

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., July 14.—Chief Judge D. Lindley Sloan signed an order directing the United Big Vein Coal Co. to show cause, in the case of Joseph H. Trimble, why the court should not grant the petition of William A. Gunter for appointment of a receiver to sell, without regard for the previous receivership filed by Taylor Morrison and F. Brooke Whiting, the property of the company at Mount Savage, for the benefit of the holders of the $100,000 first mortgage bonds.

The petition sets forth that the present receivers have had the opportunity to sell certain portions of the property, but were unable to do so because the first mortgage bonds constituted a lien which prevented giving a clear title to the property. The petition also states that the entire amount of the bonds is now due the holders through default of 21 coupons of $15 each, and that the company stands indebted to Allegany County for five-year taxes in the amount of $10,000.

Oakland Pastor Marries.

Oakland, Md., July 15 (Special).—Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Eula Genevive Mack, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael A. Mack, of Shiocton, Wis., to the Rev. Loyal T. Riley, of Oakland. Dr. Riley, who graduated from the Lutheran Theological Seminary at Gettysburg in May, was ordained a minister at the West Virginia Lutheran Synod in Oakland late that month. The couple will make their home in Millesburg, Ind., where Dr. Riley has accepted a call.

DE PRIEST TO PUSH U. S. ELECTION LAW

Has Bill to Put National Elections Under Federal Boards.

TELLS PLIGHT OF 'PEONS'

Chicago, July 15 (A.P.).—Introduction in Congress of a Federal election law bill is promised by Oscar De Priest, negro Representative from Illinois.

In his first speech in Chicago on national racial questions since his elevation to Congress, De Priest told a negro audience last night his proposed bill would put national elections in the hands of Government election boards. De Priest was introduced as the lone Representative in Washington of the 12,000,000 negroes in the United States.

"I am fighting," said De Priest, "not for social equality but for equality under the law. The prosperous colored folks in the North must rescue the disfranchised black peons of the South before we can say the negro of America is free.

"I am going to continue my tours through the South, notwithstanding threats I have received. I'm going to try to teach the colored people their rights under the constitution."

600 C. M. T. C. Trainees Will Visit Annapolis

Annapolis, Md., July 15.—Opportunity for 600 boys attending the C. M. T. C. Camp at Fort Howard, Baltimore, to see the Naval Academy and Annapolis, has been provided through cooperation of authorities of the naval institution. They will be brought here in two separate parties of 300 each, one on Wednesday and another on Sunday.

Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robinson, superintendent of the Academy, has detailed the mine sweeper Sand Piper, under command of Lieut. Arthur B. Dorsey, to bring the trainees here and return them to their camp.

Rain Floods Highways; Lightning Kills Stock

Special to The Washington Post.

Easton, Md., July 15.—During the heavy electrical storm that swept over Easton and Talbot County yesterday evening lightning killed two horses and four mules of Howard Adams on his farm near Longwood, about 7 miles from Easton. The animals were standing under a shed in the barnyard which was set on fire, but the rain extinguished it before it reached the barn and stables. The rain came down in torrents and the public roads in many places were covered from 1 to 2 feet with water, making travel over them dangerous. Many autoists turned off the road and drove through fields for fear of bridges being washed away.

HISTORIC ALEXANDRIA HOME IS BEING RAZED

HOUSE WILL BE REBUILT

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington st., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 333.

The work of razing historic Colross, the old colonial mansion on Cronoco street, for many years the home of William A. Smoot, father of Mayor William Albert Smoot, was started yesterday. The building, which has been purchased by J. R. Munn, will be carefully dismantled, shipped to Princeton, N. J., and there reerected on a 20-foot plot of ground, situated on a high hill.

The old home, which has fourteen rooms, is probably one of the best constructed buildings in the city, and has withstood the ravages of time for almost 140 years. It was built in 1790 by Joanathan Swift, and at the time was known as Belle Aire. Swift maintained a home there and one in Washington. The building became the property of the Mason family, the high brick wall surrounding the mansion being known as Mason's wall. It then passed into the hands of Mr. Smoot, who made it his home for many years. It was one of the show places of the city and was greatly admired for its architecture.

After the death of Mr. Smoot the house became vacant, and in the last few years has fallen into disrepair. It was purchased by Mr. Munn, and will be completely rebuilt, using all the old materials available, so far as possible exactly as it was originally.

Several months ago the building was damaged by a severe storm, several of the outbuildings being practically destroyed, but the interior of Colross is in an excellent state of preservation, despite its great age.

The Rev. H. S. McFadden, who for several years has been assistant pastor of St. Paul's Catholic Church, Portsmouth, has been appointed assistant pastor of St. Mary's Catholic Church here, succeeding the Rev. M. J. Cannon, now pastor of the new Prince William County parish, with headquarters in Manassas.

The Holy Cross Alumnae of this city will be represented at the annual State meeting of the Virginia Chapter of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, which will meet in Richmond September 2, 3 and 4, by Mrs. Francis H. Fannon, president, and Miss Emily Lannon. Mrs. James T. Preston, jr., and Miss Helen Nugent will be alternates. On July 22 Miss Mary V. Quinn, governor of the Virginia federation, will attend a meeting of the advisory council in Richmond.

Norman F. Lawler, a newly elected member of the Rotary Club, will be in charge of the program at the club's weekly luncheon today in the George Mason Hotel. The president will appoint these standing committees at tomorrow's meeting: Aims and objects, club service, classification, program, fellowship, music, community service, attendance, visiting the sick, public relations, publicity, vocational service, boys' work and Rotary fund.

Policeman Frederick Baker has been appointed station keeper by Capt. W. W. Campbell, and assumed his new duties yesterday. Station Keeper Charles Summs has been assigned to patrol duty. The vacancy on the force caused by the resignation of Policeman Edward Roach has been filled by Capt. Campbell by the appointment of Carl E. Lacey.

The selection of a sergeant to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Sergt. Charles R. McClary has not yet been announced. It is understood several of the patrolmen have taken examinations to demonstrate their fitness, and that the results will be announced shortly.

Funeral services for Mrs. Emma Lucinda Cox, wife of L. L. Cox, who died on Sunday at her home, 805 Franklin street, will be held at 9:30 tomorrow morning from St. Mary's Church, Lyceum Hall, and burial will be in Mount Olivet Cemetery, Washington, D. C.

The case of Arthur Young, colored, living in the 700 block South Columbus street, charged with felonious assault on his sister-in-law, Katie Young, was continued until tomorrow in Police Court hearing yesterday. Young is charged with having fired a pistol at his sister-in-law on Saturday night.

The funeral of Mrs. Blaine Elkins, who died in Paris, France, on July 3, was held yesterday afternoon from Christ Episcopal Church, conducted by the Rev. D. Campbell Mayers, of Middleburg, and the Rev. Dr. William J. Morton, rector of the church. Pallbearers were Dr. Arthur Snowden, Rathbone Smith and John B. Barrett, of this city; Edmund P. Hunter, of Washington; William R. Hitt, of Middleburg; Hayward Spillman, Arthur Charrington and Lee Evans, of Warrenton, Va. Burial was in the Presbyterian Cemetery. A beautiful tribute to Mrs. Elkins was the singing during the services of two hymns by a group of colored singers from Middleburg.

The body of William M. Dulin, who died suddenly on Sunday, will be taken by automobile to Greenwich, Va., his former home, at noon today, the funeral to be held at 2 o'clock at that place.

Ritchie Will Preside At Governor's Parley

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., July 15.—Gov. Ritchie left Annapolis early today for New London, Conn., for the annual governors' conference which opens tomorrow for sessions that will continue through days.

Gov. Ritchie will preside over Wednesday's session. One of the most important subjects to be discussed during the conference will be a uniform law for the extradition of criminals, with a corollary that subpoenas issued in criminal cases issued in one State be effective in other States.
